THE PREFACE.

I Know it is matter of very little Credit to be a Relator of Stories, and I of all Men living, have the least reason to be fond of the Imployment. For I never had any faculty in telling of a Story, and have always had a particular indisposition and backwardness to the writing any such. But of all Relations of Fact, there are none like to give a Man such trouble and disreputation, as those that relate to Witchcraft and Apparitions, which so great a party of Men (in this Age especially) do so railly and laugh at, and without more ado, are resolved to explode and despise, as meer Winter Tales, and Old Wives Fables. Such they will call and account them, be their Truth and Evidence what it will. For, they have unalterably fixt and determined the point, that Witches and Apparitions are things ridiculous, incredible, foppish, impossible; and therefore all Relations that assert them are Lies, Cheats and Delusions, and those that afford any credit to them, are credulous Gulls and silly easie Believers.

The Preface.

Which things, if they should not be so, it would spoil many a jest, and those who thought themselves great Wits, must have the discomfort of finding they are mistaken. They must fall back into common and vulgar Belief, and lose the pretence to extraordinary Sagacity, on which they valued themselves so much, and be brought to be afraid of another World, and be subjected to the common terrours which they despised before, as the juggles and contrivances of Priests and Politicians, and so must see themselves under a necessity of altering their lives, or of being undone. These are very hard and grievous things, and therefore the Stories of Witches and Apparitions must be exploded and run down, or all is lost.

This is the case with multitudes of brisk confident Men in our days, so that to meddle on this Subject, is to affront them greatly, to provoke their rage and contempt, and to raise the Devil of their Wit and Buffoonry. All which considered, it must be confest to be a very bold and adventurous thing to undertake the Province in which I have engaged. And besides the provocation which it must needs give to the Huffers and Wittings, there is another sort whose good Opinion I greatly value; some sober and ingenious Spirits, who upon other grounds doubt of the Existence of Witches, who may be apt to judge me guilty of Credulity, for the pains I take in this matter. This also hath been some trouble and discouragement.

And upon the whole, I am assured before-hand, that no Evidence of Fact possible is sufficient to remove the obstinate prejudices of divers resolved Men, and therefore I know I must fall under their heavy censures; of which I have considered the worst, and am I hope pretty well prepared to bear the severest of them. But no Man would expose himself to all this for nothing, nor have I. There were reasons for this engagement, and they were briefly these that follow.

Having been at Mr. Mompeffons house in the time of the disturbance, seen, and heard somewhat my self, and received an account from Mr Mompeffon, and other credible Persons of the whole trouble ; I was perswaded to Publish, and to Annex the full account of it to the Second or Third Edition of my Considerations concerning Witchcraft, to which the Story had near Relation. This I did, and they passed Two or Three Editions together, without much further trouble to me. But of late, I have heard from all parts, and am amazed at it, that that so strongly attested Relation is run down in most places as a Delusion and Imposture, and that Mr. Mompeffon and my self, have confessed all to be a cheat and contrivance.

Concerning this, I have been asked a thousand times, till I have been weary of answering, and the Questionists would scarce believe I was in earnest when I denied nied it. I have received Letters about it from known friends and strangers out of many parts of the Three Kingdoms, so that I have been haunted almost as bad as Mr. Mompesson's house. Most of them have declared that it was most confidently reported, and believed in all the respective Parts, that the business was a cheat, that Mr. Mompesson had confessed so much, and I the same: So that I was quite tired with denying and answering Letters about it. And to free my self from the trouble, I at last resolved to re-print the Story by it self with my Confutation of the Invention that concerned me, and a Letter I received from Mr. Mompesson (now Printed in this Book) which cleared the matter as to him.

This accordingly I committed to my Booksellers hands some years since to be Printed. But it being not done, I was continually importuned by new Solicitations and Questions, and at length out comes Mr. Websters confident Book, in which he saith, That my Story of the Drummer, and the other of Witchcraft, are as odd and silly, as any can be told or read, and as fictitious, incredible, ludicrous and ridiculous as any can be, p. 11. And again, p. 278. Must not all Persons that are of sound understanding, judge and believe that all those strange tricks related by Mr. Glanvil of his Drummer at Mr. Mompessons house, which he calls the Dæmon of Tedworth, were abominable Cheats and Impostures, as I am informed by Persons of good Quality, they were discovered to be.

But neither did this Confidence, nor his Book (I confess) much move me ; for I was very loth to be troubled any more in this matter. But at last divers Eminent Men, and Learned friends of mine having taken notice of it, and being troubled to see so considerable an evidence against Seducism, as Mr. Mompesson's Story is, so impudently run down by purposely contrived lyes, they urg'd me very much to re-print the Relation, with my Considerations rations about Witchcraft; and so give some check to the Insultation and Confidence of Mr. Webster.

To this I stood long dis-inclined, but being prest by the consideration that such a Re-enforcement might be a very considerable and seasonable service to Religion, against the stupid Saducisme and Infidelity of the Age, I was perswaded: And having signified my being now inclined to the design, I received great encouragement from some of the greatest Spirits of our Age and Nation, who earnestly animated me to it. Having resolved, I bethought me of making a small Collection of the most credible and best attested Stories of this kind that were near and modern, to accompany the Second I had Printed, and to confirm and prove the main Subject.

Mr. Mompesson's LETTER to Mr. Glanvil, Dated Nov. 8. Anno 1672.

Worthy Sir,

MEeting with Dr. Pierce accidentally at Sir Robert Buttons, he acquainted me of something that passed between my Lord of R— and your self about my troubles, &c. To which (having but little leisure) I do give you this account, that I have been very often of late askt the Question, whether I have not confessed to His Majesty or any other, a cheat discovered about that affair. To which I gave, and shall to my Dying-day give the same answer, That I must bely my self, and perjure my self also to acknowledge a cheat in a thing where I am sure there was nor could be any, as I, the Minister of the Place, and two other Honest Gentlemen deposed at the Assizes, upon my Impleading the Drummer. If the world will not believe it, it shall be indifferent to me, praying God to keep me from the same, or the like affliction. And although I am sure this most damnable lye does pass for current amongst one sort of people in the World, invented only, I think, to suppress the Belief of the Being either of God or Devil; yet I question not but the Thing obtains credit enough amongst those, whom I principally desire should retain a more charitable Opinion of me, than to be any way a deviser of it, only to be talk't of in the World, to my own disadvantage and reproach; of which sort I reckon you one, and rest in haste, Concerning the Attestation of Mr. Mompesson and others upon Oath at the Affizes, the same is mentioned also, and their Names expressed in a Letter to Mr. James Collins, which Letter from the Original Copy is as follows.

Mr. Mompesson's LETTER to Mr. Collins, Dated Aug. 8.
Anno 1674.

Sir,

I Received yours, and had given you an earlier answer, had I not been prevented by some journeys. I now give you this; That as to any additional part of the Story, I shall not trouble you with at present, not knowing what is either already published or omitted, in regard I have not any of Mr. Glanvil's Books by me. I never had but one, which was the last year borrowed of me for the use of the Lord Hollis,

Hollis, and is not yet returned. But as to the business of the Assizes (which is likely to work most on the Incredulous, because the Evidence was given on Oath) I shall here enlarge it to you.

When the Drummer was escaped from his Exile, which he was Sentenced to at Gloucester for a Felony, I took him up, and procured his Committment to Salisbury Gaol, where I Indicted him as a Felon, for this supposed Witchcraft about my House. When the fellow saw me in earnest, he sent to me from the Prison, that he was sorry for my affliction, and if I would procure him leave to come to my House in the nature of an Harvest-man, he did not question but he should do me good as to that affair. To which I sent answer, I knew he could do me no good in any honest way, and therefore rejected it. The Assizes came on, where I Indicted him on the Statute Primo Jacobi cap. 12. where you may find, that to feed, imploy, or reward any evil spirit is Felony. And the Indictment against him was, that he did quendam malum Spiritum negotiare, the Grand Jury found the Bill upon the Evidence, but the Petty Jury acquitted him, but not without some difficulty.

The Evidence upon Oath were my self, one Mr. William Maton, one Mr. Walter Dowse, all yet living, and I think of as good Repute, as any this Country has in it, and one Mr. Jo. Cragg, then Minister of the Place, but since dead. We all deposed several things that we conceived impossible to be done by any natural Agents, as the motion of Chairs, Stools and Bed-staves, no body being near them, the Beating of Drumms in the Air over the House in clear nights, and nothing visible; the shaking of the Floor and strongest parts of the House in still and calm nights, with several other things of the like nature: And that by other Evidence it was applied to him.

For some going out of these parts to Gloucester whilst he was there in Prison, and visiting him, he ask't them what News in Wilts. To which they replied, they they knew none. No, says the Drummer, did you not hear of a Gentlemans House that was troubled with the Beating of Drums? They told him again, if that were News, they heard enough of that. Ay, says the Drummer, it was because he took my Drum from me; if he had not taken away my Drum, that trouble had never befallen him, and he shall never have his quiet again, till I have my Drum, or satisfaction from him.

This was deposed by one Thomas Avis Servant to one Mr. Thomas Sadler of North-Wilts, and these words had like to have cost the Drummer his Life. For else, although the things were never so true, it could not have been rightly applied to him more than to another. I should only add, that the before mentioned Witnesses were Neighbours, and deposed, that they heard and saw these things almost every day or night for many Moneths together. As to the Sculpture you intend, you best understand the advantage, I think

Existence of Apparitions, Spirits and

S E C T. I.

The great usefulness and seasonableness of the present Argument, touching Witches and Apparitions, in subserviency to Religion.

THe Question, whether there are Witches or not, is not matter of vain Speculation, or of indifferent Moment; but an Inquiry of very great and weighty Importance. For, on the resolution of it, depends the Authority and just Execution of some of our Laws; and which is more, our Religion in its main Doctrines is nearly concerned. There is no one, that is not very much a stranger to the World but knows how Atheisme and Infidelity have advanced in our days, and how openly they now dare to shew themselves in Asserting and Disputing their vile Cause. Particularly the distinction of the Soul from the Body, the Being of Spirits, and a Future Life are Assertions ex-treamly despised and opposed by the Men of this sort, and if we lose those Articles, all Religion comes to nothing. They are clearly and fully Asserted in the Sacred Oracles, but those Wits have laid aside these Divine Writings. They are proved by the best Philosophy and highest Reason; but the Unbelievers, divers of them are too shallow to be capable of such proofs, and the more subtle are ready to Scepticize away those grounds.
B b this

But there is one Head of Arguments that troubles them much, and that is, the Topick of Witches and Apparitions. If such there are, it is a sensible proof of Spirits and another Life, an Argument of more direct force than any Speculations, or Abstract reasonings, and such an one as meets with all the sorts of Infidels. On which account they labour with all their might to perswade themselves and others, that Witches and Apparitions are but Melancholick Dreams, or crafty Impostures; and here it is generally, that they begin with the young-men, whose understandings they design to Debauch.

They expose and deride all Relations of Spirits and Witchcraft; and furnish them with some little Arguments, or rather Colours against their Existence. And youth is very ready to entertain such Opinions as will help them to phantasie, they are wiser than the generality of Men. And when they they have once swallowed this Opinion, and are sure there are no Witches nor Apparitions, they are prepared for the denial of Spirits, a Life to come, and all the other Principles of Religion. So that I think it will be a considerable and very seasonable service to it, fully to debate and settle this matter, which I shall endeavour in the following sheets, and I hope so, as not to impose upon my self or others, by empty Rhetorications, fabulous Relations, or Sophistical Reasonings, but treat on the Question with that freedom and plainness, that becomes one that is neither fond, fanciful nor credulous.

S E C T. II.

The true stating of the Question by defining what a Witch and Witchcraft is.

I Know that a great part of the Labour in most Controversies, useth to be bestowed on things impertinent to the main business, and by them the Minds of both sides are so confounded, that they wander widely from the point in difference, and at last lose it quite. It would quickly be thus in the Question of Witchcraft, and usually is so, without previous care to avoid it. But I shall take the best I can, that my pains on this Subject be not so mis-bestowed, but closely applyed to the purpose: And in order thereunto shall briefly define the terms of the Question, and then set down what I grant to mine Adversaries, and what I demand from them. And when these Preliminaries are well adjusted, we shall proceed with more distinctness, and still see whereabout we are, and know how far what is affirmed or proved, reaches the main matter in debate.

The Question is, whether there are Witches or not. Mr. webster accuseth the Writers on the Subject of defect, in not laying down a perfect Description of a Witch or Witchcraft, or explaining what they mean, p. 20. What his perfect Description is, I do not know; but I think I have described a Witch or Witchcraft in my Considerations, sufficiently to be understood, and the Conception which I, and, I think, most Men have is, That a Witch is one, who can do or seems to do strange things, beyond the known Power of Art and ordinary Nature, by virtue of a Confederacy with Evil Spirits.] Strange Things, not Miracles; these are the extraordinary Effects of Divine Power, known and distinguished by their circumstances, as I shall shew in due place. The strange things are really performed, and are not all Impostures and Delusions. The Witch occasions, but is not the Principal Efficient ficient, she seems to do it, but the Spirit performs the wonder, sometimes immediately, as in Transportations and Possessions, sometimes by applying other Natural Causes, as in raising Storms, and inflicting Diseases, sometimes using the Witch as an Instrument, and either by the Eyes or Touch, conveying Malign Influences : And these things are done by vertue of a Covenant, or Compact betwixt the Witch and an Evil Spirit. A Spirit, viz. an Intelligent Creature of the Invisible World, whether one of the Evil Angels called Devils, or an Inferiour Demon or Spirit, or a wicked Soul departed ; but one that is able and ready for mischief, and whether altogether Incorporeal or not, appertains not to this Question.

S E C T. III.

That neither the Notation of the Name that signifies indifferently, nor the false Additions of others to the Notion of a Witch can any way dissettle the Authors definition.

THIS I take to be a plain Description of what we mean by a Witch and Witchcraft : What Mr. Webster and other Advocates for Witches, talk concerning the words whereby these are exprest, that they are improper and Metaphorical, signifying this, and signifying that, is altogether idle and impertinent. The word witch signifies originally a Wise Man, or rather a Wise Woman. The same doth Saga in the Latine, and plainly so doth Wizzard in English signify a Wise Man, and they are vulgarly called cunning Men or Women. An Art, Knowledge, Cunning they have that is extraordinary; but it is far from true Wisdom, and the word is degenerated into an ill sense, as Magia is.

So then they are called, and we need look no further, it is enough, that by the word, we mean the Thing and Person I have described, which is the common meaning; and Mr. webster and the rest prevaricate when they make it signify an ordinary Cheat, a Couzener, a Poysoner, Seducer, and I know not what. Words signify as they are used, and in common use, Witch and Witchcraft, do indeed imply these, but they emply more, viz. Deluding, Cheating and Hurting by the Power of an Evil Spirit in Covenant with a wicked Man or Woman: This is our Notion of a witch.

Mr. webster I know will not have it to be a perfect Description. He adds to the Notion of the witch he opposeth, carnal Copulation with the Devil, and real Transformation into an Hare, Cat, Dog, wolf; the same doth doth Mr. Wagstaffe. Which is, as if a Man should define an Angel to be a Creature in the shape of a Boy with Wings, and then prove there is no such Being. Of all Men I would not have Mr. Webster to make my Definitions for me; we our selves are to have the leave to tell what it is that we affirm and defend. And I have described the Witch and Witchcraft, that sober Men believe and assert. Thus briefly for Defining.

S E C T. IV.

What things the Author concedes in this controversy about Witches and Witchcraft.

I Shall let the Patrons of witches know what I allow and grant to them;

First, I grant, That there are some Witty and Ingenious Men of the opposite Belief to me in the Question. Yea, it is accounted a piece of Wit to laugh at the Belief of witches as silly Credulity. And some Men value themselves upon it, and pride them in their supposed Sagacity of seeing the Cheat that imposeth on so great a part of Believing Mankind. And the Stories of witches and Apparitions afford a great deal of Subject for Wit, which it is pity that a witty Man should lose.

Secondly, I own that some of those who deny Witches have no design against, nor a disinclination to Religion, but believe Spirits, and a Life to come, as other sober Christians do, and so are neither Atheists, Sadducees, nor Hobbiſts.

Thirdly, I allow that the great Body of Mankind is very credulous, and in this matter so, that they do believe vain impossible things in relation to it. That carnal Copulation with the Devil, and real Transmutation of Men and Women into other Creatures are such. That people are apt to impute the extraordinaries of Art, or Nature to Witchcraft, and that their Credulity is often abused by subtle and designing Knaves through these. That there are Ten thousand silly lying Stories of Witchcraft and Apparitions among the vulgar. That infinite such have been occasioned by Cheats and Popish Superstitions, and many invented and contrived by the Knavery of Popish Priests.

Fourthly, I grant that Melancholy and Imagination have very great force, and can beget strange perswasions. And that many Stories of Witchcraft and Apparitions have been but Melancholy fancies.

Fifthly,

Fifthly, I know and yield, that there are many strange natural Diseases that have odd Symptomes, and produce wonderful and astonishing effects beyond the usual course of Nature, and that such are sometimes falsely ascribed to Witchcraft.

Sixthly, I own, the Popish Inquisitours, and other Witch-finders have done much wrong, that they have destroyed innocent persons for Witches, and that Watching and Torture have extorted extraordinary Confessions from some that were not guilty.

Seventhly and Lastly, I grant that the Transactions of Spirits with Witches, which we affirm to be true and certain, are many of them very strange and uncouth, and that we can scarce give any account of the reasons of them, or well reconcile many of those passages to the commonly received Notion of Spirits, and the State of the next World.

If these Concessions will do mine Adversaries in this Question any good, they have them freely. And by them I have already almost spoiled all Mr. Webster's and Mr. Wagstaffe's, and the other Witch-Advocates Books, which prove little else, than what I have here granted. And having been so free in Concessions, I may expect that something should be granted me from the other party.

ADVERTISEMENT.

Those that are mentioned in the second Concession, though they are not Atheists, Sadducees nor Hobbists; yet if they deny Witches, it is plain they are Antiscripturists, the Scripture so plainly attesting the contrary.

THe demands that I make are; First, That whether Witches are or are not, is a question of Fact: For it is in effect, whether any Men or Women have been, or are in Covenant with Evil Spirits, and whether they by the Spirits help, or he on their account performs such or such things.

Secondly, That matter of Fact can only be proved by immediate Sense, or the Testimony testimony of others, Divine or Humane. To endeavour to demonstrate Fact by abstract reasoning and speculation, is, as if a Man should prove that Julius Caesar founded the Empire of Rome, by Algebra or Metaphysics. So that what Mr. Webster saith, p.43. That the true and proper mediums to prove the actions of Witches by, are Scripture and sound Reason, and not the improper way of Testimony (which we use in the opposition that Testimony stands to Scripture and sound Reason) is very Non-sense.

Thirdly, That the History of the Scripture is not all Allegory, but generally hath a plain literal and obvious meaning.

Fourthly, That some Humane Testimonies are credible and certain, viz. They may be so circumstantiated as to leave no reason of doubt. For our Senses sometimes report truth, and all Mankind are not Lyars, Cheats and Knaves, at least they are not all Lyars, when they have no Interest to be so.

Fifthly, That which is sufficiently and undeniably proved, ought not to be denied, because we know not how it can be, that is, because there are difficulties in the conceiving of it. Otherwise Sense and Knowledge is gone as well as Faith. For the Modus of most things is unknown, and the most obvious in Nature have inextricable diffi-difficulties in the Speculation of them, as I have shewn in my Scepſis Scientifica.

Sixthly and laſtly, we are much in the dark, as to the Nature and Kinds of Spirits, and the particular condition of the other World. The Angels, Devils and Souls happineſs and miſery we know, but what kinds are under theſe generals, and what actions, circumſtances and ways of Life under thoſe States we little underſtand. Theſe are my Poſtulata or demands, which I ſuppoſe will be thought reaſonable, and ſuch as need no more proof.

Proof

Proof of Apparitions, Spirits, and Witches from Holy-Scripture.

S E C T: I.

The Authours purpose of proving Apparitions and Witchcraft, to such as believe Scripture, as first from the Apparition of Angels.

ANd having thus prepared my way, I come to prove that there are Witches against both the sorts that deny their Existence, viz. Those that believe the Scriptures, and the Wits or Witlings that will not admit their Testimony. To the first I shall prove the being of Witches by plain Evidence taken from the Divine Oracles, and to the other, and indeed to both, I shall evince the same by as full and clear Testimonies, as matter of fact is capable of, and then answer the opposite Objections, and those particularly of the three late confident Exploders of Witchcraft; * Mr. Webster, Mr. Wagstaffe, and the Authour of the Doctrine of Devils.

The Proof I intend shall be of these two things, viz. That Spirits have sensibly transacted acted with Men, and that some have been in such Leagues with them, as to be enabled thereby to do wonders.

These sensible Transactions of Spirits with Men, are evident from Apparitions and Possessions. The Apparition of Angels, their discourses and predictions, sensible converses with Men and Women are frequently recorded in the Scripture. An Angel appeared to Hagar, Gen. 16. Three Angels in the shape of Men appeared to Abraham, Gen. 18. Two to Lot in the same likeness, Gen. 19. An Angel called to Hagar, Gen. 21. 17. and so did one to Abraham, Gen. 22. An Angel spake to and conversed with Jacob in a Dream, Gen. 31. One of the same appeared to Moses in the Bush, Exod. 3. An Angel went before the Camp of Israel, Exod. 14. An Angel met Balaam in the way, Numb. 22. An Angel spake to all the People of Israel, Judges 2. An Angel appeared to Gideon, Judges 6. and to the Wife of Manoah, Judges 13. An Angel destroyed the People, 2 Sam. 24. An Angel appeared to Eliab, 1 Kings 19. An Angel smote in the Camp of the Assyrians 184000. 2 Kings 35. An Angel stood by the Threshing-floor of Ornan, 1 Chron. 21. 15. An Angel talked with Zachariah the Prophet, Zach. 1.

An Angel appeared to the two Mary's at our Lords Sepulchre, Matth. 28. An Angel foretold foretold the Birth of John Baptist to Zachariah the Priest, Luke 1. Gabriel was sent to the Holy Virgin, Luke 1. 26. An Angel appeared to the Shepherds, Luke 2. An Angel opened the Prison Door to Peter and the rest, Acts 5. I might accumulate many more instances, but these are enough. And many circumstances of sensible Converse belong to most of them, which may be read at large in the respective Chapters. And since the Intercourses of Angels were so frequent in former days, why should we be averse to the belief that Spirits sometimes transact with Men now?

ADVERTISEMENT.

* I find amongst Mr. Glanvil's Papers, the first Lineaments or Strokes of an Answer to Mr. Wagstaffe, and to the Author of the Doctrine of Devils, but more fully to Mr. Webster, at least Seventeen Sheets where he answers solidly and substantially where I can read his Hand, but it reaches but to the Sixth Chapter. And in truth he has laid about him so well in these Sheets that are published, that those may well seem the less necessary.

S E C T. II.

The Evasions his Adversaries use to escape the force of these Proofs of Scripture from the Apparition of Angels, with the Authors Answer.

THere are several Evasions, by which some endeavour to escape these Texts; as, First the Sadducees of old, and Familists of later days, who hold, to wit, these, that the Angels we read of, were but Divine Graces, the other that they were Divine Phantasmes created to serve a present occasion, which ceased to be as soon as they disappeared. One would think that none that ever had read the Scriptures, should entertain such a conceit as this, that is so contrary to the account they every where give of those celestial Creatures. But there is nothing so absurd, but some Men will embrace to support their Opinions.

Let us consider a little how differently from this vain Fancy the Scripture describes them. They are called Spirits, an Attribute given to God himself the prime Subsistence, who is by way of eminence called the Father of Spirits, not of Phantasmes. And Spirit

Spirit imports as much Substance as Body, though without gross bulk. We read of Elect Angels, and the Angels that stand before the Throne of God continually, and that always behold the Face of God. Of the Fallen Angels that kept not their first Station, that are held in the Chains of Darkness; and of everlasting Fire prepared for the Devil and his Angels against the Judgment of the great Day. Both had their Order of Superiority and Inferiority, Michael and his Angels, the Dragon and his Angels. We are made little lower than the Angels. In Heaven we shall be as the Angels of God. Of the Day of Judgment knoweth no Man, no not the Angels. Let all the Angels of God Worship him.

Which Descriptions of the Nature, Order, Condition, Attributes of Angels, and infinite more such up and down the Scriptures, are not applicable to Phantasms, but demonstratively prove that the Angels of whose Apparitions we hear so frequently there, were real permanent subsistences, and not mere Phantasms and Shadows.

S E C T. III.

That the Angels that are said to have appeared in Scripture were not Men-Messengers, but Inhabitants of the Invisible World; And whether they ate and drank or no.

BUT were not those Angels that so appeared, special Prophets, Divine Messengers, sometimes in Scripture confessedly called Angels? They did eat and drink with Abraham, and with Lot, by which it should seem that they were real Men. But whoever shall look over the Instances alledged of the Apparition of Angels, and read them in all the Circumstances of the Text, will plainly see that they could not be Men.

Such could not be the Angel that spake to Abraham and Hagar out of Heaven, that conversed with Jacob in a Dream, that appeared to Moses in the Burning Bush, that appeared to Manoah, and ascended, in his and his Wife's presence, in the flame of the Sacrifice, that went before the Camp of Israel, that stood before Balaam in the way unseen by him, that smote the Army of the Assyrians, that appeared to Zacharias in the Temple, and to the Mary's at the Sepulchre.

These

These must be a sort of Beings superiour to Mankind, Angels in the proper sense, who are sometimes in Scripture called Men, because they appear in our likeness.

But whether these do receive refecti^on or sustinence in their own World and State or not, I will not dispute. It is most probable, and it hath been the Doctrine both of Fathers and Philosophers, that they are vitally united to Aetherial and Heavenly Bodies, which possibly may need recruits some such way, and so Angels Food may be more than a Metaphor. But certainly they cannot eat after our manner, nor feed on our gross Dyet, except in appearance only. They may make shew of doing it (as the Angel Raphael told Tobit that he did, Tob. 12. 19. All these days I did appear unto you, but I did neither eat nor drink, but you did see a Vision) but really they do it not. So that when Abraham's and Lot's Angels are said to eat and drink with them, the Scripture speaks as to them it seemed. And so the Jerusalem Targum reads, and they seemed as if they did eat and drink. And we may suppose that Men's Conceptions of Angels were not very refined in those days, nor could they have borne their sensible and free Converse, if they had look't on them as Creatures of a Nature so distant from their own.

And therefore afterward, when they were better understood, those to whom they appeared were struck with great dread and amazement, and thought that they should presently dye. Nor do we, as I remember, read any more of the Angels eating or drinking after what seemed to Abraham and Lot. Indeed Manoah invited the Angel to eat, Judg. 13. 15. but it was before he knew he was an Angel, and it is set down in excuse of the offer, v. 16. For Manoah knew not that he was an Angel of the Lord, implying that the invitation had been absurd if he had known it.

I have said this in answer to the objection, though the main cause is not concerned. For though I should grant that Abraham's and Lot's Angels were Men, yet the other instances in which that could not be said or supposed, are more than enough to carry my point, That real Angels, Inhabitants of the Invisible World, did sometimes sensibly appear.

S E C T. IV.

That Angels are still Ministring Spirits, as well as of old.

BUT it will be said, when they did appear, it was upon Divine Errands, and God sent them to serve the ends of his Government and Providence; which I grant. And God Almighty hath the same ends to serve still, he governs the World now, and his Providence is as watchful as ever, and the Angels are the chief Ministers of that Providence, and Ministring Spirits for our good. The Gospel was ushered in by the Apparition of Angels, and many things done by them in the carrying of it on. And why we should think they may not be sent, and should not appear on occasion now, I do not see. But this is more than I need say yet, being for the first step only to shew, that Spirits have transacted with Men.

S E C T. V.

Proofs from the Apparitions of Evil Spirits, recorded in Scripture.

THose I have mentioned hitherto, have been good and benign Spirits, but evil Spirits have also appeared, and sensibly had to do with Mankind. My first instance of this is one of the first businesses that was in the World, the Temptation of Eve by the Devil in the Serpent. An Argument which those that adhere to the Letter of those three first Chapters cannot avoid. Evil Angels were sent among the Agyptians, Psalms 78. 49. and those passed through and smote the Land. But the Destroyers, viz. the Evil Angels were not permitted to come into the Israelites Houses, Exod. 12. 23. When God asked Sathan whence he came, Job 1. 7. he answered, from going to and fro in the Earth. By Divine permission he raised the great Wind that blew down the House upon Jobs Children, v. 19. and smote his Body all over with Boils, Job 2. 7. He tempted our Saviour in an external sensible way, carrying him from place to place, and urging the Son of God to worship him, Matth. 4. But

But more of this will appear by considering the second head proposed, viz. Possession of Evil Spirits.

S E C T. VI.

Proofs from Possession of Evil Spirits, and that they were not Diseases, as the Witch-Advocates would have them.

THat such Possessions have been, we find frequently and plainly delivered in the History of the Gospel, and so often, that I shall not need to recite particulars. The Evasion that the Witch-Advocates have for this, is, that the Devils and unclean Spirits spoken of in those places, which our Saviour is said to have cast out, were strange and uncommon Diseases, which the Jews thought to be Devils, and Christ who came not to teach Men Philosophy, complied with their deceived apprehension, and the Evangelists speak according to their conceit in this matter. But if this Answer must pass, then in the first place,

Farewel all Scripture, it may be made to say what we please; and if when the Scripture speaks in a plain History of unclean Spirits and Devils, we may understand Dis-

cases by it, then what we read of good Angels may be Graces and Vertues, and what we read of Christ himself, may all be interpreted of the Christ within, and so all the Scripture, and all Religion shall signify what any Man thinks fit.

Secondly, The cure of Diseases is mentioned in many of the Texts, distinctly from the casting out of Devils. Thus Matth. 10. 1. He gave the Disciples Power against unclean Spirits to cast them out, and to heal all manner of sicknesses, and all manner of Diseases. This was a different Power from the former, and all manner of Sicknesses and Diseases implies the uncommon and extraordinary, which our Sadducees would have the Devils to be, viz. Diseases, as well as the ordinary and usual ones are. So Luke 6. 18. He healed them of their Diseases, and those that were vexed with unclean Spirits, were brought to him, and he healed them likewise. And most plainly, Matth. 4. 24. And they brought unto him all sick people, that were taken with divers Diseases and Torments, and those that were possessed with Devils, and those that were Lunatick, and those that had the Palsie, and he healed them. The Mad-men, and those that had the Falling-Sickness, the Distempers which the Witch-Advocates make Devils of, are here mentioned apart, and as distinct from those Devils our Saviour cast out.

Third-

Thirdly, Many things are attributed to those Devils that were cast out, which are not applicable to Diseases. The Devils in the Possessed among the Gergasens, Matth. 8. 16. besought Christ, saying, If thou cast us out, suffer us to go away into the Herd of Swine, and he gave them leave. Mark 5. 8. Sure the Diseases did not beseech him; But perhaps the Men did. Had they a mind to go into the Swine? and did they enter into them? A sort of Possession this, that was never heard of, a Beast possess'd with a Man. But St. Luke tells us, they were the Devils that went out of the Men, and entered into the Swine, Luke 8. 33. The Men did not go out of themselves, and therefore, if what went out was not the Disease, it was really the Devil or unclean Spirit.

So Luke 4. 33. In the Synagogue there was a Man that had a Spirit of an unclean Devil, and cryed out with a loud Voice, saying, Let us alone, &c. Well, but might not this be the Man himself that cryed out so? Therefore read a little on, v. 35. And Jesus rebuked him, viz. him that spake, saying to the same still, Hold thy peace and come out of him. Which must be another Person distinct from the Man himself, and who was that? It follows, And when the Devil had thrown him in the midst, he came out of him, the same Devil that spake; that our Saviour re-

rebuked, and commanded to come out, which could be no other than a real Evil Spirit.

And that those ejected Devils were not Diseases appears further, Matth. 12. v. 22. There was brought unto him, one possessed with a Devil, blind and dumb, and he healed him, insomuch (to wit, the consequence of the ejecting the Devil was) that the blind and dumb both spake and saw. The Pharisees, v. 24. impute this casting out Devils to a confederacy with Beelzebub the Prince of the Devils; our Saviour there argues, that then Sathan should be divided against himself: namely, Beelzebub the chief against the Inferiour Devils that he cast out; who are of his Kingdom, and doing the work of it: For there it follows, that his Kingdom could not stand, v. 26. These things will be hardly applied to Diseases. And,

Fourthly and lastly, If the Evangelist should call Diseases Devils, and unclean Spirits, and speak of casting out Devils in an History, with all the plainness and expressness of Words, and Phrase, and Circumstance, that such an action could be described by, and yet mean nothing of it, what would this suggest, but that they falsely ascribed to Christ wonders that he never did, and consequently that they were Lyars and Deceivers, and vain Impostours? For clear it is, that whoever shall read those passages in the Gospel without a prepossest Opinion, will be led into this belief by them, that our Saviour did really cast Devils out of Persons possest. And if there be really no such thing as Possession by evil Spirits, but only Diseases by the ignorant and credulous people taken for such, then the History imposeth on us, and leads Men into a perswasion of things done by the Power of Christ that never were. And what execution this will do upon the truth, and credit of the whole History, is very easie to understand.

That the Witch-Advocates cannot elude Scripture-Testimony of Possession by Evil Spirits, by saying it speaks according to the received Opinions of Men.

I But the Scripture doth, we know, speak often according to the received Opinions of Men, though they are errours, which it is not concerned to rectify, when they concern no Morality or Religion.

But first, The Doctrine of Spirits and Devils was not the received Opinion of all the Jews: The Saducees a considerable Sect were of another mind. So that the Stories of ejecting such, must look to them as Impositions. And the Scriptures were not written only for the Jews, and for that particular time alone, but for all Places and all Ages. Most of which have no such use of calling Diseases Devils, and among them the History must either convey a false Opinion, or lose the Reputation of its Truth.

Secondly, Though the Scripture doth not vary from the common forms of Speech, where they are grounded upon harmless and lesser mistakes, yet when such are great and dangerous, prejudicial to the Glory of God, and Interest of Religion, it is then much concerned to reform and rectify such errors. And according to the Belief of the Witch-Advocates, the Doctrine of Possessions is highly such. For it leads to the Opinion of Witchcraft, which they make such a Dismal and Tragical Error, Blasphemy, an abominably Idolatrous, yea an Atheistical Doctrine, the grand Apostasie, the greatest that ever was or can be, that which cuts off Christs Head, and Un-Gods him, renounceth Christ and God, and owns the Devil, and makes him equal to them, &c. As the Authour of the Grand Apostasie raves.

And Mr. webster saith little less of this Opinion in his Preface, viz. That it tends to advance Superstition and Popery, is derogatory to the Wisdom, Justice and Providence

dence of the Almighty, tending to cry up the Power of the Kingdom of darkness, to question the verity of the principal Articles of the Christian Faith, concerning the Resurrection of Christ, and generally tends to the obstructing of Godliness and Piety.

And Mr. Wagstaffe loads it with as dreadful imputations in his Preface; As that it doth necessarily infer plurality of Gods by attributing Omnipotent effects to more than one, and that it supposeth many Omnipotents, and many Omniscients. If any thing of this be so, certainly our Saviours inspired Historians would not have connived at, much less would they have spoken in the Phrase, that supposeth and encourageth a common Error, that leads to such an horrid Opinion.

An Answer to an Objection from Christs not mentioning his casting out Devils to John's Disciples, amongst other Miracles.

BUt saith the Authour of the Grand Apostasie, p. 34. our Saviour himself in his Answer to the Disciples of John the Baptist, Luke 7. doth not pretend to the casting out Devils,

30 Proof of Apparitions, &c.

Devils, but only the cure of Diseases, and raising the Dead. To which I say, First, we may not argue negatively from Scripture in such matters, and certainly we ought not to argue from silence in one place, against plain affirmations in many.

Secondly, Our Saviour answers in reference to the things he was then doing, when the Disciples of John came to him, v. 21. And in that same hour he cured many of their Infirmities and Plagues. Evil Spirits, it must be confessed, are also mentioned. Some of those Diseases it is like were occasioned by Evil Spirits, as (Matth. 12. 22.) the blindness and dumbness of the possessed person there was. And then the ejection of the Evil Spirit is implied, when the Disease is said to be Cured.

Thirdly, The business of John's Disciples was to enquire whether he was the Messiah, and it was fit our Saviour in his Answer should give such proofs of his being so, as were plain and palpable. Go your way, saith he, and tell John what things ye have seen and heard, Luke 7. 22. They had heard him Preach the Gospel it is like, and had seen him Cure Diseases. These things were plain and sensible, and could admit of no dispute or doubt. But whether the Distempers Christ then healed, were inflicted by Evil Spirits, and whether those were cast out out in the Cure, did not plainly appear at that time. Our Saviour therefore did not bid them mention that Instance to their Master John, because they could not testify it on their own knowledge, as they could the things themselves saw and heard.

S E C T. IX.

An Answer to two more Objections; the one, that St. John mentions no casting out Devils in his Gospel; the other, that to have a Devil, and to be mad are Synonyma's.

BUT the passionate Witch-Advocate goes on. St. John the Evangelist, who especially sets himself upon the proof of the Godhead of Christ, hints nothing of his ejecting Devils. Which one would think should be no proof, since the other three do; and St. John chiefly supplied what they omitted. And since this Evangelist so particularly sets himself upon the proof of Christs Divinity, he mentions no Miracles, which were the proof, but such as were sensible and indisputable. And our Authour himself after p. 41. saith, That the cure of Diseases was more for Christs Honour, and the proof of his his Godhead, than the casting out Devils could have been. For possibly, saith he, in that, there might have been some probable grounds of the Pharisees Blasphemy, that he cast out Devils by Beelzebub.

So that he answers and contradicts himself at once: For p. 34. he saith, It had been a great oversight in St. John to neglect such an Argument. If such a thing had ever been, this would have proved him to have been God indeed, and his Power paramount above all Principalities and Powers, &c. p. 35. And yet now curing Diseases proves it better, and the casting out Devils will scarce do it at all, since it might, adds he, be in some sort credible, that he did it by favour, connivance, compliance, complotment, which is upon the Borders of the highest Blasphemy.

Again it is alledged by this Writer, that to have a Devil, and to be mad, seem to be Synonyma's in Scripture, p. 35. I answer, Possession begot a certain variæ furor, and madness; and therefore when any were extravagant, the Jews said in common Speech, that they had a Devil, as we do, The Devil is in you, that is, you act unreasonably and madly. But as we do not mean by this Metaphorical Possession to exclude the belief of a real, so neither did they. Yea, the very Phrase, he hath a Devil, or the Devil is in him, applyed to those that act furiously and unadvisedly, doth imply that there is such a real thing as Diabolical Possession, to which madness and extream folly are resembled.

See then how the Patrons of Witches argue, The Jews sometimes used the having a Devil Metaphorically; therefore there are no other Possessions, or therefore all those passages of Scripture, in which they are literally and plainly related, intend no other. Indeed, if we argued from meer words and expressions of having Devils, and casting out Devils, there would be somewhat of more colour in our Adversaries reasoning. But since we infer chiefly from plain circumstances of History and Fact, there is no force at all in it.

The Ignorance of the Authour of The Grand Apostasie, in his interpreting the word Ἀσέβεια.

BUT what doth this Writer mean, when he tells us Ἀσέβεια can scarce signify any thing else properly, but an unusual affliction

affliction from God, such as madness; when all Men and Boys know that Substantively it is the same with Δαίμων Demon, taken already in Scripture in an ill sense for an impure Spirit. Adjectively it signifies sometimes Divinum quid, but so it is not understood in the places we dispute about, Luke 4. 35. When the Devil had thrown him, the possessed Man, in the midst, he came out of him, the word is, τὸ Δαιμόνιον. The same v. 33. is called πνεῦμα δαιμονίου ἀκαθάρτου. By which & the latter circumstances of the History, it plainly appears that τὸ Δαιμόνιον, is to be understood Substantively for a Person, viz. an Evil Spirit. So in the Story of the Devils entering into the Herd of Swine, Luke 8. 33. the word we Translate Devils is τὰ δαίμονια, called v. 29. πνεῦμα ἀκαθάρτων, and the same Matth. 8. 29. δαίμονες. Besides the force of which words, I have shewn that the Story also determines them to a Substantive and Personal meaning.

But the Authour saith, That Δαιμόνιον can hardly with propriety signify any thing else but an extraordinary affliction from God, because of its derivation from δαίμων, p. 37. One would wonder at the confidence of these Men, especially in their pretended Criticisms, by which they would impose what sense upon words they please. Δαίμων it is notoriously known signifies Demon, taken often often in the ill sense, and so particularly in the place newly mentioned, deriving from Salus scio, which degenerates here, as in Saga, Witch, Wizzard and the like, and what then should this Authour by this mean?

S E C T. XI.

Whether there were no feats performed by the Demoniacks in the Gospels, but what Mad-men might perform.

IT is further Objected by this Writer, that there are no Feats Recorded of those supposed Demoniacks, but what Mad-men could perform and often do. In which, he considered not the Spirits in the Possess, in the Countrey of the Gergasens, Matth. 8.29. St. Mark and St. Luke write Gadarens, the Countries lye near together. Josiphus reckons Gadara among the Grecian Cities which Pompey took from the Jews, and according to him the people were mostly Syrians.

In this Country where our Saviour had not been before, nor after, that we read, two possess with Devils, who had lived among the Tombs, out of the Conversation of Mankind met him, and presently cried out; What have we to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of God, art thou come to torment us before the time? Was there nothing now beyond the rate of ordinary Mad-men in this? How did they, who lived in such a dismal solitude among the Tombs, in a place where no Man passed, come to know this was Jesus, who never had been thereabout before, as far as we can hear? Or how came those Mad-men to know, and utter such a great truth, which our Saviour did not presently publish, That he was the Son of God? Did any come near to whisper this in their Ear? or was this a raving fancy only? St. Mark writes (who speaks but of a single Demoniack) that when he saw Jesus afar off, he came and worshipped him. He knew him presently, and understood his true condition before most of the Jews about him; and even some of his own Disciples did. Could a meer Mad-man have done so? But further they expected torment and from him, in the time to come, though they looked not for it so soon. Art thou come to torment us before the time? How applicable is this to the condition of Evil Spirits and their expectations?

We have a like acknowledgement of our Saviour from another unclean Spirit, Mark

from Holy Scripture. 37

Mark- 1. 24. I know thee who thou art, the Holy One of God. And our Saviour in what he saith, in answer plainly, implies it was the Evil Spirit, not the Mad-man that spake, or at least caused the confession. Hold thy peace, and come out of him, v. 25. And that the Demoniacks did things beyond the force of meer Mad-men is further sufficiently declared in the History, Mark 5. No Man could bind him, no not with Chains; because he had been often bound with Fetters and Chains, and the Chains had been pluckt in sunder by him. I would fain know, whether this be not beyond the force of meer natural madness?

of the same suit, and produced to prove out of Scripture the Negotiation of Evil Spi-

S E C T. XII.

Further proof of the Negotiation of Evil Spirits with their Clients from the History of the Magicians of Egypt; Mr. Wagstaffe, Mr. Webster, and the Authour of The Doctrine of Devils, their Evasions proposed and answered.

IN the General, they all say the same thing; viz. That the Magicians were Jugglers, who by their Tricks and Legerde-main, imposed upon Pharaoh and the Ægyptians. Mr. Wagstaffe is so modest, as not to describe the manner of the performance. But Mr. Webster thus; The Magicians holding a Rod in their hands, and seeming to throw it down upon the ground, how soon might they throw down an Artificial Serpent in its stead, and immediately and unperceivably make conveyance of the Rod, p. 154. This is his feat; and for the changing Water into Blood, and the producing of Frogs, he saith, they were were so easie to be done after the same manner, that they need not any particular explication, p. 155. This is the main answer, after a great deal of Impertinence, and Mr. webster hath done his business.

But the Authour of The Doctrine of Devils, hath devised a more particular way for this Juggle. 'Tis probable, he saith, that these Men having the Art or Knack of Making, Graving, or Carving the Pictures of Men, Beasts, Serpents, Reptiles, &c. had the Feat also of Colouring, Painting and Fucussing of them also, and so might easily, especially in the dark, or by their Juggling-Feats, as the Text intimates, make a Rod look like a Serpent, &c. p. 114. But besides these Knavish Painters, the Man hath found other Jugglers to help on the Deceit; Subtle and politick Oratours, who with fallacious Arguments, cunning pretences, and plausible Rhetorick could so disguise Truth, and flourish upon Knavery and falsehood, that falsehood should seem Truth, and Truth falsehood, p. 115.

Whatever the Magicians of Pharaoh were; any one that considers these Answers, would take the Framers of them for Colourers, Changers, Perverters of the Face of things, as this Authour speaks, cunning Oratours, Jugglers, Hocus-Pocus, Hiccius-Doecius, whip the Serpents, Blood and Frogs are gone. But let us look a little nearer to the business, and to these subtle men, Witches of Oratours, and examine what they tell us in the light of the Text and impartial Reason.

The Text saith, Aaron cast down his Rod before Pharaoh, and before his Servants, and it became a Serpent, v. 10. And v. 11, 12. The Magicians of Ægypt, they also did in like manner with their enchantments. For they cast down every Man his Rod, and they became Serpents, but Aaron's Rod swallowed up their Rods. Now, say the Witch-Advocates, the Magicians were Jugglers; they did not in like manner, they did not cast down their Rods, but made conveyance of them, they were not Serpents but Pictures. Which are plain contradictions to the Text, arbitrary Figments, that have no ground. And if Men may feign what they will, and put what borrowed sense they please upon plain Relations of Fact, all History will be a Nose of Wax, and be easily shaped as the Interpreter has a mind to have it.

Secondly, If this were so, and the Serpents were but Artificial Pictures; 'tis strange, that neither Pharaoh, nor his Servants should perceive the difference between the Carved or Painted Serpents and the real ones; except they suppose also that Pharaoh contrived the business in a dark Room on purpose, as the Authour of The Doctrine of Devils

Devils seems to intimate. And 'tis stranger yet, that neither Moses nor Aaron that were concerned to detect the Imposture that was so gross and thick, should not discern it, or if they did, 'tis as strange, that they should keep the Jugglers counsel, and say nothing of it.

Thirdly, Aarons Serpents are said to have swallowed up those of the Magicians. What, did they swallow the Wiars and Pictures? It seems they were very artificially done indeed, that the true Serpents mistook them for real ones, as the Birds once did the Painted Grapes. But it would be more wonderful yet, if all were but the Oratory of the Magicians, for then the Serpents ate their Words and Rhetorick.

Fourthly, Moses and Aaron turned the Rivers into Blood, v. 20. and the Magicians of Ægypt did so with their enchantments, v. 22. They caused Frogs to come up, and to cover the land, Ch. 8. v. 6. and the Magicians did so, and brought up Frogs on the Land of Ægypt, v. 7. Now, how did the Jugglers do this, with Painting and Fucussing; or how, by Legerdemain and Slight of Hand were the Waters made Blood, and the Frogs brought up out of the Rivers on the Land? To turn a little Water into the appearance of Blood, was not the thing that was like to what Moses and Aaron did, and to shew an Artificial ificial Frog, Two or Three was not bringing up of Frogs on the Land of Egypt, which implies, multitudes that covered the ground. So that the Hocus-Pocus Tricks, and Juggling and Painting will not colour this part of the Story. And I should wonder at Mr. Webster, if he did not afford so many occasions of wondring at him, when he passed this so slightly over, saying, p. 155. As to the changing Water into Blood, and the producing of Frogs, they were so easie to be done after the same manner, viz. by Wiers and Juggling, that they need not any particular explication, for by this the manner of their performance may most easily be understood. How shall one deal with these Men, and what will not their confidence affirm?

Fifthly, 'Tis very strange also how those Jugglers should know what signs Moses and Aaron would shew, and accordingly furnish themselves with counterfeit Serpents, Blood and Frogs against the time; or had they those always in their Pockets? If not, it was great luck for them that Moses and Aaron should shew those very Miracles first, that they were provided to imitate.

Sixthly and Lastly, If the Magicians did all this by Tricks and Juggling, may not one fear what Opinion these Men have of the

the same things done by Moses and Aaron? These indeed out-did the others in divers following Instances, but may not they say, that that was by their having more Cunning and Dexterity in the Art of Juggling? If they or their Profelytes have a mind to say thus, they may by their Principles, which will serve them to elude the History, in reference to Moses and Aaron, as well as it doth in relation to the Magicians. They may with as much modesty turn all into Allegory and Metaphor.

I think by all this it appears, that this shift of the Witch-Advocates is very vain, and that what the Magicians did, was not mere Juggling, much less only Politick Oratory and Rhetorick. As if those Magicians by their Eloquence could perswade Pharaoh and his Servants against their Senses, as these Patrons of Witches endeavour to do by us, they being the greatest Witches in their own sense that are extant, and some of them are belyed, if they are not so in other senses.

S E C T. XIII.

That what the Magicians of Ægypt did perform, was at least by an Implicit Confederacy with Evil Spirits,

VELL! If there be any truth in the History, the Magicians were not only Couzeners and Hocus-Pocus Men; there was something done that was extraordinary beyond Mans Art and Contrivance, or the effects of ordinary Nature. And therefore must have either God, or some Spirit or Demon, one or more for the Authour. The former no one saith, the Hand of God in this was only permissive. Therefore it is plain the Magicians did this by Spirits, Creatures of the Invisible World. The Text saith, by their enchantments, per arcana, the vulgar Latin reads. Which because it is a general word, Mr. Wagstaffe takes hold of it, and determines it to secret and fly Tricks, those of Legerdemain and Couzenage, when as it is as applicable to any kind of secret (and so to the Diabolical Art and Confederacy) as to his sense. And that it is so to be understood here, is plain plain from the matter of the History. By those arcana (others read, incantationes, veneficia) they did those strange things, viz. by secret Confederacy with Spirits, they obliged them to perform the wonders.

But what did the Spirits do, were the Serpents, Blood and Frogs real or apparent only? I am not obliged to say, who is of one Opinion, and who of another in this, it matters not. The reality of the performance is most easie, and most suitable to the Sacred Story, and there is no difficulty in conceiving that Spirits might suddenly convey Serpents, with which Agypt abounded into the place of the Rods, which they might unperceivably snatch away after they were thrown down; This they could do, though the Magicians of themselves could not. And they might be provided for the performances by knowing the Command God had given Moses and Aaron, concerning the things he would have them do; which the Magicians could not know, at least not but by them.

And for the Blood and the Frogs, they might by Infusion, or a Thousand ways that we cannot tell, make the Water to all appearance Bloody, or perhaps really transmute some (we know not the extent of their powers.) And to bring up the Frogs from the Lakes and Rivers, was no

hard thing for them to effect, though impossible for the Magicians to do by Tricks of Juggling. We see the sense of the History is plain, and easie in our way, but forced, harsh, contradictory, and most absurd in the Interpretation of the Hag-Advocates.

To make the Inference from these Magicians to my point, yet more plain and demonstrative, I shall further take notice, that if we do not suppose a confederacy, and formal compact between them and the Spirits they act by, it must at least be granted that those Magicians had a way to oblige them to act, either by Words or Ceremonies, which they have bound themselves to attend in order to further familiarity with the persons that so employ them, and at last to explicit Compacts: And even this is sufficient for what I would infer.

I have thus dispatcht a great Argument briefly, and yet I hope fully; Mr. Webster is after his manner very voluminous about it. But all he hath said in Five or Six Leaves in Folio to the purpose, is in those few Lines I have recited. All the rest is senseless, rambling Impertinence, amusing his Readers with Actives and Passives, Meccassaphims, Hartummins, Talesmans, wonderful Cures, and the vertues of Plants, telling Stories,

Stories, and citing scraps from this Man, and from that, all which serve only for Ostentation, and the Deception of the injudicious, but signify nothing to any purpose of Reasoning.

S E C T. XIV.

The other grand Instance of Confederacy with Evil Spirits, in the Witch of Endor, whom Saul consulted. A brief and plain Narration of the Story.

I Come to another grand Instance, viz. that of the Witch of Endor. The Story of her is related, 1 Sam. 28. and is briefly thus. Samuel was dead, v. 3. and the Philistines gathered themselves against Saul, and pitched in Gilboa, v. 4. Saul on this was much afraid, v. 5. and enquired of the Lord, but had no answer from him, v. 6. Upon this he bid his Servants find him out a Woman that had a Familiar Spirit, that he might enquire of her. They told him of one at Endor, v. 7. He disguised himself, and with two Men by night went to her, desired her to divine unto him by her Familiar Spirit, and to bring up him whom he

he should name, v. 8. The Woman first excused her self, minding him how dangerous such a business might be to her, since Saul had cut off those that had Familiar Spirits, and the Wizzards out of the Land. So that she was afraid that this Proposition of his was a snare for her Life, v. 9. But Saul assured her by swearing, that no harm should come to her for this thing, v. 10.

She then askt him whom she should bring up, and he said Bring me up Samuel, v. 11. Samuel accordingly begins to appear, and when the Woman saw him, she cried with a loud voice, being much surpris'd, it seems, to see Samuel in good earnest, whom she probably expected not, but some Familiar in his likeness. By this she knew Saul, v. 12. He heartens her again, and asks whom she saw. She answers, she saw Gods Ascending out of the Earth, an usual Hebraism, the Plural for the Singular Number, Gods, to wit, a Spirit, v. 13. Saul asks what Forme he was of, she answered, an Old Man cometh up, and he is covered with a Mantle. Then Saul perceived it was Samuel, and he bowed himself to him to the ground, v. 14.

Samuel ask't why he had disquieted him to bring him up? He declares the distress he was in, and his desire to know what he

he was to do, v. 15. Samuel reproves him, and declares his Fate, viz. That the Lord had rent the Kingdome from him, and given it to David, v. 17. That the Israelites should be delivered into the hands of the Philistins, and that Saul and his Sons should to morrow be with him, viz. in the state of the Dead, as eventually it was, v. 19. This is the History, and one would think it speaks very plainly, but nothing is plain to prejudice. The Patrons of Witches labour hard to avoid this evidence, and I shall propose and consider their shifts and flights of answering.

S E C T. XV.

The Evasion of Mr. Reginald Scot, concerning the Witches Closet, proposed and confuted.

MR. Reginald Scot, the father of the modern Witch-Advocates, orders the matter thus. When Saul, saith he, had told her that he would have Samuel brought up to him, she departed from his presence into her Closet, where doubtless she had her Familiar, to wit, some lewd crafty
Ee Priest,

50 Proof of Apparitions, &c.

Priest, and made Saul stand at the door like a Fool (as it were with his Finger in a hole) to hear the Couzening Answers, but not to see the Couzening handling thereof, and the conterfeiting of the matter. And so goeth she to work, using ordinary words of Conjurati^on, &c. So be-like after many such words spoken, she saith to her self; Lo! now the matter is brought to pass. I see wonderful things. So as Saul hearing these words longed to know all, and asked her what she saw. Whereby you know that Saul saw nothing, but stood without like a Mome, whilst she plaid her part in her Closet, as may most evidently appear by the Twenty first Verse of this Chapter, where it is said, Then the Woman came out to Saul, &c. Scot, p. 108.

Now this is not interpreting a Story, but making one. For we read nothing of her Closet, or her going from Saul into it, nothing of the crafty Priest she had there, or of Sauls standing at the door like a Fool, like a drowned Puppy Mr. Webster has it (very respectful Language for a Prince in distress!) nothing of the words of Conjurati^on, or of the Womans talk to her self, but all this is Whimsey and Fiction.

And according to this way of interpreting, a Man may make what he will of all the the Histories in the Bible, yea in the World. If one may supply, and put in what he pleaseth, any thing may be made any thing.

But Mr. Scot saith, it evidently appears that Saul saw nothing, but stayed without like a Mome, whilst she played her part in her Closet. It evidently appears by the Twenty first Verse of this Chapter, where 'tis said, Then the woman came out unto Saul. Is it not evident from hence, that she had a Closet, how else should she come out? But the mischief of it is, there is nothing of coming out in the Text, or any Version of it. Our Translation is, And the Woman came unto Saul. The vulgar Latine, Ingressa est, she came in, which implies that she went out of doors rather, than into her Closet. The Septuagint read εἰσῆλθεν ἡ γυνὴ, being the same sense with the vulgar Latine. The Chaldee Paraphrase simply she came. So the Syriack and the Arabick: But we find nothing of coming out any where but in the Discoverer. So that here is a Text made too, as well as many a groundless Comment.

But whether she only came to Saul, or in or out to him, it matters not much, for it implies only that she withdrew, while Saul Communed with Samuel, out of respect, and after the Communication, she returned and found the King in great disorder, and what is this to a Closet?

S E C T. XVI.

Two of Mr. Webster's Arguments for the Witches Closet proposed and answered.

BUT Mr. Webster pursues the business in the behalf of the Discoverer; First, If they were in the same Room, and Samuel a visible Object, how comes it to pass that Saul saw him not? Mr. Glanvil, saith he, must pump to find it out, p. 169. But doth not Mr. Webster know, that it is usual in Apparitions (and he owns there are such) for the Spirit to appear to one, when it is not visible to another, though in the same Room, and every ways capable of seeing? In the Famous Story of Walker and Sharp, recited by him, p. 299, 300. which he confesseth to be of undoubted verity, he saith, it was reported that the Apparition did appear in Court to the Judge, or Fore-man of the Jury (and I have from other hands very credible attestation that it was so) but but the rest saw nothing. Many other well attested Relations of this kind speak of the like, and there are Innumerable Stories of people that have their second sight as they call it, to wit, a faculty of seeing Spectres when others cannot discern them. In which there is nothing, either impossible, or unlikely. And why then should there be need of so much pumping to answer this Objection?

Samuel it seems appeared to the Woman a little before Saul saw him, shewing himself so, it may be, to prepare Saul for the terrible sight by degrees, lest the suddenness of it might have affrighted him into an incapacity of hearing what he had to say to him. Or it may be the Body of the Woman, or some other thing in the Room might interpose between Saul, and the first appearance of Samuel, or he might be at an unfit distance, or out of due light to see presently as she did. So that there is no need of supposing them to be in two Rooms on this account.

But Secondly, He argues further for the Closet or another Room; The Woman cryed out with a loud Voice when she saw Samuel; What need of that, saith he, if they were in one Room, might not an ordinary tone make him to have heard her? 'Tis like it might, but that was not the cause of her crying out, but her surprise to see Samuel (if it were the real Samuel) when she expected only her Familiar, appearing in some resemblance of him. And 'tis like there were circumstances in this Apparition, which she had never seen before, that might on the sudden affright and amaze her. And if it were Samuel indeed, which is very probable, the sight of him assured her that the Inquirer was Saul. For though she might not conclude it presently from his requiring her to raise Samuel, yet when he really and unexpectedly appeared, it was plain that he was come upon some great Errand, and with whom could he probably have such business as with Saul? So that she seeing him, the importance of his appearance, and the Relation he had to Saul, brought the King presently to her mind, and with him her fears, and that this was one cause of her crying out, is plainly intimated in the next words. And the Woman spake to Saul, saying, why hast thou deceived me, for thou art Saul, v. 12. And that she was affrighted at that knowledge, is implied in Saul's assuring her again, against her fears in his immediate answer. And the King said unto her, Be not afraid, v. 13.

Besides this, there is another thing that may be collected from the Text, which might might occasion her astonishment and crying out. For as soon as Saul had said, Bring me up Samuel, v. 11. it immediately follows, v. 12. And when the Woman saw Samuel, she cried with a loud voice. It seems he appeared before she had performed her usual Conjurations (so little ground is there for what Mr. Scot talks of her words of Conjuraton, and those she spake to her self) and upon that she was surprised and affrighted.

S E C T. XVII.

Other Arguments of Mr. Webster for a Room distinct from that Saul was in, proposed and answered.

MR. Websters third Argument to prove a Closet, is that it had been incongruous for Saul to have askt what sawest thou, if they had been in one Room. But what is the incongruity, or what the wonder, if one in his condition should speak incongruously?

His Fourth and Fifth Arguments, are to prove that Saul had yet seen nothing, when he askt the Woman upon her Out-cry, what she had seen. They prove that she saw the Apparition first, which is granted, but her being in another Room, cannot thence be inferred, as I have shewn, though that be the thing he should make out, or all is impertinent.

The Sixth Argument is, that after all, Samuel was but coming up. An Old Man cometh up, which proves nothing for Mr. Webster but against him; For now, she shews him to Saul. She saw the first beginning of his appearing, which Saul did not. When he was risen higher out of the Earth, she shews him to the King, who, 'tis said, perceived then it was Samuel, and bowed himself, v. 14. which is very easie and congruous, applied to one and the same Room. And what then makes Mr. Webster insult in the Conclusion of this Argument in these words; Now let Mr. Glanvil consider, and answer whether it be not only intimated, but clearly holden forth in the Text, that either they were in two Rooms, or that nothing visible did appear before Saul, p. 171. His seeing nothing at first I grant, but the Two Rooms there is no ground for, and he doth not prove it. Whether he did not see Samuel after, I shall now inquire. Hitherto I have nothing to do, but with the conceit of the Closet, or the other Room, which which Mr. Scot made for the Woman, and Mr. Webster endeavours to uphold, with much good will, but little success.

S E C T. XVIII.

Convincing Arguments brought to prove that Saul saw Samuel, which frustrates the Figment of two Rooms.

AFTER all, if he really saw the Apparition, the Figment of the two Rooms is gone, or at least signifies nothing to their purpose. This the Text intimates plainly. She said, An Old Man cometh up, and he is covered with a Mantle, and it follows, And Saul perceived that it was Samuel, and he stooped with his face to the ground, and bowed himself, v. 14.

He perceived it was Samuel, he perceived it, saith Mr. Webster, by the Description of the Woman. But she had only said, An Old Man cometh up covered with a Mantle; This is but a very General Description, and why must that needs notify Samuel? Could the Devil represent no other Old Man in a Mantle, or could none of the dead dead appear so but Samuel only? By these words alone Saul could not certainly perceive that it was he. But he perceived this so, that he could not but know and acknowledge it as the Hebrew word seems to imply. I say this word [perceived] implies more than bare seeing. 'Tis that and somewhat else, viz. that he saw him so, as to be convinced that it was he indeed, the judgment was added to the sense. So that Mr. Webster's Objection, that the word was not he [saw] it was Samuel, is of no weight, he [perceived] implies that he saw it so as to be assured. If the saying of the Woman had been all, the assurance had been none at all, and Saul could not have perceived or understood any certainty of the thing from it.

But secondly, it appears yet further, that his perceiving did imply seeing; For he stooped with his Face to the ground, and bowed himself. Now, what did Saul make this respectful reverence to, if he saw nothing? Was it to a Samuel in his fancy? Mr. Webster saith, Surely in rational consequence it could be nothing else, p. 171. This is something an unusual courtesie to bare Idea's and Imaginations. But Mr. Webster gives a reason: All that the Woman had done and said, being undeniably lyes and cheats, this also in just and right reason must be judged to be so also. Which is assuming the thing to be proved.

S E C T. XIX.

That it was a real Apparition, not a confederate Knave, as Mr. Webster fancies, that Saul saw and did obeysance to.

BUT did she not turn out her confederate Knave to act the part of Samuel? and was not this he to whom Saul bowed? This Mr. Webster offers as part of his answer. The Woman v. 14. describes Samuel in the form of an Old Man covered with a Mantle. Such a shape she must have put the confederate Knave into. It may be it was an Old fellow, or she made him look Old, but let that pass. But where got she the Mantle? A Sacerdotal Habiliment it was, according to Josephus. Had the Woman a Wardrobe of all Habits for all purposes? or was it some short Cloak of her own, that she threw on him? We will suppose either that will serve Mr. Websters turn best. But how did the fellow himself, or the Old Quean

Quean for him change his Visage into the likeness of Samuel, or how alter his voice so, as to make Saul, who so well knew Samuel, to believe it was even he? These are hard Questions.

But if we should so far gratify Mr. Scot, Mr. Webster and the rest, as not to press with such untoward Queries; yet one cannot chuse but ask how the confederate Knave came to foretel truly such contingent things, as that the Israelites should be vanquished by the Philistines, and Saul and his Sons slain on the morrow, as v. 19. How could the Cheat, or the woman in another Room tell this? Why! saith Mr. wagstaffe, he spake it at a venture, and He or the Witch gave a shrewd guess to the sequel, saith Mr. Scot. But what ground was there for conjecture? and since there was none, the Confederate might as well have chose to have told Saul, that he and his Sons should live and be victorious; and this, if he were so cunning a fellow, as these cunning Men make him, he would have done. For the Witches business and his, was to get by their practice, and the likelier way to a good reward, had been to have Prophesied grateful and pleasant things to the troubled King; and if the Prophet knew nothing of the event, he might as well have chosen the good, as the evil side.

Which

Which as it had been for his Interest, it had been also for the better saving of the credit of his predictions. For if he had foretold the Kings good success and victory, the Woman and He, the Confederate, in consequence had been sure of reputation and favour, and further rewards, if it had happened so; but no evil could have befallen them from the contrary success. For if Saul were killed, the falshood of the prediction would be buried with him (for we read not that the two Servants were at this Communication, which in all likelihood was private) and no other evil like to ensue.

So that if it were a Confederate Knave, as the Witch-Advocates have contrived that made the answers, he was not so cunning as Mr. Scot, Mr. Webster and the rest pretend, but indeed a very silly Juggler. He speaks very severe and disobliging things, and such as were not like to redound to his advantage, and indeed such things they were, as do not at all look as if they proceeded from a confederate Couzener. They have that Gravity, Majesty, Religion and Vertue in them that became the true Samuel, and are very unlike the words of a vicious cheating Knave.

To which may be added, that this Woman, though otherwise an ill one, seems to

to have been of a kind and benign nature, by the courteous entertainment she gave the afflicted Prince, and Josephus extolls her much for her good Nature. So that it is very improbable, that she would by her self or her Confederate, lay such an heavy Load of Trouble and Desperation upon the King, that was in such distress before. I think all these things put together, are abundantly sufficient to disprove, and shame the ungrounded fanſie of the Witch-Advocates, that all was done by a Confederate. And consequently it was a real Apparition that Saul saw, and did civil obedience to.

S E C T. XX.

That it was not the Witch her self that acted all (as Scot and Webster for another shift would suppose) putting her self into a Trance, and deluding Saul by Ventrilogy.

But was it not the Witch her self that acted all? Mr. Scot saith, that if the Exposition of the Confederate like us not, he can easily frame himself to the Opinion, That this Pythonefs being a Ventriloque, that is, speaking as it were from the bottom of her Belly, did cast her self into a Trance, and so abused Saul, answering to Saul in Samuel's name in her counterfeit hollow Voice, p. 111. To the same purpose Mr. Webster also supposeth, That what she did or pretended to do, was only by Ventriloquy, or casting her self into a feigned Trance, lay groveling on the Earth with her face downwards, and so changing her Voice, did mutter and murmur, and peep, and chirp like a Bird coming forth of the shell, or that she spake in some hollow Cave or Vault through some Pipe, or in a Bottle, and so amused and deceived poor timorous and despairing Saul, p. 165, 166.
on,

What stuff is this? and how shall one deal with such Men, as set their Wits upon the rack to invent evasions, and are ready to assert any Non-sense or Absurdity to pervert the sense of a plain and simple History? What I have already spoke against the Dream of a Confederate, viz. Saul's perceiving it was Samuel, his bowing himself upon it; his taking the Voice for the Prophet's, the suitableness and gravity of the words, and the contrivance of the prediction, and the truth of it, are as strong against this Whim, as against the other idle fansie, and in some particulars of more force,

as will appear to any one that considers the matter duly.

For Ventriloquy, or speaking from the bottom of the Belly, 'tis a thing I think as strange and difficult to be conceived as any thing in Witchcraft, nor can it, I believe, be performed in any distinctness of articulate sounds, without such assistance of the Spirits, that spoke out of the Demoniacks. I would fain have any of the Witch-Advocates shew how it is naturally possible. So that this that they suppose, will infer the thing they would avoid. It cannot certainly in any reason be thought, that the Woman could by a natural knack, speak such a Discourse as is related from Samuel, much less that she could from her Belly imitate his Voice, so as to deceive one that knew him as Saul did.

As for Mr. Websters peeping, chirping and muttering, they are nothing to the purpose, and his hollow Cave, Pipe and Vault, are as arbitrary Figments as the Closet, and fall under the same confutations that disprove the rest of the Chimæra's.

SECT.

S E C T. XXI.

*That it was Samuel himself that appeared,
Knave.*

BUT the Witch-Advocates have another Argument to prove an Imposture in this business. For, say they, the person denouncing the fate of Saul could not be the true Samuel, nor the Devil in his likeness; therefore it must be either the Woman, or some cheating Confederate. Which conclusion follows not, for it is possible it might be a good Spirit personating Samuel. These the Scripture assures us, are often employed in Errands and Ministeries here below, and on those occasions they cloath themselves in humane shape and appearance. So that it is not absurd to think it might be thus here; but this I affirm not. Who actually it was hath been great matter of debate among Interpreters, and considerable Authours have been on either side. My cause doth not require that I should positively determine who the appearing person was, it might be one of them though I cannot tell which.

I confess it seems to me most probable, that it was the true Samuel, for the Scripture calls the Apparition so Five times, that is, as often as he is mentioned. And when the Woman saw Samuel, v. 12. And Saul perceived that it was Samuel, v. 14. And Samuel said to Saul, v. 15. Then said Samuel, v. 16. Then Saul was sore afraid because of the words of Samuel, v. 20. Which expressions are neither from Saul, nor the Woman, but from that Spirit that endited the Holy Scriptures. And if after all this, Samuel was a Knave, or the Witch, or the Devil, what assurance can we have in interpreting of Scripture? I know that it speaks sometimes agreeably to the deceived apprehensions of Men; but when it is so, there is something in the Context or Nature of the thing that leads us to make this Judgment. And if we rashly suppose whenever we have a mind to it, that the Scripture speaks according to deceived Opinion; we may by this Rule make it say any thing. The plain Letter, and most obvious Sense is always to be followed, where there is no cogent reason to the contrary, and I shall shew by and by, that there is none to decline it here.

Accor-

According to the obvious plain sense, the words are interpreted, Ecclesiastick. 46. 20. And after his death (speaking of Samuel) he Prophesied and shewed the King his end. And the circumstances of the Story which I have already considered, seem to me very plainly to determine the sense this way. Thus doth the surprise of the Woman, who cryed out with astonishment upon the sight of the Prophet, whom she was affrighted to see. Her knowing it was Saul by the Apparition, which she could not have done by the Devil's appearing in his likeness. The Expression that Saul perceived that it was Samuel, he did not only fancy or think so. The Divine and Majestick words he spake, so becoming the true Samuel, and so unlike the words of an Evil Spirit. And the prediction of events so contingent as the loss of the Battle, and the Death of the King and his Sons.

S E C T. XXII.

The needlessness and impertinency of M. Webster's Confutation of Samuel's appearing with his Body out of the Grave.

NOW there are several evasions, whereby some endeavour to shift off this evidence. But if we will deal plainly and sincerely, we must, I think, acknowledge the force of the Arguments, which I have briefly and nakedly proposed.

But all this Mr. Webster pretends to confute thus. It was not Samuel's Body with his Soul joyned, nor his Soul that appeared in his wonted shape and habit, p. 172, 173.

The first he proves by these reasons. First, His Body had lain too long in the Grave, so that it must have been disfigured. Secondly, It must have stunk. Thirdly, There was no Taylor in the Grave to make him a Mantle. Fourthly, It must have been an Omnipotent Power to have done this. Fifthly, A Syllogism is brought to prove this contrary to the Scripture, which saith,
That

That those that dye in the Lord rest from their labours.

Now the Four first Arguments he may take again, we have no concern with them. For 'tis senseless to think, that the gross Body came out of the Grave; and if he means the resting of the Terrestrial Body by the Fifth, he may take that back too. And indeed as applyed to the Body without the Soul, the disturbing of it is Non-sense. Its corruption in the Grave is continual motion, and more disturbance than the raising it entirely would be, if it were any at all. But properly it is none, no more than is the taking of a Stone out of a Quarry. Therefore if there be any Argument in this, it falls under the next Query.

The Sixth Argument is a Question, viz. Who joyned the Soul and Body again? Not the Witch nor the Devil. The Opinion is erroneous, impious and blasphemous. And for me let him call it what he pleaseth. His strength is in hard words, which here like the stones thrown sometimes by Witchcraft light like Wool, and here Far also from the Mark.

S E C T. XXIII.

That it was the Soul of Samuel that appeared, without his Terrestrial Body, and that it is an indifferent Opinion, in which are divided as well Papists as Protestants.

BUt there is a second Opinion yet to be confuted, viz. That it was Samuel's Soul in his wonted shape and habit, p. 173. He must mean his Soul without the Body, or else 'tis the same again; and if he means without any body, I am none of those that mean with him. It is most fully and plainly proved by those excellent Men, Dr. C— and Dr. M—, that Souls departed are embodied in Aerial or Ætherial Vehicles; and they have largely shewn that this was the Doctrine of the greatest Philosophers, and most Ancient and Learned Fathers. And agreeable it is to the Holy Scripture and highest Reason and Philosophy, as I may have another occasion to shew. Now Samuel appeared here to Saul in this his more pure Aerial or Ætherial Body, which he could form into such an appearance appearance and habit as he had in the Terrestrial.

Against the Opinion of Samuel's Soul appearing, Mr. Webster urgeth cogent Arguments, as still he calleth his; they are all manifest, cogent, irrefragable, unanswerable, even then when they are scarce sense. He prefaceth to them, by an intimation, that the Doctrine is Popish; maintained, he saith, it is by the Popish party. His hard words use to be his strongest Arguments. But this is only to raise odium and prejudice to the opinion. For there are Papists and Protestants on both sides of this Question. As also Rabbins and Fathers have divided upon it. Some of the last sort, and those perhaps of the greatest and most considerable having been for it, as R. Eleazer, R. Saadias, The Writers of the Midrash, Josephus also, Justin, Origen, Augustine, Basil, Ambrose, &c. as some others have been against it. So that, I suppose, a Man may freely and without offence declare his Judgment, though it happen to be different from Mr. Websters.

S E C T. XXIV.

Three Arguments of Mr. Webster against the appearing of the Soul of Samuel proposed and answered.

V V Herefore to his Arguments, First he could not, saith he, come whether God would or no. Right! Secondly, He would not run on an Errand without Gods consent. No doubt. Thirdly, That God did not command him, he saith, is most certain. Here I must stop. How doth that appear to be so certain? Why! they never were employed in Ministries here below, because never created for any such end or purpose, p. 173. They were never employed in Ministries here below! What thinks he of the Souls of Moses and Elias, at the transfiguration on the Mount? were not they then employed in a Ministry here below, or were they only Phantasms? or their glorified Bodies without their Souls? and how then did they talk and converse with our Lord? But these he will say were sent on an extraordinary occasion.

occasion. Be it so, they are sometimes then employed in such, and so Mr. webster must eat his words. And if blessed Souls are, or have been employed at any time, how is he so certain the real Samuel was not sent here?

Thus briefly to his bold Assertion. But he pretends a reason. They were never created for this purpose. If that were so, what then? The Stars were never made to fight against Sisera, nor any one. Nor the waters to drown the World. Nor the Ravens to feed Prophets or other Men. May not they therefore be used in those Services? Again, No sensitive Being was made primarily for another, but to enjoy it self, and to partake of the goodness of its Maker. May it not therefore minister to others? and doth not every Creature so? All things serve him. Thirdly, The Angels are Ministering Spirits, he saith, ordained to be such. Doth he think they were made for that purpose only to serve us? Fourthly, Reasonable humane Creatures are for one another. Non nobis solum, &c. Souls are most proper to serve such, not here only, but in the next World. They are ιστάγγελοι, like unto Angels, and they are as proper at least for the service of Men. They have the same nature and affections. They feel our infirmities, and consider us more than abstract

abstract Spirits do. Which is the reason given why our Saviour took not upon him the nature of Angels, but of Men. Fifthly, Souls departed have Life and Sense and Motion, capacity of being employed, and no doubt inclination to it; and whither more properly may they be sent, than to those of their own nature, whom they affect, are allied to, and so lately came from? Sixthly, The Angels are not confined to their celestial habitation, but are sent often to this nether World, as Mr. webster and the rest confess, and why then should we think that the Souls of the Just are so limited and restrained?

And Lastly, It is supposed both by Jews and Christians, that the Soul of the Messias appeared to the Patriarchs, and was the Angel of the Covenant; and we know he was pleased to appear to St. Stephen at his Martyrdom, though then in Glory. And in the various Apparitions of Angels recorded in the Scripture, we have reason to think that some were humane Souls, called Angels from their Office.

So that on the whole, we see we have no cause to rely on Mr. websters certainty, that Samuel's Soul came not on a Divine Command.

S E C T. XXV.

Other Arguments of Mr. Webster against the appearing of the Soul of Samuel, proposed and answered.

BUT Mr. Webster goes on: Fourthly, saith he, Mr. Glanvil hath only affirmed, not proved it. Which is not so, I alledge the same reasons I have mentioned here, in my Philosophical Considerations about Witchcraft, Sect. 16. And the frequent affirmations of the Sacred Text, were sufficient ground for the Assertion, though no other reasons were added to them.

He argues, Fifthly, Miracles are wrought to confirm truth, but this would have confirmed Saul and the Witch in their wicked ways, p. 174. I answer, Miracles are not always wrought to confirm truth, but sometimes to declare it. And these sort are often for that purpose. Such was this, to pronounce the final Sentence and Doom on Saul, as to the concerns of this World. And the Prophet's appearing so contrary to the Womans expectation, and before she had

had performed her spells, struck her into dread and amazement, and so she could draw no encouragement thence, to countenance her trade of Witchcraft.

Sixthly, He saith it is not credible, but that Samuel would have reprov'd the Sorcerers. But that was not his business, and it is like she being one of that vile and Diabolical profession was forsaken of God and good Spirits, and given up to those evil ones that were her Agents and Familiars. Such derelictions we sometimes read of. And certainly if any course of sinning occasions and brings such a judgment (as some no doubt do) this of Witchcraft and Confederacy with evil Spirits, is one that most justly may.

Seventhly, But God had refused to answer Saul by any living Prophet, and Eighthly would not vouchsafe him his Spirit in the ordinary way, and therefore it is not probable he would do it by sending a Prophet from the dead. Which arguments can only discover our ignorance in the Reasons of the Divine Counsels and Actions. But yet it may be said, God had indeed withdrawn all comfortable and directive Communications from him, but this was of another sort, a further instance of the Divine Displeasure, and Declarative of the forsaken Kings Doom. Which was no favour, but indeed a judgment to which the Divine Justice was probably further provoked by this his sin of dealing with the Sorcerers.

But Ninthly, Abraham would not send Lazarus upon the Rich Mans desire to his surviving Brethren, p. 175. Nor can any one think it follows that, because one came from the dead to an extraordinary person, and upon an occasion that was such; that therefore Prophets, or other Souls shall be sent from thence, ordinarily to warn those that have other sufficient means of conviction and amendment. The Tenth is to fill up tale. Where doth Mr. Glanvil, saith he, find it in Scripture, or Orthodoxal Divines, that ever any Blessed Soul was sent on a Divine Errand to any here below? Which he objected, and I answered before.

S E C T. XXVI.

That the Soul of Samuel might come of it self, as well as be sent by Divine Command, either Opinion defensible.

I Have briefly recited, and I hope cleared Mr. Webster's Objections, which he runs out into great length and numerous imperinencies. And indeed his Arguments are often such confident Nothings, that it is really a shame to go about to answer them. But I shall never pass by any thing of his strength.

But though I have defended the Opinion, that Samuel's Soul was sent on a Divine Errand to Saul, against Mr. Websters contrary pretences; yet is there another thing supposable, which is as probable, viz. That Samuel came without any direct command, being barely permitted, and that the earnest and importunate desire of Saul to have some Communication with him in his distress, invited and inclined him to it. Thus it might be, and there is no cause to think, but that blessed Souls have sometimes times such liberty allowed them; which of these it was, I shall not presume to determine, both are defensible, and either sufficient for my purpose.

S E C T. XXVII.

Several other Objections against the appearing of the Soul of Samuel answered.

BUT there are other Objections besides Mr. Websters, against the Tenent that it was the Soul of Samuel; I shall not conceal any one that hath any force in it.

First it is urged, That Witches and Magicians have no power over the Spirits of the Just, and therefore this Pythonefs could not raise Samuel. Nor do we say she did. He appeared (as 'tis probable from the Text) before she had made her Conjurations. Which might be one reason of her crying out. He came either sent from God, or of his own inclination. The Devil nor Witch had nothing to do in it.

But Secondly, would God send Samuel at such a time, when he was seeking satisfaction from enchantment? And why not not as well that, as appoint the Prophet to meet the Messengers of Abaziah when he sent to Beelzebub, 2 Kings 1? That King sent to the Idol of E'kron to inquire his Fate, and God acquainted him with it by his Prophet Elijah. Thus also when Balak had required Balaam to curse the Israelites, God put a Prophecy into his Mouth, and made him bless them, Numb. 22. &c.

Thirdly, The Woman said, she saw Gods arising, a company of evil Spirits (so some interpret) and what did Samuel among them? But I saw Gods is more probably rendered by others a God, a Divine Personage, the plural Number for the singular to express honour. And that it is so to be understood is signified plainly by the singular Relative that follows; Of what form is he, v. 14. Or if more be meant, why might they not be good Genii that accompanied Samuel, a great and Divine Personage, eminent no doubt in the other World as he was in this?

Fourthly, some argue from the Question of the Apparition, v. 15. why hast thou disquieted me? Samuel, say they, whether sent by God, or coming of his own accord, could not be disquieted by appearing. Nor was there any real disturbance in it, but the Spirit of the Prophet speaks our Language, who are apt to fancy the dead to rest rest in their Graves, and to be disturbed of their repose, when upon any occasion they appear among the living.

Fifthly, But he saith, that Saul and his Sons should be with him, viz. in Thalamo justorum, which some think not unlikely, believing that Saul was reprobate only in Type. But more probably the meaning is, that he should be in the State of the dead in another World, as he the Prophet was.

Sixthly and Lastly, The Spectre said, that to morrow he should be with him, which was not true, for several days intervened before the Battle. But the word to morrow need not be taken in strictness, but in a Latitude of interpretation for a short time. He was to dye in or upon the Fight, and the enemies were now ready for it, and so the event was to be within a very little while. The prediction of which, was a Prophecy of a thing very contingent, and shews that the Predictor was the real Samuel.

S E C T. XXVIII.

An Answer to that Objection, That if it was Samuel's Soul that appeared, it makes nothing to Witchcraft.

BUT if it were the real Samuel, will they say, this Story will then make nothing for the Opinion of Witchcraft. For Samuel was not raised by enchantment, but came either of his own accord, or on a Divine Errand. To which Objection, I say,

First, Here is at least proof of an Apparition of a Man after Death.

Secondly, Saul's going to this Pythonefs upon such an Inquiry, and she undertaking to bring the person up, whom he should name (at least the appearance of him) intimated v. 11. are good proof that this had been her practice, though at this time over ruled, and that she acted by an Evil Spirit. For certainly when Saul intreats her to Divine to him by her Familiar Spirit, he did not mean that she should deceive, and delude him by a Confederate

Knave. The senselessness of which Fagment I have already sufficiently disproved. That the Woman was used to such practices, will appear fully when I come to prove Witchcraft from * expresse Texts.

ADVERTISEMENT.

* The expresse Texts that he means, I suppose are such as these, Exod. 22. 18. 2 Chron. 33. 6. Gal. 5. 20. Micah 5. 12. Acts 13. 6. 8. and Chap. 8. 9. and more especially Deut. 18. 10. Where almost all the Names of Witches are enumerated; namely, of all those that are inveigled by Covenant with Evil Spirits, either explicitly, or by submitting to their Ceremonies. See Dr. H—— M—— his Postscript.

S E C T. XXIX.

They that hold it was an Evil Spirit that appeared to Saul, that their opinion may be true for ought Mr. Webster brings against it.

AS to the Opinion of divers Divines, that the appearing Samuel was indeed an Evil Spirit in his likeness, though I judge it not so probable as the other of the real Samuel, yet the interpretation is not absurd nor impossible. And because I do not absolutely determine either way, I shall defend it against Mr. Websters contrary Arguments, which whether it be so or not so, prove nothing. He saith,

First, That this begs two false suppositions, p. 175. as First, That the Devils are simply incorporeal Spirits. By which if he means Incorporeal in their Intrinsick Essential Constitution, such no doubt they are, as every Intellectual Being is. But if he mean by simply Incorporeal, disunited from all Matter and Body, so perhaps (and most likely) they are not. But neither the one, or the other of these, is supposed by the Opinion Mr. webster impugnes. The second false supposition is, That Devils can assume Bodies. That they can appear in divers Shapes and Figures, like humane and other Bodies, we affirm, and it is plain from the Scripture as to Angels, and I shall make the same good, in reference to other Spirits in due place. So that we may suppose it still, till Mr. webster hath evinced the contrary, as he promiseth. How he performs I shall consider in due place.

His Second Argument is, That he is not of their Opinion, that the Devils move, and rove up and down in this Elementary World at pleasure. Which no one I know saith. They go to and fro, and compass the Earth, but still within the bounds of the Divine permission, the Laws of the Angelical World, and those of their own Kingdom; which prevent the Troubles and Disturbances in the World from them, which he saith would ensue.

Thus far runs the Proof of the Existence of Apparitions and Witchcraft, from Holy Scripture, entire. The three or four Lines that follow in the M S. and are left out, break off abruptly. But what is said, sufficiently subverts the force of Mr. Webster's Arguments against their Opinion, that say it was the Devil that appeared to Saul. I will only here take notice, that this part which reaches hitherto, though it be not fully finished, yet it abundantly affords Proof for the Conclusion, namely, for the Existence of Spirits, Apparitions and Witches, from Testimony of Holy Scripture, to as many as yield to the Authority thereof. But the following Collection is a Confirmation of the same things, as well to the Anti-Scripturists, as to them that believe Scripture.

of Tedworth, I hope now will prove irrefragable and unexceptionable, if the Reader retain in his mind, Mr. Glanvil's Preface to this second Part of his Saducismus Triumphatus, and Mr. Mompeffon's Letters, the one to Mr. Glanvil, the other to Mr. Collins, which cannot but abundantly undeceive the World. So that it is needless to record how Mr. Glanvil wrote to Mr. William Claget of Bury, and professed, He had not the least ground to think he was imposed on in what he related, and that he had great cause from what he saw himself, to say, it was impossible there should be any Imposture in that business.

To the same purpose he wrote to Mr. Gilbert Clark in Northampton-shire, as also to my self, and undoubtedly to many more, as he has intimated in his Preface. Besides that, to the Parties above named, he sent a Copy of that Letter of Mr. Mompeffon, which was wrote to himself.

88 Proof of Apparitions, &c.

So that that groundless Rumour being thus fully silenced, we may now seasonably relate, and that with confidence, that assured and unexceptionably attested Story of the Dæmon of Tedworth. Which is as follows.

Proof

Proof of Apparitions, Spirits and Witches, from a choice Collection of modern Relations.

RELATION I.

Which is the enlarged Narrative of the Dæ-mon of Tedworth, or of the Disturbances at Mr. Mompeffon's House, caused by Witchcraft, and the villany of the Drummer.

MR. John Mompeffon of Tedworth, in the County of Wilts, being about the middle of March, in the Year 1661. at a Neighboring Town called Ludgarshal, and hearing a Drum beat there, he inquired of the Bailiff of the Town, at whose House he then was, what it meant. The Bailiff told him, that they had for some days been troubled with an idle Drummer, who demanded money of the Constable by vertue of a pretended Pass, which he thought was counterfeit. Upon this Mr. Mompef-

son sent for the Fellow, and askt him by what authority he went up and down the Country in that manner with his Drum. The Drummer answered, he had good authority, and produced his Pass, with a Warrant, under the Hands of Sir William Cavely, and Colonel Ayliff of Grettenham. Mr. Mompesson knowing these Gentlemens Hands, discovered that the Pass and Warrant were counterfeit, and thereupon commanded the Vagrant to put off his Drum, and charged the Constable to carry him before the next Justice of the Peace, to be further examined and punished. The Fellow then confessed the cheat, and begged earnestly to have his Drum. Mr. Mompesson told him, that if he understood from Colonel Ayliff, whose Drummer he said he was, that he had been an honest Man, he should have it again, but in the mean time he would secure it. So he left the Drum with the Bailiff, and the Drummer in the Constables hands, who it seems was prevailed on by the Fellows intreaties to let him go.

About the midst of April following, when Mr. Mompesson was preparing for a Journey to London, the Bailiff sent the Drum to his House. When he was returned from that Journey, his Wife told him, that they had been much affrighted in the Night
by

by Thieves, and that the House had been like to have been broken up. And he had not been at home above three Nights, when the same noise was heard that had disturbed his Family in his absence. It was a very great knocking at his Doors, and the outsidés of his House. Hereupon he got up, and went about the House with a brace of Pistols in his Hands. He opened the Door where the great knocking was, and then he heard the noise at another Door. He opened that also, and went out round his House, but could discover nothing, only he still heard a strange noise and hollow sound. When he was got back to bed, the noise was a Thumping and Drumming on the top of his House, which continued a good space, and then by degrees went off into the Air.

After this, the noise of Thumping and Drumming was very frequent, usually five nights together, and then it would intermit three. It was on the outsidés of the House, which is most of it of Board. It constantly came as they were going to sleep, whether early or late. After a Months disturbance without, it came into the Room where the Drum lay, four or five nights in seven, within half an hour after they were in bed, continuing almost two. The sign of it just before it came, was, they still heard heard an hurling in the Air over the House, and at its going off, the beating of a Drum like that at the breaking up of a Guard. It continued in this Room for the space of two Months, which time Mr. Mompesson himself lay there to observe it. In the fore part of the night, it used to be very troublesome, but after two hours all would be quiet.

Mrs. Mompesson being brought to bed, there was but little noise the night she was in Travail, nor any for three weeks after, till she had recovered strength. But after this civil cessation, it returned in a ruder manner than before, and followed and vext the youngest Children, beating their Bedsteds with that violence, that all present expected when they would fall in pieces. In laying Hands on them, one should feel no blows, but might perceive them to shake exceedingly. For an hour together it would beat, Round-heads and Cuckolds, the Tat-too, and several other points of War, as well as any Drummer. After this, they should hear a scratching under the Childrens Bed, as if by something that had Iron Tallons. It would lift the Children up in their Beds, follow them from one Room to another, and for a while haunted none particularly but them.

There

There was a Cock-loft in the House which had not been observed to be troubled, thither they removed the Children, putting them to Bed while it was fair day, where they were no sooner laid, but their troubler was with them as before.

On the Fifth of Novemb. 1662. it kept a mighty noise, and a servant observing two Boards in the Childrens Room seeming to move, he bid it give him one of them. Upon which the Board came (nothing moving it that he saw) within a yard of him. The Man added, Nay let me have it in my Hand; upon which it was shov'd quite home to him. He thrust it back, and it was driven to him again, and so up and down, to and fro, at least twenty times together, till Mr. Mompesson forbad his Servant such familiarities. This was in the day-time, and seen by a whole Room full of People. That morning it left a sulphurous smell behind it, which was very offensive. At night the Minister one Mr. Cragg, and divers of the Neighbours came to the House on a visit. The Minister went to Prayers with them, Kneeling at the Childrens Bed-side, where it was then very troublesome and loud. During Prayer-time it withdrew into the Cock-loft, but returned as soon as Prayers were done, and then in sight of the Company, the Chairs walkt walkt about the Room of themselves, the Childrens shoes were hurled over their Heads, and every loose thing moved about the Chamber. At the same time a Bedstaff was thrown at the Minister, which hit him on the Leg, but so favourably that a Lock of Wool could not have fallen more softly, and it was observed, that it stoppt just where it lighted, without rolling or moving from the place.

Mr. Mompeffon perceiving, that it so much persecuted the little Children, he lodged them out at a Neighbours House, taking his Eldest Daughter, who was about Ten years of age into his own Chamber, where it had not been a Moneth before. As soon as she was in Bed, the disturbance begun there again, continuing three Weeks Drumming, and making other noises, and it was observed, that it would exactly answer in Drumming any thing that was beaten or called for. After this, the House where the Children were Lodged out, happening to be full of strangers, they were taken home, and no disturbance having been known in the Parlour, they were lodged there, where also their persecutor found them, but then only pluckt them by the Hair and Night-cloaths without any other disturbance.

It was noted, that when the noise was loudest, and came with the most sudden and surprizing violence, no Dog about the House would move, though the knocking was oft so boisterous and rude, that it hath been heard at a considerable distance in the Fields, and awakened the Neighbours in the Village, none of which live very near this House. The Servants sometimes were lift up with their Beds, and then let gently down again without hurt, at other times it would lye like a great weight upon their Feet.

About the latter end of Decemb. 1662. the Drummings were less frequent, and then they heard a noise like the gingling of Money, occasioned, as it was thought, by somewhat Mr. Mompesson's Mother had spoken the day before to a Neighbour, who talkt of Fayries leaving Money, viz. That she should like it well, if it would leave them some to make amends for their trouble. The night after the speaking of which, there was a great chinking of Money over all the House.

After this it desisted from the ruder noises, and employed it self in little Apish and less troublesome Tricks. On Christmas Eve a little before day, one of the little Boys arising out of his Bed, was hit on a sore place upon his Heel, with the Latch of the the Door, the Pin that it was fastened with, was so small that it was a difficult matter to pick it out. The night after Christmas day, it threw the Old Gentlewomans cloaths about the Room, and hid her Bible in the Ashes. In such silly tricks it was frequent.

After this, it was very troublesome to a Servant of Mr. Mompesson's, who was a stout Fellow, and of sober Conversation. This Man lay within, during the greatest disturbance, and for several nights something would endeavour to pluck his cloaths off the Bed, so that he was fain to tug hard to keep them on, and sometimes they would be pluckt from him by main force, and his shooes thrown at his head. And now and then he should find himself forcibly held, as it were bound Hand and Foot, but he found that whenever he could make use of his Sword, and struck with it, the Spirit quitted its hold.

A little after these contests, a Son of Sir Thomas Bennet, whose Workman the Drummer had sometimes been, came to the House, and told Mr. Mompesson some words that he had spoken, which it seems was not well taken. For as soon as they were in Bed, the Drum was beat up very violently and loudly, the Gentleman arose and called his Man to him, who lay with Mr.

Mr. Mompesson's Servant just now spoken of, whose name was John. As soon as Mr. Bennet's Man was gone, John heard a rustling noise in his Chamber, and something came to his Bedside, as if it had been one in silk. The Man presently reacheth after his Sword, which he found held from him, and 'twas with difficulty and much tugging that he got it into his power, which as soon as he had done, the Spectre left him, and it was always observed that it still avoided a Sword.

About the beginning of January 1662. they were wont to hear a Singing in the Chimney before it came down. And one Night about this time, lights were seen in the House. One of them came into Mr. Mompesson's Chamber which seemed blue and glimmering, and caused great stiffness in the Eyes of those that saw it. After the light something was heard coming up the Stairs, as if it had been one without Shoes. The light was seen also four or five times in the Childrens Chamber, and the Maids confidently affirm that the Doors were at least ten times opened and shut in their sight, and when they were opened they heard a noise as if half a dozen had entred together. After which some were heard to walk about the Room, and one ruffled as if it had been in silk. The like Mr. Mompesson himself once heard.

During the time of the knocking, when many were present, a Gentleman of the Company said, Satan, if the Drummer set thee to work, give three knocks and no more, which it did very distinctly and stopt. Then the Gentleman knockt, to see if it would answer him as it was wont, but it did not. For further trial, he bid it for confirmation, if it were the Drummer, to give five knocks and no more that night, which it did, and left the House quiet all the night after. This was done in the presence of Sir Thomas Chamberlain of Oxfordshire, and divers others.

On Saturday Morning, an hour before day, Jan. 10. a Drum was heard beat upon the out-sides of Mr. Mompesson's Chamber, from whence it went to the other end of the House, where some Gentlemen strangers lay, playing at their door and without, four or five several Tunes, and so went off into the air.

The next night, a Smith in the Village lying with John the Man, they heard a noise in the room, as if one had been shoeing of an Horse, and somewhat came, as it were with a pair of Pincers, snipping at the Smiths Nose most part of the Night.

One Morning Mr. Mompesson rising early to go a journey, heard a great noise below, where the Children lay, and running down with a Pistol in his hand, he heard a voice, crying a witch, a witch, as they had also heard it once before. Upon his entrance all was quiet.

Having one Night played some little tricks at Mr. Mompesson's Beds feet, it went into another Bed, where one of his Daughters lay; There it passed from side to side, lifting her up as it passed under. At that time there were three kinds of noises in the Bed. They endeavoured to thrust at it with a Sword, but it still shifted and carefully avoided the thrust, still getting under the Child when they offered at it. The Night after it came panting like a Dog out of breath. Upon which one took a Bedstaff to knock, which was caught out of her hand, and thrown away, and company coming up, the room was presently filled with a bloomy noisome smell, and was very hot, though without fire, in a very sharp and severe Winter. It continued in the Bed panting and scratching an hour and half, and then went into the next Chamber, where it knockt a little, and seemed to rattle a Chain; thus it did for two or three nights together.

After this, the old Gentlewomans Bible was found in the Ashes, the Paper side being downwards. Mr. Mompesson took it up, and observed that it lay open at the Third Chapter of St. Mark, where there is mention of the unclean Spirits falling down before our Saviour, and of his giving power to the Twelve to cast out Devils, and of the Scribes Opinion, that he cast them out through Beelzebub. The next night they strewed Ashes over the Chamber, to see what impressions it would leave. In the morning they found in one place, the resemblance of a great Claw, in another of a lesser, some Letters in another, which they could make nothing of, besides many Circles and Scratches in the Ashes.

About this time I went to the House, on purpose to inquire the truth of those passages, of which there was so loud a report. It had ceased from its Drumming and ruder noises before I came thither, but most of the more remarkable circumstances before related, were confirmed to me there, by several of the neighbours together, who had been present at them. At this time it used to haunt the Children, and that as soon as they were laid. They went to Bed that night I was there, about Eight of the Clock, when a Maid-servant coming down from them, told us it was come. The neighbours that were there, and two Ministers who had seen and heard divers times went away, but Mr. Mompesson and I, and a Gentleman that came with me went up. I heard a strange scratching as I went up the Stairs, and when we came into the Room, I perceived it was just behind the Bolster of the Childrens Bed, and seemed to be against the Tick. It was as loud a scratching, as one with long Nails could make upon a Bolster. There were two little modest Girls in the Bed, between Seven and Eleven years old as I guess. I saw their hands out over the Cloaths, and they could not contribute to the noise that was behind their heads. They had been used to it, and had still some body or other in the Chamber with them, and therefore seemed not to be much affrighted. I standing at the Beds-head, thrust my hand behind the Bolster, directing it to the place whence the noise seemed to come. Whereupon the noise ceased there, and was heard in another part of the Bed. But when I had taken out my Hand it returned, and was heard in the same place as before. I had been told that it would imitate noises, and made trial by scratching several times upon the Sheet, as 5, and 7, and 10, which it followed and still stopt at my number. I searcht under and behind the Bed, turned up the Cloaths to the Bed-cords, graspt the Bolster, sounded the Wall behind, and made all the search that possible I could to find if there were any trick, contrivance, or common cause of it; the like did my friend, but we could discover nothing. So that I was then verily perswaded, and am so still, that the noise was made by some Dæmon or Spirit. After it had scratcht about half an hour or more, it went into the midst of the Bed under the Children, and there seemed to pant like a Dog out of Breath very loudly. I put my hand upon the place, and felt the Bed bearing up against it, as if something within had thrust it up. I graspt the Feathers to feel if any living thing were in it. I looked under and every where about, to see if there were any Dog or Cat, or any such Creature in the Room, and so we all did, but found nothing. The motion it caused by this panting was so strong, that it shook the Room and Windows very sensibly. It continued thus, more than half an hour, while my friend and I stay'd in the Room, and as long after, as we were told. During the panting, I chanced to see as it had been something (which I thought was a Rat or Mouse) moving in a Linen Bag, that hung up against another Bed that was in the Room. I slept and caught caught it by the upper end with one Hand, with which I held it, and drew it through the other, but found nothing at all in it. There was no body near to shake the Bag, or if there had, no one could have made such a motion, which seemed to be from within, as if a Living Creature had moved in it. This passage I mention not in the former Editions, because it depended upon my single Testimony, and might be subject to more Evasions than the other I related; but having told it to divers Learned and Inquisitive Men, who thought it not altogether inconsiderable, I have now added it here. It will I know be said by some, that my friend and I were under some affright, and so fancied noises and sights that were not. This is the Eternal Evasion. But if it be possible to know how a Man is affected, when in fear, and when unconcerned, I certainly know for mine own part, that during the whole time of my being in the Room, and in the House, I was under no more affrightment than I am, while I write this Relation. And if I know that I am now awake, and that I see the Objects that are before me, I know that I heard and saw the particulars I have told. There is, I am sensible, no great matter for story in them, but there is so much as convinceth me, that there was somewhat extraordinary, and what we usually call preternatural in the business. There were other passages at my being at Tedworth, which I published not, because they are not such plain and unexceptionable Proofs. I shall now briefly mention them, valeant quantum valere possunt. My friend and I lay in the Chamber, where the first and chief disturbance had been. We slept well all Night, but early before day in the Morning, I was awakened (and I awakened my Bed-fellow) by a great knocking just without our Chamber door. I askt who was there several times, but the knocking still continued without answer. At last I said, In the Name of God, who is it, and what would you have? to which a voice answered, nothing with you. We thinking it had been some Servant of the House, went to sleep again. But speaking of it to Mr. Mompesson when we came down, he assured us, that no one of the House lay that way, or had business thereabout, and that his Servants were not up till he called them, which was after it was day. Which they confirmed and protested that the noise was not made by them.

Mr. Mompesson had told us before, that it would be gone in the middle of the Night, and come again divers times early in the Morning about Four a Clock, and this I suppose was about that time.
in

Another passage was this, my Man coming up to me in the Morning, told me, that one of my Horses (that on which I rode) was all in a sweat, and lookt as if he had been rid all Night. My friend and I went down and found him so. I enquired how he had been used, and was assured that he had been well fed, and ordered as he used to be, and my Servant was one that was wont to be very careful about my Horses. The Horse I had had a good time, and never knew but that he was very sound. But after I had rid him a Mile or two, very gently over a plain Down from Mr. Mompesson's house, he fell lame, and having made a hard shift to bring me home, dyed in two or three days, no one being able to imagine what he ailed. This I confess might be accident or some unusual distemper, but all things being put together, it seems very probable that it was somewhat else.

But I go on with Mr. Mompesson's own particulars. There came one Morning a light into the Childrens Chamber, and a voice crying, a Witch, a Witch, for at least an hundred times together.

Mr. Mompesson at another time (being in the day) seeing some wood move that was in the Chimney of a Room, where he was, as of it self, discharged a Pistol into it, after which they found several drops of Blood on the Harth, and in divers places of the Stairs.

For two or three nights after the discharge of the Pistol, there was a calm in the House, but then it came again, applying it self to a little Child newly taken from Nurse. Which it so persecuted, that it would not let the poor Infant rest for two nights together, nor suffer a Candle in the Room, but carry them away lighted up the Chimney, or throw them under the Bed. It so scared this Child by leaping upon it, that for some hours it could not be recovered out of the fright. So that they were forced again to remove the Children out of the house. The next night after which something about Mid-night came up the Stairs, and knockt at Mr. Mompesson's door, but he lying still, it went up another pair of Stairs, to his Mans Chamber, to whom it appeared standing at his Beds foot. The exact shape and proportion he could not discover, but he saith he saw a great Body with two red and glaring Eyes, which for some time were fixed steadily upon him, and at length disappeared.

at which time also the Cloaths and Children were lift up from the Bed, and six Men could not keep them down. Hereupon they removed the Children, intending to have ript up the Bed. But they were no sooner laid in another, but the second Bed was more troubled than the first. It continued thus four hours, and so beat the Childrens Leggs against the Bed-posts, that they were forced to arise, and sit up all night. After this, it would empty Chamberpots into their Beds, and strew them with Ashes, though they were never so carefully watcht. It put a long piked Iron into Mr. Mompesson's Bed, and into his Mothers a naked Knife upright. It would fill Porrengers with Ashes, throw every thing about and keep a noise all day.

About the beginning of April, 1663. a Gentleman that lay in the house, had all his money turned black in his Pockets; and Mr. Mompesson coming one Morning into his Stable, found the Horse he was wont to Ride, on the Ground, having one of his hinder Leggs in his Mouth, and so fastened there, that it was difficult for several Men to get it out with a Leaver. After this, there were some other remarkable things, but my account goes no further. Only Mr. Mompesson writ me word, that afterwards the House was several nights beset set with seven or eight in the shape of Men, who, as soon as a Gun was discharged, would shuffle away together into an Arbour.

The Drummer was tryed at the Assizes at Salisbury upon this occasion. He was committed first to Gloucester Gaol for stealing, and a Wiltshire Man coming to see him, he askt what news in Wiltshire. The Visitant said, he knew of none. No, saith the Drummer! do not you hear of the Drumming at a Gentlemans house at Tedworth, That I do enough, said the other. I, quoth the Drummer, I have plagued him (or to that purpose) and he shall never be at quiet, till he hath made me satisfaction for taking away my Drum. Upon Information of this, the fellow was tryed for a Witch at Sarum, and all the main circumstances I have related, were sworn at the Assizes by the Minister of the Parish, and divers others of the most intelligent and substantial Inhabitants, who had been Eye and Ear witnesses of them, time after time for divers years together.

The fellow was condemned to Transportation, and accordingly sent away; but I know not how ('tis said by raising storms, and affrighting the Seamen) he made a shift to come back again. And 'tis observable, that during all the time of his restraint straint and abience the house was quiet, but as soon as ever he came back at liberty, the disturbance returnæd.

He had been a Souldier under Cromwel, and used to talk much of Gallant Books he had of an odd fellow, who was counted a Wizzard. Upon this occasion, I shall here add a passage, which I had not from Mr. Mompesson, but yet relates to the main purpose.

The Gentleman, who was with me at the House, Mr. Hill, being in company with one Compton of Summerjetsbire, who practiseth Physick, and pretends to strange matters, related to him this story of Mr. Mompesson's disturbance. The Physician told him, he was sure it was nothing but a Rendezvouz of Witches, and that for an hundred pounds, he would undertake to rid the House of all disturbance. In pursuit of this discourse, he talkt of many high things, and having drawn my friend into another Room apart from the rest of the company, said, he would make him sensible he could do something more than ordinary, and askt him who he desired to see. Mr. Hill had no great confidence in his talk, but yet being earnestly prest to name some one, He said, he desired to see no one so much as his Wife, who was then many miles distant from them at her home. Upon this,
Compton

Compton took up a Looking-glass that was in the Room, and setting it down again, bid my friend look in it; which he did, and there, as he most solemnly and seriously professeth, he saw the exact Image of his Wife in that habit which she then wore, and working at her Needle in such a part of the Room (there represented also) in which and about which time she really was as he found upon inquiry when he came home. The Gentleman himself averred this to me, and he is a very sober, intelligent, and credible person. Compton had no knowledge of him before, and was an utter stranger to the person of his Wife. The same Man we shall meet again in the story of the Witchcrafts of Elizabeth Style, whom he discovered to be a Witch by foretelling her coming into an house, and going out again without speaking, as is set down in the third Relation. He was by all counted a very odd person.

Thus I have written the summ of Mr. Mompesson's disturbance, which I had partly from his own mouth related before divers, who had been witnesses of all, and confirmed his relation, and partly from his own Letters, from which the order and series of things is taken. The same particulars he writ also to Dr. Creed, then Doctor of the Chair in Oxford.

Mr. Mompesson is a Gentleman, of whose truth in this account, I have not the least ground of suspicion, he being neither vain nor credulous, but a discreet, sagacious and manly person. Now the credit of matters of Fact depends much upon the Relatours, who, if they cannot be deceived themselves nor supposed any ways interessed to impose upon others, ought to be credited. For upon these circumstances, all humane Faith is grounded, and matter of Fact is not capable of any proof besides, but that of immediate sensible evidence. Now this Gentleman cannot be thought ignorant, whether that he relates be true or no, the Scene of all being his own house, himself a witness and that not of a circumstance or two, but of an hundred, nor for once or twice only, but for the space of some years, during which he was a concerned, and inquisitive Observer. So that it cannot with any shew of reason be supposed that any of his Servants abused him, since in all that time he must needs have detected the deceit. And what interest could any of his family have had (if it had been possible to have managed it without discovery) to continue so long so troublesome, and so injurious an Imposture? Nor can it with any whit of more probability be imagined, that his own melancholy deluded him, since (besides that he

he is no crazy nor imaginative person) that humour could not have been so lasting and pertinacious. Or if it were so in him, can we think he infected his whole Family, and those multitudes of neighbors and others, who had so often been witnesses of those passages? Such supposals are wild, and not like to tempt any, but those whose Wills are their Reasons. So that upon the whole, the principal Relatour Mr. Mompesson himself knew, whether what he reports was true or not, whether those things acted in his house were contrived Cheats, or extraordinary Realities. And if so, what interest could he serve in carrying on, or conniving at a juggling Design and Imposture?

He suffered by it in his Name, in his Estate, in all his Affairs, and in the general peace of his Family. The Unbelievers in the matter of Spirits and Witches took him for an Impostour. Many others judged the permission of such an extraordinary evil to be the judgment of God upon him, for some notorious wickedness or impiety. Thus his name was continually exposed to censure, and his estate suffered, by the concurrence of people from all parts to his house, by the diversion it gave him from his affairs, by the discouragement of Servants, by reason of which he could hardly get any to live with with him. To which if I add the continual hurry that his Family was in, the affrights, vexations and tossings up and down of his Children, and the watchings and disturbance of his whole house (in all which, himself must needs be the most concerned person) I say, if these things are considered, there will be little reason to think he could have any interest to put a cheat upon the World, in which he would most of all have injured and abused himself. Or if he should have designed and managed so incredible, so unprofitable a Delusion, 'tis strange that he should have troubled himself so long in such a business, only to deceive, and to be talkt of. And it is yet more so, that none of those many inquisitive persons that came thither purposely to criticize and examine the truth of those matters, could make any discoveries of the Juggling, especially since many came prejudiced against the belief of such things in general, and others resolved before-hand against the belief of this, and all were permitted the utmost freedom of search and inquiry. And after things were weighed and examined, some that were before greatly prejudiced, went away fully convinced. To all which I add, that practised, as the motion of Boards and Chairs of themselves, the beating of a Drum in the midst of a Room, and in the Air, when nothing was to be seen; the great heat in a Chamber that had no Fire in excessive cold weather, the scratching and panting, the violent beating and shaking of the Bedsteads, of which there was no perceivable cause or occasion: In these and such like instances, it is not to be conceived how tricks could have been put upon so many, so jealous, and so inquisitive persons as were witnesses of them.

'Tis true, that when the Gentlemen the King sent were there, the House was quiet, and nothing seen nor heard that night, which was confidently and with triumph urged by many, as a confutation of the story. But 'twas bad Logick to conclude in matters of Fact from a single Negative and such a one against numerous Affirmatives, and so affirm that a thing was never done, because not at such a particular time, and that no body ever saw what this Man or that did not. By the same way of reasoning, I may infer that there were never any Robberies done on Salisbury Plain, Honnslow Heath, or the other noted places, because I have often Travelled all those ways, and yet was never Robbed; and the Spaniard inferred well that said, There was no Sun in England,

England, because he had been six Weeks here and never saw it. This is the common argument of those that deny the Being of Apparitions, they have Travelled all hours of the night, and never saw any thing worse than themselves (which may well be) and thence they conclude , that all pretended Apparitions are Fancies or Impostures. But why do not such arguers conclude, that there was never a Cut-purse in London, because they have lived there many years without being met with by any of those Practisers ? Certainly he that denies Apparitions upon the confidence of this Negative against the vast heap of Positive assurances, is credulous in believing there was ever any Highway-man in the World , if he himself was never Robb'd. And the Trials of Affizes and Attestations of those that have (if he will be just) ought to move his Assent no more in this case, than in that of Witches and Apparitions, which have the very same evidence.

But as to the quiet of Mr. Mompesson's house when the Courtiers were there, it may be remembred and considered, that the disturbance was not constant, but intermitted sometimes several dayes , sometimes Weeks. So that the intermission at that time might be accidental , or perhaps the Demon was not willing to give so publick a Testimony of those Transactions, which possibly might convince those, who he had rather should continue in the unbelief of his existence. But however it were, this circumstance will afford but a very slender inference against the credit of the story, except among those who are willing to take any thing for an Argument against things which they have an interest not to acknowledge.

I have thus related the sum of the story, and noted some circumstances that assure the truth of it. I confess the passages recited are not so dreadful, Tragical and amazing, as there are some in story of this kind, yet are they never the less probable or true, for their being not so prodigious and astonishing. And they are strange enough to prove themselves effects of some invisible extraordinary Agent, and so demonstrate that there are Spirits, who sometimes sensibly intermeddle in our affairs. And I think they do it with clearness of evidence. For these things were not done long ago, or at far distance, in an ignorant age, or among a barbarous people, they were not seen by two or three only of the Melancholick and superstitious, and reported by those that made them serve the advantage and interest of a party. They were not the passages of a Day or Night, nor the vanishing glances glances of an Apparition; but these Transactions were near and late, publick, frequent, and of divers years continuance, witnessed by multitudes of competent and unbyass'd Attestors, and acted in a searching incredulous Age: Arguments enough one would think to convince any modest and capable reason.

This Narrative of the Dæmon of Tedworth is published in an Epistolar Form in the former Impressions. But the enlargement thereof, that is to say, the said Narrative enlarged for this intended Edition, is not in that form, and therefore is thus published according to Mr. Glanvil's M. S. in this bare simple form it was found. As for Mr. Glanvil's Letter to Dr. More, which was in the former impressions, though for the first parts sake it might seem fit here to be interserted, it containing Objections and Queries touching the stirrs at Mr. Mompeston's house, yet the greater part by far being of another subject, and the most material of those Objections and Queries being so well satisfied in this more perfect Narrative it self, I thought it more advisable to omit that Letter in this present Edition, that there might be left more room for what is

And therefore we will immediately proceed to

R E L A T. II.

Jane Brooks upon Richard Jones, Son of Henry Jones of Shepton Mallet.*

ON Sunday 15. of Novemb. 1657. about Three of the Clock in the Afternoon, Richard Jones then a sprightly youth about Twelve years old, Son of Henry Jones of Shepton Mallet, in the County of Somerset, being in his Fathers house alone, and perceiving one looking in at the Windows, went to the Door, where one Jane Brooks of the same Town (but then by name unknown to this Boy) came to him. She desired him to give her a piece of close Bread, and gave him an Apple. After which she also stroked him down on the right side, shook him by the hand, and so bid him good night. The youth returned into the house, where he had been left well, when his Father and one Gibson went from him, but at their return, which was within an hour or thereabout, they found him ill, and complaining of his right side, in which the pain continued the most part of that night. And on Munday following in the Evening, the Boy rosted the Apple he had of Jane Brooks, and having eaten about half of it, was extreamly ill, and sometimes speechless, but being recovered, he told his Father, that a Woman of the Town on the Sunday before, had given him that Apple, and that she stroked him on the side. He said he knew not her name, but should her person, if he saw her. Upon this Jones was advised to invite the Women of Shepton to come to his House, upon the occasion of his Sons illness, and the Child told him, that in case the Woman should come in when he was in his Fit, if he were not able to speak, he would give him an intimation by a Jogg, and desired that his Father would then lead him through the room, for he said he would put his hand upon her, if she were there. After this he continuing very ill, many Women came daily to see him. And Jane Brooks the Sunday after, came in with Two of her Sisters, and several other Women of the Neighbour-hood were there.

Upon her coming in, the Boy was taken so ill, that for some time he could not see nor speak, but having recovered his sight, he gave his Father the Item, and he led him about the Room. The Boy drew towards Jane Brooks, who was behind her two Sisters among the other Women, and put his hand upon her, which his Father perceiving, immediately scratcheth her Face and drew Blood from her. The youth then presently cryed out that he was well, and so he continued seven or eight days. But then meeting with Alice Coward, Sister to Jane Brooks, who passing by said to him [How do you my Hony] he presently fell ill again. And after that, the said Coward and Brooks often appeared to him. The Boy would describe the Clothes and Habit they were in at the time exactly, as the Constable and others have found upon repairing to them, though Brooks's house was at a good distance from Jones's. This they often tryed, and always found the Boy right in his Descriptions.

On a certain Sunday about Noon, the Child being in a Room with his Father and one Gibson, and in his fit, he on the sudden called out, that he saw Jane Brooks on the Wall, and pointed to the place, where immediately Gibson struck with a Knife. Upon which the Boy cryed out, [O Father, cooz Gibson hath cut Jane Brooks's hand, and 'tis Bloody] The Father and Gibson immediately repaired to the Constable ble a discreet Person, and acquainting him with what had passed, desired him to go with them to Jane Brooks's house, which he did. They found her sitting in her room on a stool with one hand over the other. The Constable askt her how she did? she answered, not well. He askt again why she sat with one hand over the other? she replied, she was wont to do so. He enquired if any thing were amiss with her hand? her answer was, it was well enough. The Constable desired he might see the hand that was under, which she being unwilling to shew him, he drew it out and found it bloudy according to what the Boy had said. Being askt how it came so, she said 'twas scratched with a great Pin.

On the Eighth of December, 1657. The Boy, Jane Brooks, and Alice Coward, appeared at Castle-Cary before the Justices, Mr. Hunt and Mr. Cary. The Boy having begun to give his Testimony, upon the coming in of the two Women and their looking on him was instantly taken Speechless; and so remained till the Women were removed out of the room, and then in a short time upon examination he gave a full relation of the mentioned particulars.

On the Eleventh of January following, the Boy was again examined by the same Justices at Shepton Mallet, and upon the sight sight of Jane Brooks was again taken Speechless, but was not so afterwards when Alice Comard came into the room to him.

On the next appearance at Shepton, which was on the Seventeenth of February, there were present many Gentlemen, Ministers and others. The Boy fell into his fit upon the sight of Jane Brooks, and lay in a Man's Arms like a dead Person; the Woman was then willed to lay her hand on him, which she did, and he thereupon started and sprang out in a very strange and unusual manner. One of the Justices to prevent all possibilities of Legerdemain, caused Gibson and the rest to stand off from the Boy, and then that Justice himself held him; the Youth being blindfolded, the Justice called as if Brooks should touch him, but winked to others to do it, which two or three successively did, but the Boy appeared not concerned. The Justice then called on the Father to take him, but had privately before desired one Mr. Geoffry Strode, to bring Jane Brooks to touch him at such a time as he should call for his Father, which was done, and the Boy immediately sprang out after a very odd and violent fashion. He was after touched by several Persons and moved not, but Jane Brooks being again caused to put her hand upon him, he started and sprang out twice or thrice as before. All this while while he remained in his fit and some time after; and being then laid on a bed in the same room, the People present could not for a long time bow either of his Arms or Leggs.

Between the mentioned 15. of Nov. and the 11. of Jan. the two Women appeared often to the Boy, their Hands cold, their Eyes staring, and their Lips and Cheeks looking pale. In this manner on a Thursday about Noon, the Boy being newly laid into his bed, Jane Brooks and Alice Coward appeared to him, and told him that what they had begun they could not perform. But if he would say no more of it, they would give him Money, and so put a Two-pence into his Pocket. After which they took him out of his bed, laid him on the ground, and vanished; and the Boy was found by those that came next into the room lying on the floor, as if he had been dead. The Two-pence was seen by many, and when it was put into the fire and hot, the Boy would fall ill; but as soon as it was taken out and cold, he would be again as well as before. This was seen and observed by a Minister a discreet Person, when the Boy was in one room and the Two-pence (without his knowledge) put into the fire in another, and this was divers times tried in the presence of several Persons.

Be-

Between the 8. of Dec. and the 17. of Feb. in the Year mentioned, divers Persons at sundry times heard in the Boy a noise like the croaking of a Toad, and a voice within him saying, Jane Brooks, Alice Coward, twelve times in near a quarter of an hour. At the same time some held a Candle before the Boys face, and earnestly looked on him, but could not perceive the least motion of his Tongue, Teeth or Lips, while the voice was heard.

On the 25. of Feb. between two and three in the Afternoon, the Boy being at the house of Richard Isles in Shepton Mallet, went out of the room into the Garden, Isles his Wife followed him, and was within two Yards when she saw him rise up from the ground before her, and so mounted higher and higher till he passed in the Air over the Garden wall, and was carried so above ground more than 30 Yards, falling at last at one Jordan's Door at Shepton, where he was found as dead for a time. But coming to himself told Jordan, that Jane Brooks had taken him up by the Arm out of Isles his Garden, and carried him in the Air as is related.

The Boy at several other times was gone on the suddain, and upon search after him found in another room as dead, and at sometimes strangely hanging above the ground, his hands being flat against a great Beam
in

in the top of the room, and all his Body two or three foot from ground. There he hath hung a quarter of an hour together, and being afterwards come to himself, he told those that found him, that Jane Brooks had carried him to that place and held him there. Nine People at a time saw the Boy so strangely hanging by the Beam.

From the 15. of Nov. to the 10. of March following, he was by reason of his fits much wasted in his body and unspirited, but after that time, being the day the two Women were sent to Gaol, he had no more of those fits.

Jane Brooks was Condemned and Executed at Charde Assizes, March 26. 1658.

This is the sum of Mr. Hunts Narrative, which concludes with both the Justices attestation, thus:

The aforesaid passages were some of them seen by us: and the rest and some other remarkable ones, not here set down, were upon the examination of several credible witnesses taken upon Oath before us.

Subscribed;

Rob. Hunt, John Cary.

This

This I think is good evidence of the being of Witches; if the Sadducee be not satisfied with it, I would fain know what kind of Proof he would expect. Here are the Testimonies of sense, the Oaths of several credible attesters, the nice and deliberate scrutiny of quick-sighted and judicious examiners, and the judgment of an Assize upon the whole. And now the security of all our lives and fortunes depends upon no greater circumstances of evidence than these. If such proof may not be credited, no Fact can be proved, no wickedness can be punished, no right can be determined, Law is at an end, and blind Justice cannot tell how to decide any thing.

ADVERTISEMENT.

The most fit Advertisement here is Mr. Glanvills Transition to fresh Evidences, out of Mr. Hunts examinations, which is this. Thus far, saith he, the Evidence of Fact went in the former Editions, but having resolved upon this Reenforcement, I writ again to my Honoured Friend Mr. Hunt, knowing that he had more materials for my purpose, and such as would afford proof sufficient to any modest doubter. In Answer he was pleased to send me his Book of Examinations of Witches, which he kept
by

by him fairly written. It contains the discovery of such an hellish Knot of them, and that discovery so clear and plain, that perhaps there hath not yet any thing appeared to us with stronger Evidence to confirm the belief of Witches. And had not his discoveries and endeavours met with great opposition and discouragements from some then in Authority, the whole Clan of those hellish Confederates in these parts had been justly exposed and punished. Out of that Book I have Collected some main instances, the clearness of which I think will be enough to overcome and silence any indifferent prejudice. But some are so settled and obdurate, that no proof in the world is sufficient to remove them. I begin with the Witchcrafts of Elizabeth Style.

R E L A T. III.

which containeth the Witchcrafts of Elizabeth Style of Bayford, widow.

THIS Elizabeth Style of Stoke Trister, in the County of Somerset, was accused by divers Persons of Credit upon Oath before Mr. Hunt, and particularly and largely confessed her guilt her self, which was found found by the Jury at her Trial at Taunton. But she prevented Execution by dying in Gaol, a little before the expiring of the term her Confederate Demon had set for her enjoyment of Diabolical pleasures in this life. I have shortned the examinations, and cast them into such an order, as I think fittest for the rendring the matter clear and intelligible.

1. Exam. Rich. Hill of Stoke Trister, in the County of Somerset Yeoman, being examined upon Oath, Jan. 23. 1664. before Rob. Hunt, Esq; one of His Majesties Justices for that County, concerning the bewitching of his Daughter by Eliz. Style, declareth, That his Daughter Eliz. Hill, about the Age of 13 Years, hath been for about two Months last past taken with very strange fits which have held her an hour, two, three and more; and that in those fits the Child hath told her Father, the Examinant and others, that one Eliz. Style of the same Parish appeared to her, and is the Person that Torments her. She also in her fits usually tells what Clothes Eliz. Style hath on at the time, which the informant and others have seen and found true.

He saith further, that about a Fortnight before Christmas last, he told Style that his Daughter spoke much of her in her fits, and did believe that she was bewitched by her.

her. Whereupon Francis White, and Walter, and Robert Thick being present, willed her to complain to the Justice against him for accusing of her. But she having used several put-offs, said she would do worse than fetch a Warrant. After which the Girl grew worse than before, and at the end of a fit she tells the Examinant when she shall have another, which happens accordingly, and affirms, that Style tells her when the next fit shall come. He informs further, that Monday Night after Christmas day about Nine of the Clock, and four or five times since about the same hour of the Night, his Daughter hath been more Tormented than formerly, and that though held in a Chair by four or five People, sometimes six, by the Arms, Legs, and Shoulders, she would rise out of her Chair, and raise her body about three or four foot high. And that after, in her fits, she would have holes made in her Hand-wrists, Face, Neck, and other parts of her Body, which the Informant and others that saw them conceived to be with Thorns. For they saw Thorns in her Flesh, and some they hooked out. That upon the Childs pointing with her Finger from place to place, the Thorns and Holes immediately appeared to the Informant and others looking on. And as soon as the Child can speak after the fit, she saith that Widow Style did prick her with Thorns in those several places, which was horrible Torment, and she seemed to the Informant and others standing by, to be in extream pain and torture. The Child hath been so tormented and pricked with Thorns four several Nights, at which times the Informant and many other People have seen the flesh rise up in little bunches in which Holes did appear. The Pricking held about a quarter of an hour at a time during each of the four fits, and the Informant hath seen the Child take out some of those Thorns.

The same Rich. Hill Examined Jan. 26. 1664. informs, that when he rode from the Justices house with a Warrant to bring Styles before him, his Horse on a suddain fate down on his breech and he could not after ride him, but as soon as he attempted to get up, his Horse would sit down and paw with his feet before. He saith further, that since Styles was Examined before the Justice and made her Confession to him, she hath acknowledged to the Informant that she had hurt his Daughter, and that one Anne Bishop, and Alice Duke, did joyn in bewitching of her.

Taken upon Oath before me,

Rob. Hunt.

2. Exam. William Parsons Rector of Stoke Trister, in the County of Somerset, Examined the the 26. of Jan. 1664. before Rob. Hunt, Esq; concerning the bewitching of Rich. Hill's Daughter saith, That on Monday Night after Christmas day then last past, he came into the room when Eliz. Hill was in her fit, many of his Parishioners being present and looking on. He there saw the Child held in a Chair by main force by the People, plunging far beyond the strength of nature, foaming and catching at her own Arms and Clothes with her Teeth. This fit he conceives held about half an hour. After some time, she pointed with her finger to the left side of her Head, next to her left Arm, and then to her left Hand, &c. and where she pointed he perceived a red spot to arise with a small black in the midst of it like a small Thorn. She pointed also to her Toes one after another, and exprest great sense of Torment. This latter fit he guessees continued about a quarter of an hour, during most or all of which time her stomach seemed to swell, and her head where she seemed to be prickt did so very much. She sate foaming much of the time, and the next day after her fit, she shewed the Examinant the places where the Thorns were stuck in; and he saw the Thorns in those places.

3. Exam. Nicholas Lambert of Bayford, in the County of Somerset Yeoman, Examined upon Oath before Rob. Hunt, Esq; Jan. 30. 1664. concerning the bewitching of Rich. Hill's Daughter by Elizabeth Style, testifieth, That Monday after Christmas day last, being with others in the house of Rich. Hill, he saw his Daughter Elizabeth taken very ill, and in fits that were so strong that six Men could not hold her down in a Chair in which she was sate, but that she would raise the Chair up in spight of their utmost force. That in her fits being not able to speak, she would rest her body as one in great Torment, and point with her Finger to her Neck, Head, Hand-wrists, Arms and Toes. And he, with the rest looking on the places to which she pointed, saw on the suddain little red spots arise with little black ones in the midst, as if Thorns were stuck in them, but the Child then onely pointed without touching her flesh with her Finger.

4. Exam. Richard Vining of Stoke Trister Butcher, Examined Jan. 26. 1664. before Rob. Hunt, Esq; concerning the bewitching of his Wife by Eliz. style, saith, That about two or three days before S. James's day three years since or thereabout, his late Wife

Agnes fell out with Eliz. Style, and within two or three days after she was taken with a grievous pricking in her Thigh, which pain continued for a long time, till after some Physick taken from one Hallet, she was at some ease for three or four weeks. About the Christmas after the mentioned S. James's day, Style came to the Examinants house, and gave Agnes his Wife two Apples, one of them a very fair red Apple, which Style desired her to eat, which she did, and in a few hours was taken ill and worse than ever she had been before. Upon this, the Examinant went to one Mr. Compton, who lived in the Parish of Ditch Eate, (the same Person that shewed my Friend his Wife in a Glass, as I have related in the story of Mr. Mompeffon) for Physick for his Wife. Compton told him he could do her no good, for that she was hurt by a near Neighbour, who would come into his house and up into the Chamber where his Wife was, but would go out again without speaking. After Vining came home, being in the Chamber with his Wife, Style came up to them, but went out again without saying a word. Agnes the Wife continued in great pain till Easter Eve following, and then she dyed. Before her Death her Hip rotted and one of her Eyes swelled out, she declared to him then and at several times before, that she believed Eliz. Style had bewitched her, and that she was the cause of her Death.

Taken upon Oath before me,

Rob. Hunt,

Whilst the Justice was Examining Style at Wincaunton, (which is not above a Mile and a half from Stoke Trister) upon the former evidence against her, he observed that Rich. Vining looked very earnestly upon him. Whereupon he askt Vining if he had any thing to say unto him. He answered that Style had bewitched his Wife, and told the manner how, as is in his deposition related. The Woman Style upon this seemed appaled and concerned, and the Justice saying to her, You have been an old sinner, &c. You deserve little mercy: she replied, I have askt God mercy for it. Mr. Hunt askt her, why then she would continue in such ill courses? she said the Devil tempted her: and then began to make some Confession of his actings with her. Upon this the Justice sent her to the Constables house at Bayford, which is in the Parish of Stoke Trister, (the Constable was one Mr. Gapper) and the next Morning went thither himself, accompanied with two Persons of quality Mr. Bull, and Mr. Court, now Justices of the Peace in this County.

Now

Now before I proceed further in the story, I shall take notice that here are Three credible witnesses, swearing to the same particulars, in that the Child Elizabeth Hill was sometimes in strange fits, in which her strength was encreased beyond the proportion of Nature, and the force of divers Men; that then she pointed to the parts of her Body, where they saw red spots arising, and black specks in the midst of them, that she complained she was prickt with Thorns, and two of them saw Thorns in the places of which she complained. Some of which Thorns, one swears that he and others saw hooked out, and that the Girl herself pulled out others; that in her fits she declared Style appears to her (as Jane Brooks did to Richard Jones, in the former Relation) and tells her when she shall have another fit, which happens accordingly; that she describes the Clothes the Woman hath on, exactly as they find. But notwithstanding, all this shall be Melancholy and Fancy, or Legerdemain, or natural Distemper, or any thing but Witchcraft, or the Fact shall be denied, and the three Witnesses perjured, though this confidence against the Oaths of sober Men, tend to the overthrow of all Testimony and History, and the rendring all Laws useles. I shall therefore proceed to further proof, and such as will abundantly strengthen this. It is the confession of Style her self.

I left Mr. Hunt, and the other two Gentlemen at the Constables house, where Style was, upon business of further Examination, where she enlarged upon the Confession she had before begun to make, and declared the whole matter at that and two other times after in the particulars that follow.

5. Exam. Elizabeth Styles her Confession of her Witchcrafts, Jan. 26. and 30. and Feb. 7. 1664. before Rob. Hunt Esq; She then confessed, that the Devil about Ten years since, appeared to her in the shape of a handsome Man, and after of a black Dog. That he promised her Mony, and that she should live gallantly, and have the pleasure of the World for Twelve years, if she would with her Blood sign his Paper, which was to give her Soul to him, and observe his Laws, and that he might suck her Blood. This after four solicitations, the Examinant promised him to do. Upon which he prickt the fourth Finger of her right hand, between the middle and upper joynt (where the sign at the Examination remained) and with a drop or two of her Blood, she signed the Paper with an [O]. Upon this the Devil gave her Sixpence, and vanished with the Paper.

That since he hath appeared to her in the shape of a Man, and did so on wednesday seven-night past, but more usually he appears in the likeness of a Dog, and Cat, and a Fly like a Millar, in which last he usually sucks in the Poll about four of the Clock in the Morning, and did so Jan. 27. and that it usually is pain to her to be so suckt.

That when she hath a desire to do harm, she calls the Spirit by the name of Robin, to whom when he appeareth, she useth these words, O Sathan give me my purpose. She then tells him what she would have done. And that he should so appear to her, was part of her Contract with him.

That about a Month ago he appearing, she desired him to torment one Elizabeth Hill, and to thrust Thorns into her flesh, which he promised to do, and the next time he appeared, he told her he had done it.

That a little above a Month since this Examinant, Alice Duke, Anne Bishop and Mary Penny, met about nine of the Clock in the Night, in the Common near Trister Gate, where they met a Man in black Clothes with a little Band, to whom they did Courtesie and due observance, and the Examinant verily believes that this was the Devil. At that time Alice Duke brought a Picture in Wax, which was for Elizabeth Hill. The Man in black took it in his Arms, anointed ed its Fore-head, and said, I Baptize thee with this Oyl, and used some other words. He was Godfather, and the Examinant and Anne Bishop Godmothers. They called it Elizabeth or Bess. Then the Man in Black, this Examinant, Anne Bishop, and Alice Duke stuck Thorns into several places of the Neck, Hand-wrists, Fingers, and other parts of the said Picture. After which they had Wine, Cakes and Roastmeat (all brought by the Man in black) which they did eat and drink. They danced and were merry, were bodily there, and in their Clothes.

She further saith, that the same persons met again, at or near the same place about a Month since, when Anne Bishop brought a Picture in Wax, which was Baptized John, in like manner as the other was, the Man in black was Godfather, and Alice Duke and this Examinant Godmothers. As soon as it was Baptized, Anne Bishop stuck two Thorns into the Arms of the Picture, which was for one Robert Newman's Child of Wincaunton. After they had eaten, drank, danced and made merry, they departed.

That she with Anne Bishop, and Alice Duke met at another time in the Night, in a ground near Marnbul, where also met several other persons. The Devil then also there in the former shape, Baptized a Picture by the name of Anne or Rachel Hatcher.

The

The Picture one Durnford's Wife brought, and stuck Thorns in it. Then they also made merry with Wine and Cakes, and so departed.

She saith, before they are carried to their meetings, they anoint their Foreheads, and Hand-wrists with an Oyl the Spirit brings them (which smells raw) and then they are carried in a very short time, using these words as they pass, Thout, tout a tout, tout, throughout and about. And when they go off from their Meetings, they say, Rentum Tormentum.

That at their first meeting, the Man in black bids them welcome, and they all make low obeysance to him, and he delivers some Wax Candles like little Torches, which they give back again at parting. When they anoint themselves, they use a long form of words, and when they stick in Thorns into the Picture of any they would torment they say, A Pox on thee, I'll spite thee.

That at every meeting before the Spirit vanisheth away, he appoints the next meeting place and time, and at his departure there is a foul smell. At their meeting they have usually Wine or good Beer, Cakes, Meat or the like. They eat and drink really when they meet in their bodies, dance also and have Musick. The Man in black sits at the higher end, and Anne Bishop usually ally next him. He useth some words before meat, and none after, his voice is audible, but very low.

That they are carried sometimes in their Bodies and their Clothes, sometimes without, and as the Examinant thinks their Bodies are sometimes left behind. When only their Spirits are present, yet they know one another.

When they would bewitch Man, Woman or Child, they do it sometimes by a Picture made in Wax, which the Devil formally Baptizeth. Sometimes they have an Apple, Dish, Spoon or other thing, from their evil Spirit, which they give the party to whom they would do harm. Upon which they have power to hurt the person that eats or receives it. Sometimes they have power to do mischief by a touch or curse, by these they can mischief Cattle, and by cursing without touching; but neither without the Devils leave.

That she hath been at several general meetings in the night at High Common, and a Common near Motcombe, at a place near Marnhull, and at other places where have met John Combes, John Vining, Richard Dickes, Thomas Boster or Bolster, Thomas Dunning, James Bash a lame Man, Rachel King, Richard Lannen, a Woman called Durnford, Alice Duke, Anne Bishop, Mary Penny and Christopher

Christopher Ellen, all which did obeysance to the Man in black, who was at every one of their meetings. Usually they have at them some Picture Baptized.

The Man in black, sometimes plays on a Pipe or Cittern, and the company dance. At last the the Devil vanisheth, and all are carried to their several homes in a short space. At their parting they say [A Boy! merry meet, merry part.]

That the reason why she caused Elizabeth Hill to be the more tormented was, because her Father had said, she was a Witch. That she has seen Alice Dukes Familiar suck her, in the shape of a Cat, and Anne Bishops suck her in the shape of a Rat.

That she never heard the name of God or Jesus Christ mentioned at any of their meetings.

That Anne Bishop, about five years and a half since, did bring a Picture in Wax to their meeting, which was Baptized by the Man in black, and called Peter. It was for Robert Newman's Child at Wincaunton.

That some two years ago, she gave two Apples to Agnes Vining, late Wife of Richard Vining, and that she had one of the Apples from the Devil, who then appeared to her
and

and told, That Apple would do Vining's Wives business.

6. Exam. William Parsons Rector of Stoke Trister, Examined Feb. 7. 1664. before Rob. Hunt Esq; concerning Elizabeth Style's confession, saith, That he heard Style before the Justice of Peace, at the time of her Examination confess, as she hath done also to the Examinant several times since, that she was in Covenant with the Devil, that she had signed it with her Blood, that she had been with the Devil at several meetings in the night, that at one time of those meetings, there was brought a Picture in blackish Wax, which the Devil in the shape of a Man in blackish Clothes, did Baptize by the name of Eliz. Hill, that she did stick in one Thorn into the Hand-wrists of the Picture, that Alice Dake stuck Thorns into the same, and that Anne Bishop and Mary Penny were present at that meeting with the Devil.

This

This Confession of Styles was free and unforced, without any torturing or watching, drawn from her by a gentle Examination, meeting with the Convictions of a guilty Conscience. She confesseth that she desired the Devil to torment Eliz. Hill, by thrusting Thorns into her flesh, which he promised, and said he had done it. That a Picture was Baptized for her the said Elizabeth, and that She, the Familiar, and Alice Duke stuck Thorns into several places of the Neck, Hand-wrists, Fingers and other parts thereof, which exactly agrees with the strange effects related, concerning the torments the Child suffered, and this mischief she confesseth she did, because her Father said she was a Witch. She confesseth she gave two Apples to Vinings Wife, one of which she had from the Devil, who said it would do the business, which sutes also with the Testimony of Vining concerning his Wife.

She confesseth further, That the Devil useth to suck her in the Poll, about four a Clock in the Morning, in the Form of a Fly like a Millar, concerning which, let us hear Testimony (the other particulars of her Confession we shall consider as occasion offers.)

7. Exam. Nicholas Lambert Examined again Jan. 26. 1664. before Rob. Hunt Esq; concerning what happened after Styles confession, cession, testifyeth, That Eliz. Style having been Examined before the Justice, made her Confession, and committed to the Officer, the Justice required this Examinant, William Thick and William Read of Bayford to watch her, which they did ; and this Informant sitting near Style by the fire, and reading in the Practice of Piety, about Three of the Clock in the Morning, there came from her Head a glistering bright Fly, about an Inch in length, which pitched at first in the Chimney, and then vanished. In less than a quarter of an hour after, there appeared two Flies more of a less size, and another colour, which seemed to strike at the Examinants hand, in which he held his Book but missed it, the one going over, the other under at the same time. He looking stedfastly then on Style, perceived her countenance to change, and to become very black and gasty, the fire also at the same time changing its colour ; whereupon the Examinant, Thick and Read conceiving that her Familiar was then about her, looked to her Poll, and seeing her Hair shake very strangely took it up, and then a Fly like a great Millar flew out from the place, and pitched on the Table-board, and then vanished away. Upon this the Examinant, and the other two persons looking again in Styles Poll, found it very red and like like raw Beef. The Examinant askt her what it was that went out of her Poll, she said it was a Butterfly, and askt them why they had not caught it. Lambert said, they could not. I think so too, answered she. A little while after, the Informant and the others looking again into her Poll, found the place to be of its former colour. The Examinant demanding again what the Fly was, she confessed it was her Familiar, and that she felt it tickle in her Poll, and that was the usual time when her Familiar came to her.

8. Exam. Eliz. Torwood of Bayford, Examined Feb. 7. 1664. before Rob. Hunt Esq; concerning the mark found about Eliz. Style after her Confession, Depoeth, That she together with Catharine White, Mary Day, Mary Bolster, and Bridget Prankard, did a little after Christmas last, search Eliz. Style, and that in her Poll they found a little rising which felt hard like a Kernel of Beef, whereupon they suspecting it to be an ill mark, thrust a Pin into it, and having drawn it out, thrust it in again the second time, leaving it sticking in the flesh for some time, that the other Women might also see it.

Notwithstanding which, style did neither at the first or second time make the least shew that she felt any thing. But after, when the Constable told her he would thrust in a Pin to the place, and made a shew as if he did, O Lord, said she, do you prick me, whenas no one then touched her.

The Examinant further saith, that style hath since confessed to her, that her Familiar did use to suck her in the place mentioned, in the shape of a great Millar or Butterfly.

Catharine white, Mary Day, Mary Bolster and Bridget Prankard do say, that the above-said Examination of Eliz. Torwood is truth.

R E L A T. IV.

which is the Examination and Confession of Alice Duke, alias Manning (another Witch of Styles Knot) of Wincaunton, in the County of Somerset Widdow, taken Jan. 27. and Feb. 2. 7. 10. 21. An. 1664. before Robert Hunt Esq.

THe Examinant saith, That when she lived with Anne Bishop of Wincaunton, about Eleven or Twelve years ago, Anne Bishop perswaded her to go with her into the Church-yard in the night-time, and being come thither, to go backward round the Church, which they did three times. In their first round, they met a Man in black Clothes, who went round the second time with them, and then they met a thing in the shape of a great black Toad, which leapt up against the Examinants Apron. In their third round they met somewhat in the shape of a Rat, which vanished away. After this the Examinant and Anne Bishop went home, but before Anne Bishop went off, the Man in black said somewhat to her softly, which the Informant could not hear.

A few days after, Anne Bishop speaking Ll 2 about

about their going round the Church, told the Examinant, that now she might have her desire, and what she would wish for. And shortly after, the Devil appeared to her in the shape of a Man, promising that she should want nothing, and that if she cursed any thing with A Pox take it, she should have her purpose, in case she would give her Soul to him, suffer him to suck her Blood, keep his Secrets, and be his instrument to do such mischief as he would set her about. All which, upon his second appearing to her, she yielded to, and the Devil having prickt the fourth finger of her right hand between the middle and upper joynt (where the mark is yet to be seen) gave her a Pen, with which she made a cross or mark with her Blood on Paper or Parchment, that the Devil offered her for the confirmation of the Agreement, which was done in the presence of Anne Bishop. And as soon as the Examinant had signed it, the Devil gave her Sixpence, and went away with the Paper or Parchment.

Further she confesseth, That she hath been at several meetings in Lie Common, and other places in the night, and that her Forehead being first anointed with a Feather dipt in Oyl, she hath been suddenly carried to the place of their meeting. That about five or six Weeks since (or more) she met in the said Common in the night, where were present Anne Bishop, Mary Penny of Wincaunton, Elizabeth Style of Bayford, and a Man in black Clothes with a little Band, whom she supposeth to have been the Devil. At the meeting there was a Picture in Wax, which the Man in black took in his Arms, and having anointed its Forehead with a little greenish Oyl, and using a few words, Baptized it by the name of Elizabeth or Bess Hill, for the Daughter of Richard Hill. Then the Devil, this Examinant, Anne Bishop, and Elizabeth Style stuck Thorns in the Neck, Head, Hand-wrists, Fingers and other parts of the Picture, Saying, A Pox on thee, I'll spite thee. This done, all sat down, a white Cloth being spread on the ground, and did drink Wine, and eat Cakes and Meat. After all was ended, the Man in black vanished, leaving an ugly smell at parting. The rest were on a sudden conveyed to their homes.

On Monday night after Christmas day last, she met the same Company again, near about the same place, and then Anne Bishop (who was there in a green Apron, a French Waistcoat and a red Petticoat) brought in her Apron a Picture in blackish Wax, which the Devil Baptized as before, by the name of John Newman, for the Son of Rob. Newman of Wincaunton, and then the Devil first, after Anne Bishop and this Examinant thrust in Thorns into the Picture, Anne Bishop sticking in two Thorns into the Arms of it. The Picture Anne Bishop carried away with her. They were all there present in their Clothes, and the Devil in the shape of a Man in black.

About Five years and a half since, the same persons were at the Baptizing of another Image, by the name of Peter Newman, another Son of Robert Newman, both which are since dead, and then Anne Bishop desired the Examinant to joyn with her in bewitching of Peter and John Newman.

At another time she was carried to a meeting in the night, to a green place near Marnbull as she was then told, where were present Anne Bishop, Eliz. Style, Mary Penny, and some unknown to her. Then also an Image in Wax was Baptized by the Devil, in the fore-related manner, by the name of Anne or Rachel Hatcher one of Marnbull, as she was then informed. After the Ceremony was ended, they had Wine, Cakes, &c.

She likewise confesseth, that she was at another such meeting, where twelve persons were present, many of whom were unknown to her, but she took notice of one lame Man in blackish Hair among them, and of the Devil as before.

She

She saith that after their meetings, they all make very low obeysances to the Devil, who appears in black Clothes and a little Band. He bids them welcome at their coming, and brings Wine or Beer, Cakes, Meat, or the like. He sits at the higher end, and usually Anne Bishop sits next him. They eat, drink, dance, and have Musick. At their parting they use to say, Merry meet merry part, and that before they are carried to their meetings, their Foreheads are anointed with greenish Oyl that they have from the Spirit which smells raw. They for the most part are carried in the Air. As they pass, they say, Thout, tout a tout, tout, throughout and about. Passing back they say, Rentum Tormentum, and another word which she doth not remember.

She confesseth that her Familiar doth commonly suck her right Breast about seven at night, in the shape of a little Cat of a dunish colour, which is as smooth as a Want, and when she is suckt, she is in a kind of a Trance.

That she hurt Thomas Garret's Cowes, because he refused to write a Petition for her.

That she hurt Thomas Conway, by putting a Dish into his Hand, which Dish she had from the Devil, she gave it him to give his Daughter for good hansel.

That she hurt Dorothy the Wife of George Vining, by giving an Iron slate to put into her steeling Box.

That being angry with Edith Watts, the Daughter of Edmond Watts for treading on her Foot, she cursed Edith with a Pox on you, and after touched her, which hath done the said Edith much harm, for which she is sorry.

That being provoked by Swanton's first Wife, she did before her death curse her, with a Pox on you, believes she did thereby hurt her, but denies she did bewitch Mr. Swanton's Cattle.

She saith, That when the Devil doth any thing for her, she calls for him by the name of Robin, upon which he appears, and when in the shape of a Man, she can hear him speak, but his voice is very low. He promised her when she made her contract with him, that she should want nothing, but ever since she hath wanted all things.

1. Exam. Thomas Conway of Wincaunton, in the County of Somerset, Examined Feb. 12. 1664. before Robert Hunt Esquire, concerning Alice Duke, informeth, That about Twelve Months since Alice Duke alias Manning, brought a little Pewter Dish to this Informant, and told him it was good handfel for his Daughter. The Examinant willed the said Alice to carry it to her, she be-after he was taken extreamly ill in all his Limbs. Of which illness the Physicians, whom he applied himself to, could give no was very angry and muttered much, because he would not sign a Petition on her behalf.

 She hath confessed to him since that she had her he had it from Alice Duke for good han-

 In this Dish she warmed a little Deer-sewer

Nipples with it, which put her to extream pain. Upon which suspecting harm from the dish, she put it into the fire, which then presently vanished and nothing of it could afterwards be found. After, when she anointed her Daughters Nipples with the same Deer-sewet and Rose-water, warmed in a spoon, she complained not of any pain. She further saith, That her Husband after he had received the dish from the hands of Alice Duke, was taken ill in all his Limbs, and held for a long time in a very strange manner.

ADVERTISEMENT.

Besides the plain agreement betwixt the witnesses, and the Witches own Confession, it may be worth the taking notice here, how well her confession of having her Familiar suck her in the shape of a Cat, agrees with Eliz. Style's Confession, that she had seen Alice Dukes Familiar suck her in that shape. As also how the bewitching of Edward Watts's Child by Alice Duke her saying, a Pox on her, agrees with the promise of the Devil to her, which is expressly, That if she cursed any thing with a Pox take it, she should have her purpose. She also testifying of the Baptizing the Image of Eliz. Hill, and of those forms of words, Thout, tout a tout, and Rentum Tormentum at their going to their meetings and departing, plainly shews that these things are not transacted in dreams but in reality. The Devil also as in other stories leaving an ill smell behind him, seems to imply the reality of the business, those ascitious particles he held together in his visible vehicle, being loosened at his vanishing, and so offending the nostrils by their floating and diffusing themselves in the open Air.

*which is the Examination and Confession of Christian Green, Aged about thirty three years, Wife of Rob. Green of Brewham, in the County of Somerset, taken before Rob.
Hunt, Esq; March 2. 1664.*

THIS Examinant saith, That about a year and a half since (she being in great poverty) one Catharine Green of Brewham, told her, that if she would she might be in a better condition, and then perswaded her to make a Covenant with the Devil. Being afterwards together in one Mr. Hussy's Ground in Brewham Forrest about Noon, Catharine called for the Devil, who appeared in the shape of a Man in blackish Clothes, and said somewhat to Catharine which Christian could not hear. After which the Devil (as she conceived him) told the Examinant that she should want neither Clothes, Victuals, nor Money, if she would give her Body and Soul to him, keep his secrets, and suffer him to suck her once in twenty four hours, which at last upon his and Catharine Greens perswasion she yielded to; then the Man in black prickt the fourth finger finger of her Right-hand between the middle and upper joints, where the sign yet remains, and took two drops of her blood on his finger, giving her fourpence halfpenny, with which she after bought Bread in Brewham. Then he spake again in private with Catharine and vanished, leaving a smell of Brimstone behind.

Since that time the Devil (she saith) hath and doth usually suck her left Brest about five of the Clock in the Morning in the likenes of an Hedg-hog, bending, and did so on Wednesday Morning last. She saith it is painful to her, and that she is usually in a trance when she is suckt.

She saith also, that Catharine Green, and Margaret Agar of Brewham, have told her that they are in Covenant with the Devil, and confesseth that she hath been at several meetings in the Night in Brewham Common, and in a Ground of Mr. Hussey's, that she hath there met with Catharine Green and Margaret Agar, and three or four times with Mary Warberton of Brewham, That in all those meetings the Devil hath been present in the shape of a Man in black Clothes. At their first coming he bids them welcome, but always speaks very low.

That at a meeting about three weeks or a Month since at or near the former place, Margaret Agar brought thither an Image in Wax, Wax, for Elizabeth the Wife of Andrew Cornish of Brewham, and the Devil in the shape of a Man in black Clothes did Baptize it, and after stuck a Thorn into its Head; that Agar stuck one into its Stomach, and Catharine Green one into its side. She further saith, that before this time, Agar said to her this Examinant, that she would hurt Eliz. Cornish, who since the Baptizing of the Picture hath been taken and continues very ill.

She saith, that three or four days before Jos. Talbot of Brewham dyed, Margaret Agar told her that she would rid him out of the World, because being Overseer of the Poor he made her Children go to Service, and refused to give them such good Clothes as she desired. And since the Death of Talbot, she confessed to the Examinant, that she had bewicht him to Death. He dyed about a year since, was taken ill on Friday, and dyed about wednesday after.

That her Mother-in-Law Catharine Green, about five or six years ago was taken in a strange manner. One day one Eye and Cheek did swell, another day another, and so she continued in great pain, till she dyed. Upon her Death she several times said in the hearing of the Examinant, that her Sister-in-Law Catharine Green had bewitched her; and the Examinant believes that she bewicht her to Death.

That

That a little before Michaelmas last, the said Catbarine cursed the Horses of Rob. Walter of Brewham, saying, A Murrain on them Horses to Death. Upon which the Horses being three, all dyed.

1. Exam. E Lizabeth Talbot of Brewham, Examined March 7. 1664. before Rob. Hunt, Esq; saith, That about three weeks before her Father Jos. Talbot dyed, Margaret Agar fell out with him, because he being Overseer for the Poor, did require Agar's Daughter to go to Service, and said to him, that he was proud of his living, but swore by the blood of the Lord, that he should not long enjoy it. Within three weeks of which he was suddainly taken in his body as if he had been stabb'd with Daggers, and so continued four or five days in great pain and then dyed.

2. Exam. Jos. Smith of Brewham, Husbandman, Examined March 15. 1664 before Rob. Hunt, Esq; saith, That some few days before Jos. Talbot dyed, he heard Margaret Agar rail very much at him, because he had caused her Daughter to go to Service, and said, that he should not keep his living but be drawn out upon four Mens shoulders. That she should tread upon his jaws, and see the grass grow over his head, which she swore by the blood of the Lord.

3. Exam. Mary the Wife of William Smith of Brewham, Examined March 8. 1664. before Rob. Hunt, Esq; saith, That about two years since Margaret Agar came to her and called her Whore, adding, A Plague take you for an old whore, I shall live to see thee rot on the Earth before I die, and thy Cows shall fall and die at my feet. A short time after which, she had three Cows that died very strangely, and two of them at the door of Margaret Agar. And ever since the Examinant hath consumed and pined away, her Body and her Bowels rotting, and she verily believes that her Cattle and her self were bewicht by Agar.

4. Exam. Catharine Green alias Cornish of Brewham, Widow, Examined May 16. 1665. before Rob. Hunt, Esq; saith, That on Friday in the Evening, in the beginning of March last, Margaret Agar came to her, and was earnest she should go with her to a Ground called Husseys-knap, which she did, and being come thither they saw a little Man in black Clothes with a little band. As soon as they came to him Margaret Agar took out of her lap a little Picture in blackish Wax, which she delivered to the Man in black, who stuck a Thorn into the Crown of the Picture, and then delivered it back to Agar. Upon which she stuck a Thorn towards the heart of the Picture, Cursing and laying, a Plague on you; which she told the Examinant was done to hurt Eliz. Cornish, who as she hath been told hath been very ill ever since that time.

That a little above a year since Jos. Talbot late of Brewham, being Overseer for the Poor, did cause two of Agar's Children to go to Service. Upon which she was very angry and said in the Examinants hearing a few days before he fell sick and died, that she had trod upon the jaws of three of her Enemies, and that she should shortly see Talbot rot and tread on his jaws. And when this Examinant desired her not to hurt Talbot, she swore by the blood of the Lord, she would confound him if she could. The day before he dyed, she said to the Examinant, Gods wounds I'll go and see him, for I shall never see him more; and the next day Talbot dyed.

That she heard Margaret Agar curse Mary Smith, and say, she should live to see her and her Cattle fall and rot before her face.

5. Exam. Mary Green of Brewham, single Woman, Examined June 3. 1665. before Rob. Hunt, Esq; saith, That about a Month before Jos. Talbot late of Brewham dyed, Margaret Agar fell out with him about the putting out of her Child to Service. After that she saw a Picture in Clay or Wax in the hands of Agar, which she said was for Talbot; the Picture she saw her deliver in Redmore, to the Fiend in the shape of a Man in black about an hour in the Night, who stuck a Thorn in or near the Heart of it, Agar stuck another in the Breast, and Catharine Green, Alice Green, Mary Warberton, Henry Walter and Christian Green, all of Brewham, were then and there present, and did all stick Thorns into the Picture.

At

At that time Catharine Green spake to Agar not to hurt Talbot, because she received somewhat from him often times, but Agar replied, by the Lords blood she would confound him, or words to that purpose.

That a little before Talbot was taken sick, Agar being in the house where the Examinant lived, swore that she should e're long tread upon his jaws. And that if Talbot made her Daughter go to Service for a year; yet if she came home in a quarter it would be time enough to see him carried out upon four Mens shoulders and to tread upon his jaws.

That on the day Talbot dyed, she heard Agar swear that she had now plagued Talbot; and that being in company with her some time before, and seeing a dead Horse of Talbot's drawn along by another of his Horses, she swore that that Horse should be also drawn out to morrow, and the next day she saw the well Horse also drawn out dead.

That above a Month before Margaret Agar was sent to Gaol, she saw her, Henry Walter, Catharine Green, Jone Syme, Christian Green, Mary Warberton and others, meet at a place called Husseys-knap in the Forrest in the Night time, where met them the Fiend in the shape of a little Man in black Clothes with a little band, to him all made obeyfances, and at that time a Picture in Wax or Clay was delivered by Agar to the Man in black, who stuck a Thorn into the Crown of it, Margaret Agar one towards the Breast, Catharine Green in the side; after which Agar threw down the Picture and said, there is Cornishes Picture with a Murrain to it, or Plague on it. And that at both the meetings there was a noisom smell of Brimstone.

That about two years since in the Night there met in the same place Agar, Henry Walter, Catharine Green, Jone Symes, Alice Green and Mary Warberton. Then also Margaret Agar delivered to the little Man in black a Picture in Wax, into which he and Agar stuck Thorns, and Henry Walter thrust his Thumb into the side of it. Then they threw it down and said, there is Dick Greens Picture with a Pox in't. A short time after which Rich. Green was taken ill and dyed.

Further he saith, That on Thursday Night before Whitsunday last, about the same place met Catharine Green, Alice Green, Jone Symes, Mary Warberton, Dinah and Dorothy Warberton and Henry Walter, and being met they called out Robin. Upon which instantly appeared a little Man in black Clothes to whom all made obeysance, and the little Man put his hand to his Hat, saying, How do do ye? speaking low but big. Then all made low obeysances to him again. That she hath seen Margaret Clark twice at the meetings, but since Margaret Agar was sent to Prison she never saw her there.

Before we pass to other Relations, it will not be amiss further to remark upon these taken out of the Examinations of Mr. Hunt: From the poisoned Apples that Jane Brooks gave to Rich. Jones, and Eliz. Style to Agnes Vining, and the poisoned Pewter-dish that Alice Duke put into the hands of Thomas Conway, (which dish and apples they had from the Devil) we may observe in what a peculiar sense Witches and Wizzards are called εαμμανοι, Venefici and Veneficæ, Poysoners. Not that they mischieve People ordinarily by natural Poisons, as Arsenick and the like, but rather by some hellish malignancy infused into things by the art and malice of the Devil, or by the steams of their own Body which the Devil sucks. For the hand of Jane Brooks stroaking down Rich. Jones his side impressed a pain thereon.

We may observe also what an eximious Example of Moses his Mecassephah (the word which he uses in that Law, Thou shalt not suffer a Witch to live) Margaret Agar is, and how fitly some interpreters render Mecassephim, Malefici, from the great mischief they do and delight in. And what a great credit this Agar is to J. Webster, and the rest of the Hagg-advocates, which would make them to be meer conzening Queans or Melancholick Fopps that had nothing to do with the Devil. As if the Man in black and a little band were but such another as J. Webster, or any other Hagg-advocate that in waggery acted the part of the Devil in Hufleys Knap, or any such like place of a Forrest, and so after all quickly and suddainly recoiling behind a bush and letting fly into the wind, the deluded Hags took it for the vanishing of the very Fiend and his perfuming the Air with the smell of Brimstone. One that can resolve all the feats of the Hartummim of Egypt into tricks of Legerdemain, cannot be easily delude the company with such a feat as this, the old wives being thick of hearing and carrying their spectacles not on their noses but in their pockets?

And lastly from the Devils covenanting with the Witches for their Souls, it may be observed that the old Hags dealing bonâ fide, and thinking they have Souls surviving their Bodies, are better Philosophers than the huffy Wits of our Age that deny distinction of Soul and Body.

But

But if they have not (as these Huffers would have it) and the Hags think so themselves, it is a pretty Paradox that these old Fopps should be able to out-wit the very Devil; who does not in bartering for their Bodies and Souls buy a Pig in a poke, as the Proverb is, but a poke without a Pig. But I rather believe that these huffing Wits, as high as they are, may learn one true point of Philosophy from these Hags and their Familiars; these evil spirits certainly making their bargains wisely enough in covenanting for the Witches Soul. Which clause if it were not exprest, the Soul were free from the Familiars jurisdiction after death. Wherefore it is no contemptible argument these evil Spirits covenanting for the Soul of the Witch, that they know the Soul survives the Body, and therefore make their bargain sure for the possession of it as their Peculium after death. Otherwise if the Soul were mortal they would tell the Witches so, the more easily to precipitate them into all wickedness, and make them more eager by the ministry to enjoy this present life. But this Doctrine is inconsistent with the form of his Covenant, whereby they are assured to him after death.

R E L A T. VII.

Touching Florence Newton an Irish witch of Youghal, taken out of her Trial at the Assizes held for the County of Corke, Sept. 11. Ann. 1661.

THIS Florence Newton was committed to Youghall Prison, by the Major of the Town, March 24. 1661. for bewitching Mary Longdon, who gave evidence against her at Cork Assizes, as follows. Mary Longdon being sworn and examined what she could say against the said Florence Newton for any practice of Witchcraft upon her self, and being bidden to look on the Prisoner, her countenance changed pale, and she was very fearful to look towards her, but at last she did. And being askt whether she knew her, she said she did, and wisht she never had. Being askt how long she had known her, she said for three or four years. And that at Christmas last the said Florence came to the Deponent, at the House of John Pyne in Youghall, where the Deponent was a Servant. And askt the Deponent to give her a piece of Beef out of the Powdering-Tub. And the Deponent answering her, that she could not not give away her Masters Beef, she said Florence seemed to be very angry, and said, thou hadst as good have given it me, and so went away grumbling.

That about a week after, the Deponent being going to the Water with a Pail of Cloth on her head, she met the said Florence Newton, who came full in her face, and threw the Pail off her Head, and violently kist her, and said, Mary, I pray thee, let thee and I be friends, for I bear thee no ill will, and I pray thee do thou bear me none. And that she the Deponent went afterwards home, and that within a few days after, she saw a Woman with a Vail over her face, and by her Bed-side, and one standing by her like a little Old Man in silk Clothes, and that this Man which she took to be a spirit, drew the Vail from off the Womans face, and then she knew it to be Goody Newton, and that the Spirit spake to the Deponent, and would have had her promise him to follow his advice, and she should have all things after her own heart, to which she says, she answered, that she would have nothing to say to him, for her trust was in the Lord.

That within a Month after the said Florence had kist her, she this Deponent fell very ill of Fits or Trances, which would take her on the sudden, in that violence that that three or four Men could not hold her. And in her Fits she would often be taken with Vomitings, and would Vomit Needles, Pins, Horse-nails, Stubbs, Wool and Straw, and that very often. And being asked whether she perceived at these times what she Vomited? she said she did. For then she was not in so great distraction as in other parts of her fits she was. And that a little before the first beginning of her fits, several (and very many) smallstones would fall upon her as she went up and down, and would follow her from place to place, and from one room to another, and would hit her on the head, shoulders and arms, and fall to the ground and vanish away. And that she and several others would see them both fall upon her, and on the ground, but could never take them save onely some few, which she and her Master caught in their hands. Amongst which one that had a hole in it she tied (as she was advised) with a Leather thong to her Purse, but it was vanisht immediately though the Leather continued tied on a fast Knot.

That in her fits she often saw this Florence Newton, and cryed out against her for tormenting of her, for she says that she would several times stick Pins into her Arms, and some of them so fast that a Man must pluck three three or four times to get out the Pin, and they were stuck betwixt the skin and the flesh. That sometimes she should be removed out of her bed into another room, sometimes she should be carried to the top of the house laid on a board betwixt two Sollar Beams, sometimes put into a Chest, sometimes under a parcel of wool, sometimes betwixt two Feather-beds on which she used to lie, and sometimes betwixt the Bed and the Mat in her Masters Chamber in the day time. And being asked how she knew she was thus carried about and disposed of, seeing in her fits she was in a violent distraction? she answered, she never knew where she was till they of the Family and the Neighbours with them would be taking her out of the places whither she was so carried and removed. And being asked the reason wherefore she cryed out so much against the said Florence Newton in her fits? she answered, because she saw her and felt her torturing.

And being asked how she could think it was Florence Newton that did her this prejudice? she said, first because she threatned her, then because after she had kist her she fell into these fits, and that she both saw and felt her tormenting. And lastly, that when the People of the Family by advice of the Neighbours and consent of the Major, had sent for Florence Newton to come to the De-

Deponent, she was always worse when she was brought unto her, and her fits more violent than at another time. And that after the said Florence was committed at Toughall, the Deponent was not troubled, but was very well till a little while after the said Florence was removed to Corke, and then the Deponent was as ill as ever before. And the Major of Toughall one Mr. Mayre, then sent to know whether the said Florence were bolted (as the Deponent was told) and finding she was not, order was given to put the bolts on her, which being done the Deponent saith she was well again, and so hath continued ever since. And being asked whether she had such like fits before the said Florence gave her the kiss, she saith she never had any, but believes that with that kiss she bewitcht her, and the rather because she hath heard from Nicholas Pyne and others, that the said Florence had confessed as much.

This Mary Longdon having closed up her Evidence, Florence Newton peep'd at her as it were betwixt the heads of the bystanders that interposed betwixt her and the said Mary, and lifting up both her hands together as they were manacled cast them in an angry violent kind of motion (as was seen and observed by W. Aston,) towards the said Mary, as if she intended to strike at her if she could have reacht her, and said

Now she is down. Upon which the maid fell suddainly down to the ground like a stone, and fell into a most violent fit, that all the People that could come to lay hands on her could scarce hold her, she biting her own Arms and shreeking out in a most hideous manner to the amazement of all the beholders. And continuing so for about a quarter of an hour (the said Florence Newton sitting by her self all that while pinching her own Hands and Arms as was sworn by some that observed her) the maid was ordered to be carried out of Court and taken into a house. Whence several Persons after that, brought word that the Maid was in a Vomiting fit, and they brought in several crooked Pins and Straws and Wool, in white foam like spittle in great proportions. Whereupon the Court having taken notice that the Maid had said she had been very well when the said Florence was in bolts, and ill again when out of them, till they were again put on her, demanded of the Gaoler if she were in bolts or no, to which he said she was not, but onely manacled. Upon which order was given to put on her bolts, and upon putting them on she cryed out, she was killed, she was undone, she was spoiled, why do you torment me thus? and so continued complaining grievously for half a quarter of an hour. And then came in a Messenger from the Maid and informed the Court the Maid was well. At which Florence immediately and cholerickly uttered these words, She is not well yet. And being demanded how she knew she was not well yet? she denied she said so, though many in Court heard her say the words, and she said, if she did, she knew not what she said, being old and disquieted and distracted with her sufferings. But the Maid being reasonably well come to her self, was, before the Court knew any thing of it, sent out of Town to Roughall, and so was no further Examined by the Court.

The fit of the Maid being urged by the Court with all the Circumstances of it upon Florence, to have been a continuance of her Devilish practice, she denied it, and likewise the motion of her hands, or the saying, Now she is down, though the Court saw the first, and the words were sworn by one Roger Moor. And Thomas Harrison swore that he had observed the said Florence peep at her and use that motion with her hands, and saw the Maid fall immediately upon that motion, and heard the words, Now she is down, uttered.

Nicholas stont was next produced by Mr. Attorney General, who being sworn and Examined said, That he had oft tried her, having heard say that Witches could not say the the Lords Prayer, whether she could say that Prayer or no, and found she could not. Whereupon she said she could say it, and had oft said it. And the Court being desired by her to hear her say it, gave her leave. And four times together after these words [give us this day our daily bread] she continually said as we forgive them, leaving always out the words [and forgive us our trespasses] upon which the Court appointed one near her to teach her these words she so left out. But she either could not or would not say them, using only these or the like words when these were repeated, Ay Ay trespasses, that's the words. And being oft pressed to utter the words as they were repeated to her, she did not. And being asked the reason, she said she was old and had a bad memory; and being asked how her memory served her so well for other parts of the Prayer, and only fail her for that, she said she knew not, neither could she help it.

John Pyne being likewise sworn and Examined, said that about January last the said Mary Longdon being his Servant was much troubled with little Stones that were thrown at her where ever she went, and that he hath seen them come as if they were thrown at her, others as if they dropped on her, and that he hath seen very great quantities of them, and that they would, after they had hit hit her, fall on the ground, and then vanish so that none of them could be found. And further, that the Maid once caught one of them, and he himself another, and one of them with a hole in it, she tyed to her purse, but it vanished in a little time, but the knot of the Leather that tyed it remained unaltered. That after the stones had thus haunted her, she fell into most grievous fits, wherein she was so violently distracted, that four Men would have very much ado to hold her, and that in the highest extremity of her fits, she would cry out against Gammer Newton for hurting and tormenting of her. That sometimes the Maid would be reading in a Bible, and on a sudden he hath seen the Bible struck out of her Hand into the middle of the Room, and she immediately cast into a violent fit. That in the fits he hath seen two Bibles laid on her Breast, and in the twinkling of an Eye they would be cast betwixt the two Beds the Maid lay upon, sometime thrown into the middle of the Room, and that Nicholas Pyne held the Bible in the Maids Hand so fast, that it being suddainly snatcht away two of the leaves were Torn. That in many other fits the Maid was removed strangely, in the twinkling of an Eye, out of the bed, sometimes into the bottom of a Chest with Linnen, under all the Linnen, and the Linnen not at

at all disordered, sometimes betwixt the two Beds she lay on; sometimes under a parcel of Wool; sometimes betwixt his Bed and the Mat of it in another Room, and once she was laid on a small deal Board, which lay on the top of the House betwixt two Sollar Beams, where he was forced to rear up Ladders to have her fetcht down. That in her fits she hath often Vomited up Wool, Pins, Horse-Nails, Stubs, Straw, Needles and Moss, with a kind of white Foam or Spittle, and hath had several Pins stuck into her Arms and Hands, that sometimes a Man must pull three or four times before he could pull one of them out, and some have been stuck between the flesh and the Skin, where they might be perfectly seen, but not taken out, nor any place seen where they were put in. That when the Witch was brought into the Room, where she was, she would be in more violent and longer lasting fits than at other times. That all the time the Witch was at liberty, the Maid was ill, and as soon as she was committed and bolted, she recovered and was well, and that when the Witch was removed to Corke, the Maid fell ill. And thereupon the Major of Roughall sent to see if she were bolted or no, and to acquaint them the Maid was ill, and desire them if the Witch were not bolted, they would bolt her. That she immediately mended ed and was as well as ever she was: and when the Messenger came from Corke, and told them when the Witch was bolted, it fell out to be the very time the Maid amended at Toughall.

Nicholas Pyne being sworn, saith, That the second night after that the Witch was in Prison, being 24 of March last, he and Joseph Thompson, Roger Hawkins, and some others went to speak with her concerning the Maid, and told her that it was the general Opinion of the Town that she had bewitched her, and desired her to deal freely with them, whether she had bewitched her or no. She said she had not bewitched her, but it may be she had over-looked her, and that there was a great difference betwixt bewitching and over-looking, and that she could not have done her any harm if she had not toucht her, and that therefore she had kist her. And she said that what mischief she thought of at that time she kist her, that would fall upon her, and that she would not but confess she had wronged the Maid, and thereupon fell down upon her Knees, and prayed God to forgive her for wronging the poor Wench. They wisht that she might not be wholly destroyed by her; to which she said, it must be another that must help her, and not they that did the harm. And then she said, there were others, as Goody Halfpenny, peony, and Goody Dod in Town, that could do these things as well as she, and that it might be one of them that had done the Maid wrong.

That towards Evening, the Door of the Prison shook, and she arose up hastily and said, What makest thou here this time a night? and there was a very great noise, as if some body with Bolts and Chains had been running up and down the Room, and they asked her what it was she spoke to, and what it was made the noise; and she said she saw nothing, neither did she speak, and if she did, it was she knew not what. But the next day she confest it was a Spirit, and her Familiar in the shape of a Grey-hound.

He saith further, That he and Mr. Edward Perry and others, for Trial of her took a Tyle off the Prison, next to the place where the Witch lay, and carried it to the House where the Maid lived, and put it into the fire till it was red hot, and then dropt some of the Maids Water upon it, and the Witch was then grievously tormented, and when the Water was consumed, she was well again.

And as to the stones falling on and cast at the Maid, as to the Maids fits, her removal into the Chest under the Wool, betwixt the Feather-beds; on the top of the deal Board betwixt two Sollar beams, concerning the Bibles and their remove, his holding one of them in the Maids hands till two Leaves were torn, concerning the Maids Vomiting, and her calling out against the Witch, he agreeth perfectly throughout with John Pyne as before.

Edward Perry being likewise sworn deposeth, That he, Mr. Greatrix and Mt. Blackwall went to the maid, and M. Greatrix and he had read of a way to discover a Witch, which he would put in practice. And so they sent for the Witch, and set her on a Stool, and a Shoemaker with a strong Awl endeavored to stick it in the Stool, but could not till the third time. And then they bad her come off the Stool, but she said she was very weary and could not stir. Then two of them pulled her off, and the Man went to pull out his Awl, and it dropt into his hand with half an Inch broke off the blade of it, and they all looked to have found where it had been stuck, but could find no place where any entry had been made by it. Then they took another Awl and put it into the Maids hand, and one of them took the Maids hand, and ran violently at the Witches hand with it, but could not enter it, though the Awl was so bent that none of them could put it streight again. Then Mr. Blackwall took a Launce and launc'd one of her hands an Inch and a half long, and a quarter of an Inch deep, deep, but it bled not at all. Then he launc't the other hand, and then they bled.

He further saith, That after she was in Prison, he went with Roger Hawkins and others to discourse with the Witch about the Maid, and they askt what it was she spake to the day before, and after some denyal, she said it was a Greyhound which was her Familiar, and went out at the Window, and then she said if I have done the Maid hurt, I am sorry for it. And being then asked whether she had done her any hurt, she said she never did bewitch her, but confessed she had overlooked her that time she kist her, but that she could not now help her, for none could help that did the mischief, but others. And further the Deponent saith, That after at the Assize at Casbal, he meeting with one William Lap, and discoursing about these passages with him, the said Lap told the Deponent, that if he would but take a Tyle off the House near the place where the Witch lay, and heat it red hot in the fire, and then take some of the Maids Water and drop upon it, that so long as this was doing, he should find the Witch most grievously tormented: That afterwards he, Edward Perry, Nicholas Pyne and others put this in practice, and found that the Witch was extreemly tormented and vexed, and when the experiment was over, she came to her self, and then they askt her how she came to hurt the Maid: and she said, that what evil she thought against the Maid that time she kist her, that would fall upon her, and that she could not have hurt her except she had toucht her, and then she fell on her knees and confest she had wronged the Maid, and desired God to forgive her. And then they put her upon saying the Lord Prayer, but she could not say the words, and forgive us our trespasses.

Mr. Wood a Minister being likewise sworn, and Examined deposeth, That having heard of the stones dropt and thrown at the Maid, and of her fits, and meeting with the Maids Brother, he went along with him to the Maid, and found her in her fit crying out against Gammer Newton, that she prickt her and hurt her. And when she came to herself he asked her what had troubled her, and she said Gammer Newton. And the Deponent said, why, she was not there. Yes, said she, I saw her by my bed side. The Deponent then asked her the original of all, which she related from the time of her begging the Beef, and after Kissing and so to that time. That then they caused the Maid to be got up and sent for Florence Newton, but she refused to come, pretending she was sick, though indeed it appeared she was well. Then the Major of Roughall came in and and spoke with the Maid, and then sent again and caused Florence Newton to be brought in, and immediately the Maid fell into her fit far more violent, and three times as long as at any other time, and all the time the Witch was in the Chamber the Maid cryed out continually of being hurt here and there, but never named the Witch; but as soon as she was removed, then she cryed out against her by the name of Gammer Newton, and this for several times. And still when the Witch was out of the Chamber the Maid would desire to go to Prayers, and he found good affections in her in time of Prayer. but when the Witch was brought in again, though never so privately, although she could not possibly, as the Deponent conceives, see her, she would be immediately senseless and like to be strangled, and so would continue till the Witch were taken out, and then though never so privately carried away she would come again to her senses. That afterwards Mr. Greatrix, Mr. Blackwall and some others, who would need satisfy themselves in the influence of the Witches presence, tried it and found it several times. Although he did it with all possible privacy, and so as none could think it possible for the Maid to know either of the Witches coming in or going out.

Richard Mayre Major of Roughall, being likewise sworn saith, That about the 24th of March last, he sent for Florence Newton, and Examined her about the Maid, and she at first denied it, and accused Goodwife Halfpenny and Goodwife Dod, but at length when he had caused a Boat to be provided, and had thought to have tried the Water Experiment on them all three, then Florence Newton confessed she had overlooked the Maid and done her wrong with a kiss. For which she was heartily sorry and desired God to forgive her. That then he likewise Examined the other two Women Halfpenny and Dod, but they utterly deny'd, it and were content to abide any Trial. Whereupon he caused both Florence, Halfpenny, and Dod, to be carried to the Maid. And he told her these two Women, or one of them were said by Gammer Newton to have done her hurt, but she answered No no, they are honest Women, but it is Gammer Newton that hurts me, and I believe she is not far off. That then they afterwards brought in Newton privately, and then she fell into a most violent fit, ready to be strangled, till the Witch was removed, and then she was well again, and this for three several times. He further deposeth, that there were three Aldermen in Roughall, whose Children she had had kist as he had heard them affirm, and all the Children died presently after. And as to the sending to Cork to have the bolts put on, swears as is formerly deposed.

Joseph Thomson being likewise sworn said, That he went in March last with Roger Hawkins, Nicholas Pyne, and others to the Prison to confer with Florence Newton about the Maid. But she would confess nothing that time. But towards Night there was a noise at the Prison door as if something had shak't the door, and Florence started up and said, What aileth thee to be here at this time of the Night? and there was much noise. And they asked her what she spoke to, and what made the great noise? But she denied that she spake or that she knew of any noise, and said, if I spoke I said I knew not what. And they went their ways at that time and went to her again the next Night, and asked her very seriously about the last Nights passage and the noise. And then she confessed to them that it was a Grayhound that came to her, and that she had seen it formerly, and that it went out at the Window. And then she confest she had done the Maid wrong, for which she was sorry and desired God to forgive her.

Hitherto we have heard the most considerable Evidence touching Florence Newton's Witchcraft upon Mary Longdon, for which which she was committed to Toughall Prison March 24. 1661. But April following she bewitcht one David Jones to death, by kissing his hand through the grate of the Prison, for which she was indicted at Cork Affizes, and the Evidence is as follows.

Elenor Jones Relict of the said David Jones, being sworn and Examined in open Court what she knew concerning any practice of Witchcraft by the said Florence Newton upon the said David her Husband? gave in the Evidence That in April last, the said David her late Husband having been out all the Night, came home early in the Morning, and said to the said Elenor his Wife, where dost thou think I have been all Night? To which she answered she knew not. Whereupon he replied, I and Frank Beseley have been standing Centinel over the Witch all Night. To which she the said Elenor said why what hurt is that? Hurt, quoth he? marry, I doubt it's never a jot the better for me. For she hath kist my hand through the grate, and ever since she kist my hand, I have had a great pain in that Arm, and I verily believe she hath bewitched me if ever she bewitched any Man. To which she answered, the Lord forbid. That all the Night and continually from that time he was restless and ill, complaining exceedingly of a great pain in his Arm for seven days together, and

and at the seven days end he complained that the pain was come from his Arm to his Heart, and then kept his Bed Night and Day grievously afflicted and crying out against Florence Newton, and about fourteen Days after he dyed.

Francis Beseley, being sworn and Examined said, That about the time aforementioned meeting with the said David Jones, and discoursing with him of the several reports then stirring concerning this Florence Newton (who was then in Prison at Toughall for bewitching Mary Longdon) viz. that she had several Familiars resorting to her in sundry shapes, the said David Jones told him the said Francis Beseley, that he had a great mind to watch her the said Florence Newton one Night to see whether he could observe any Cats or other Creatures resort to her through the grate, as 'twas suspected they did, and desired the said Francis to go with him, which he did. And that when they came thither David Jones called to Florence, and told her that he heard she could not say the Lords Prayer: To which she answered she could. He then desired her to say it: But she excused her self by the decay of Memory through old Age. Then David Jones began to teach her, but she could not or would not say it, though often taught it.

Upon

Upon which the said David Jones and Beseley being withdrawn a little from her, and discoursing of her, not being able to learn this Prayer, she called out to David Jones, and said, David! David! come hither, I can say the Lords Prayer now. Upon which David went towards her, and the said Deponent would have pluckt him back, and perswaded him not to have gone to her. But he would not be perswaded, but went to the Grate to her, and she began to say the Lords Prayer, but could not say, [Forgive us our Trespases]. So that David again taught her. Which she seemed to take very thankfully, and told him she had a great mind to have kist him, but that the Grate hindred, but desired she might kifs his hand. Whereupon he gave her his hand through the Grate, and she kist it, and towards break of day, they went away and parted, and soon after the Deponent heard that David Jones was ill.

Whereupon he went to visit him, and found him about two or three days after very ill of a pain in the Arm. Which he exceedingly complained of, and told the Deponent that ever since he parted with him he had been seized on with that pain, and that the Old Hag had bewitched him when she kist his hand, and that she had him now by the hand, and was pulling off his Arm.

And

And he said, Do you not see the Old Hag how she pulls me? Well, I lay my Death on her, she has bewitcht me. And several times after would complain, that she had tormented him, and had bewitched him, and that he laid his Death on her. And after fourteen days languishing, he the said David Jones dyed.

This Relation is taken out of a Copy of an Authentick Record, as I conceive, every half sheet having W. Aston writ in the Margin, and then again W. Aston at the end of all, who in all likelihood must be some publick Notary or Record-Keeper. But this Witch of Youghall is so famous, that I have heard Mr. Greatrix speak of her at my Lord Conway's at Ragley, and remember very well he told the story of the Awl to me there. There is in this Relation an eximious example of the Magical venome of Witches (whence they are called Veneficæ) in that all the mischief this Witch did, was by kissing, or some way touching the party she bewitcht, and she confest unless she toucht her, she could do her no hurt. Which may be called a Magical venome or contagion. But how Over-looking and Bewitching are distinguished with those of this Hellish Fraternity, I know know not. But that Mary Longdon was bewitch'd by her over-looking her is manifest whether this Over-looking relates to ἰσχυρὸς ἄδυναμις, and that the Magical Venome came out at her Eyes when she kissed the Maid, and whether this ἰσχυρὸς ἄδυναμις was the first kind of Witchery distinct from that of bewitching people by Images made of Wax, and afterward any bewitching by meer looking or touching, was called Over-looking, we will leave to the Critics of that black School to decide. As also what is that, which in the Witches shape, so haunts and torments the bewitched party. For that it is not the meer fancy of the bewitched seems reasonable to judge, because their meer fancy could not create such kinds of extreme torments to them. And therefore it is either the Witches Familiar in her shape, or the Astral Spirit of the Witch, because the Witch is sometimes wounded by striking at her Appearance, as it happened in the appearance of Jane Brooks, and also in that of Julian Cox, as you shall find in the Relation following.

RELAT.

RELAT. VIII.

The Narrative of Mr. Pool, a Servant and Officer in the Court to Judge Archer in his Circuits, concerning the Trial of Julian Cox for Witchcraft; who being himself then present an Officer in the Court, noted as follows, viz.

Julian Cox, aged about 70 years, was Indicted at Taunton in Somersetshire, about Summer Assizes 1663. before Judge Archer then Judge of Assize there, for Witchcraft, which she practised upon a young Maid, whereby her body languished, and was impaired of Health, by reason of strange fits upon account of the said Witchcraft.

The evidence against her was divided into two Branches; First, to prove her a Witch in general; Secondly, to prove her guilty of the Witchcraft contained in the Indictment.

For the proof of the first particular, The first Witness was an Huntsman, who swore that he went out with a pack of Hounds to hunt a Hare, and not far off from Julian Cox her house, he at last started a Hare. The Dogs hunted her very close, and the third

ring hunted her in view, till at last the Huntsman perceiving the Hare almost spent and making towards a great Bush, he ran on the other side of the Bush to take her up and preserve her from the Dogs. But as soon as he laid hands on her, it proved to be Julian Cox, who had her head groveling on the ground, and her globes (as he expressed it) upward. He knowing her, was affrighted, that his Hair on his Head stood on end; and yet spake to her, and askt her what brought her there. But she was so far out of Breath, that she could not make him any answer. His Dogs also came up with full cry to recover the game, and smelt at her, and so left off hunting any further. And the Huntsman with his Dogs went home presently, sadly affrighted.

Secondly, Another Witness swore, that as he passed by Cox her Door, she was taking a Pipe of Tobacco upon the Threshold of her Door, and invited him to come in and take a Pipe, which he did. And as he was taking Julian said to him, Neighbour look what a pretty thing there is. He look't down, and there was a monstrous great Toad betwixt his Leggs, staring him in the face. He endeavoured to kill it by spurning it, but could not hit it. Whereupon Julian bad him forbear, and it would do him no hurt. But he threw down his Pipe and and went home, (which was about two Miles off of Julian Cox her house) and told his Family what had happened, and that he believed it was one of Julian Cox her Devils. After, he was taking a Pipe of Tobacco at home, and the same Toad appeared betwixt his Leggs. He took the Toad out to kill it, and to his thinking cut it in several pieces, but returning to his Pipe, the Toad still appeared. He endeavored to burn it, but could not. At length he took a Switch and beat it. The Toad ran several times about the Room to avoid him, he still pursuing it with correction. At length the Toad cryed and vanish't, and he was never after troubled with it.

Thirdly, Another swore that Julian past by his Yard while his Beasts were in Milking, and stooping down scored upon the ground for some small time. During which time his Cattle ran mad, and some ran their heads against the Trees, and most of them dyed speedily. Whereupon concluding they were bewitched, he was after advised to this Experiment, to find out the Witch, viz. to cut off the Ears of the bewitched Beasts and burn them, and that the Witch would be in misery and could not rest till they were plucked out. Which he tryed, and while they were burning, Julian Cox came into the House, raging and scolding that they had abused her without cause, but she went presently to the fire and took out the Ears that were burning, and then she was quiet.

Fourthly, Another Witness swore that she had seen Julian Cox fly into her own Chamber Window in her full proportion, and that she very well knew her, and was sure it was she.

Fifthly, Another evidence was the confession of Julian Cox her self upon her Examination before a Justice of Peace, which was to this purpose, That she had been often tempted by the Devil to be a Witch, but never consented. That one evening she walkt out about a Mile from her own House, and there came riding towards her three persons upon three Broom-staves, born up about a yard and an half from the ground. Two of them she formerly knew, which was a Witch and a Wizzard that were hanged for Witchcraft several years before. The third person she knew not. He came in the shape of a black Man, and tempted her to give him her Soul, or to that effect, and to express it by pricking her finger, and giving her name in her Blood in token of it, and told her that she had revenge against several persons that had wronged her, but could not bring her purpose to pass without his help, and that upon the terms aforesaid he would assist her to be revenged against them. But she said, she did not consent to it. This was the sum of the general Evidence to prove her a Witch.

But now for the second particular, to prove her guilty of the Witchcraft upon the Maid whereof she was indicted, this Evidence was offered:

It was proved that Julian Cox came for an Alms to the house where this Maid was a Servant, and that the Maid told her, she should have none, and gave her a cross answer that displeased Julian. Whereupon Julian was angry and told the Maid she should repent it before Night, and so she did. For before Night she was taken with a Convulsion fit, and after that left her, she saw Julian Cox following her and cryed out to the People in the house to save her from Julian.

But none saw Julian but the Maid, and all did impute it to her imagination onely. And in the Night she cryed out of Julian Cox, and the black Man, that they came upon her bed and tempted her to drink something they offered her. But she cryed out, she defied the Devils Drenches. This also they imputed to her imagination, and bad her be quiet, because they in the same Chamber with her did not see or hear any thing, and they thought it had been her conceit onely.

The Maid the next Night expecting the same conflict she had the Night before, brought up with her a Knife, and laid it at her beds head: About the same time of the Night as before, Julian and the black Man came again upon the Maids bed and tempted her to drink that which they brought, but she refused, crying in the audience of the rest of the Family, that she defied the Devils Drenches, and took the Knife and stabbed Julian, and, as she said, she wounded her in the Leg and was importunate with the Witness to ride to Julian Cox's house presently to see if it were not so. The Witness went and took the Knife with him. Julian Cox would not let him in, but they forced the Door open and found a fresh wound in Julian's Leg, as the Maid had said, which did suit with the Knife, and Julian had been just dressing it when the Witness came. There was blood also found upon the Maids bed.

The next Morning the Maid continued her out-cries that Julian Cox appeared to her in the house wall, and offered her great Pins which she was forced to swallow. And all the Day the Maid was observed to convey her hand to the house wall, and from the wall to her Mouth, and she seemed by the motion of her Mouth as if she did eat something. But none saw any thing but the Maid, and therefore thought still it might be her phansy, and did not much mind it. But towards Night this Maid began to be very ill and complained, that the Pins that Julian forced her to eat out of the wall, did torment her in all parts of her Body that she could not endure it, and made lamentable out-cries for pain. Whereupon several Persons being present the Maid was undressed, and in several parts of the Maids Body several great swellings appeared, and out of the head of the swellings several great Pins points appeared. Which the Witnesses took out, and upon the Trial there were about Thirty great Pins produced in Court (which I my self handled) all which were sworn by several Witnesses that they were taken out of the Maids Body in manner as is aforesaid.

Judge Archer who tryed the Prisoner, told the Jury that he had heard that a Witch could not repeat that petition in the Lords Prayer, viz. [And lead us not into temptation] and having this occasion he would try the Experiment, and told the Jury that whether she could or could not, they were not in the least measure to guide their Verdict according to it, because it was not legal Evidence, but that they must be guided in their Verdict by the former Evidences given in upon Oath onely.

The Prisoner was called for up to the next Bar to the Court, and demanded if she could say the Lords Prayer? She said she could, and went over the Prayer readily till she came to that petition. Then she said [And lead us into temptation] or [And lead us not into no temptation] but could not say [And lead us not into temptation] though she was directed to say it after one that repeated it to her distinctly. But she could not repeat it otherwise than is expressed already, though tried to do it near half a score times in open Court. After all which the Jury found her guilty, and Judgment having been given within three or four days, she was Executed without any Confession of the Fact.

This is a Copy of the Narrative sent by Mr. Pool, Octob. 24. 1672. to Mr. Archer of Emanuel Colledge, Nephew to the Judge upon the desire of Dr. Bright. But I remember here at Cambridge, I heard the main passages of this Narrative when they first were spread abroad after the Assizes, and particularly by G. Rust after Bishop of Dromore in Ireland. Nor do I doubt but it is a true account of what was attested before before Judge Archer at the Assizes. For it is a thing to me altogether incredible, that he that was an Officer or Servant of the Judge and present in the Court at the Examination and Trial, and there took Notes, should write a Narrative, when there were so many Ear-witnesses besides himself of the same things, that would be obnoxious to the disproof of those who were present as well as himself. It may not be amiss here to transcribe what Dr. M. did write to Mr. G. touching this story in a Letter dated Dec. 26. 1678.

This Narrative, says he, hath the most Authentick confirmation that human affairs are capable of, Sense and the sacredness of an Oath. But yet I confess I have heard that Judge Archer has been taxed by some of overmuch credulity, for sentencing Julian Cox to death upon those Evidences. But to deal freely I suspect by such as out of their ignorance misinterpreted several passages in the Evidence, or were of such a dull stupid Sadducean temper, that they believe there are no Spirits nor Witches. And truly I must confess that the Huntsman, though he deposed upon Oath, that when he came in to take up the Hare at the Bush, it proved to be Julian Cox with her face towards the ground, &c. his expressing of himself touching her Globes and the Doggs smelling, &c. looks something humourously and ludicrously on it. But I must further add, that I think it was onely that his fancie was tickled with the featness of the Phenomenon, not that he would be so wicked as to tell a lye upon Oath and that for nothing. Sic vita hominum est, says Tully, ut ad maleficium nemo conetur sine spe atque emolumento accedere. But that those half-witted People thought he swore false, I suppose was because they imagined that what he told implied that Julian Cox was turned into an Hare. Which she was not, nor did his report imply any such real Metamorphosis of her body, but that these ludicrous Demons exhibited to the sight of this Huntsman and his Dogs the shape of an Hare, one of them turning himself into such a form, and others hurrying on the body of Julian near the same place, and at the same swiftnes, but interposing betwixt that Hare-like Spectre and her body, modifying the Air so that the scene there, to the beholders sight, was as if nothing but Air were there, and a shew of Earth perpetually suited to that where the Hare passed. As I have heard of some Painters that have drawn the Sky in an huge large Landskip, so lively that the Birds have flown against it, thinking it free Air, and so have fallen down. And if Painters and Fuglers by the tricks of Legerdemain can do such strange feats to the deceiving of the sight, it is no wonder that these Airy invisible Spirits as far surpass them in all such prestigious doings as the Air surpasses the Earth for subtilty.

And the like Præstigiæ may be in the Toad. It might be a real Toad (though actuated and guided by a Daemon) which was cut in pieces, and that also which was whipt about, and at last snatcht out of sight (as if it had vanished) by these Aerial Hocus-Pocus's. And if some Juglers have tricks to take hot Coals into their Mouth without hurt, certainly it is no strange thing that some small attempt did not suffice to burn that Toad. That such a Toad, sent by a Witch and crawling up the Body of the Man of the house as he sate by the fire's side, was overmastered by him and his Wife together, and burnt in the fire; I have heard sometime ago credibly reported by one of the Isle of Ely. Of these Demoniack Vermin, I have heard other stories also, as of a Rat that followed a Man some score of Miles trudging through thick and thin along with him. So little difficulty is there in that of the Toad.

And that of Julian Cox's being seen to fly in at her own Chamber window, there is no difficulty in it, if it be understood of her Familiar, the black Man, that had transformed himself into her shape. For this is no such unusual thing for Witches to appear either in their Astral Spirits or by their Familiars, as if it were their very bodily Persons. But when she appeared to the Maid together with the black Man and offered her to drink, it is likely it was her Astral Spirit, and Julians being wounded in her body by the wound on her Astral Spirit is just such another.

another case, as that of Jane Brooks, which you your self note in your Book of Witchcraft.

The most incredible thing is her eating of Pins, she knowing them to be such. But they that are bewitched are not themselves, and being possessed are actuated in the parts of their body, and their mind driven by that ugly inmate in them, to what he will; which is notorious in the story of Mrs. Frogmorton's Children. And for the Pins thus swallowed, their coming out into the exterior parts of her body, Examples of this sort are infinite; and far more strange than these are recorded by Baptista Van Helmont, de Injectis.

These are the most incredible passages in this Narrative, and yet you see how credible they are, if rightly understood. But those that believe no spirits will believe nothing never so credible of this kind, and others that have some natural aversion from these things will presently interpret them in the vulgar sense, and then sweetly sneer at their own ignorance. But I must confess if this be a true Relation of what passed in the Court, I do not question but the things that were sworn did so appear to them that swore them. Or else there is nothing to be credited in human affairs. But concerning the truth of the Relation, besides what I hinted in my last to you, you would do well to write to some or other in Taunton, &c. Thus far Dr. M.

And

And if any one be so curious as to desire an account of Mr. G. his further inquiry into this business, I can tell him that he wrote to Mr. Hunt who then busy in some Court, yet made shift to read the Narrative and wrote two or three lines to him back to this effect. That one principal Evidence was omitted in the Narrative, but that is nothing against the truth of the rest. But he adds also, that some things were false. which would stumble one and make him think that the credit of this Narrative is quite blasted thereby. But this Riddle is easily unriddled by him that considers, that Mr. Hunt may respect those things that are said to be confessed by her in her examination before a Justice of Peace. For he also having some time Examined her, and she making no such confession to him (as Mr. G. himself says in a Letter to Dr. M. that he perused that Examination in Mr. Hunts Book, and there was not any thing considerable therein) might speak this in reference to the Examination which he had taken, she then not confessing so freely as to some other Justice, whose Examination therefore was made use of in the Court. But this cannot concern at all the rest of the Narrative, which was given upon Oath in the Court in the hearing of all. This I thought fit not to omit as being desirous to deal with all faithfulness in concealing nothing, and not to impose upon the Reader, but that he may make his judgment upon the whole matter.

As

As for the Witches being hurried along with that Hare-like Spectre, her being out of breath (as the Huntsman testified) makes it most probable; or at least that she was hurried from some other place on the earth, or in the air (to meet there at length with the Hare-like Spectre) but this invisibly by that κλεψυμία, or Prestigiatory art or faculty of these ludicrous Demons, whereby they can so modifie the Air immediately next to the party they would conceal, that it looks there like the free Skie, or what Landskip they please; as when they shew in a Shew-stone or Glass, the very Room in which the party is, the Demon by the power of his Imagination, so modifying at least his own Vehicle. Which power some of those of the Atheistick Brotherhood cannot with any face deny, supposing there are Demons, they giving a greater power to the Imagination of a Man, as if it were able to transform the Air into real Birds or Mice, or such like Creatures livingly such for the present. But any thing must be believed, rather than the Existence of Witches and Demons.

It will not be amiss here to take notice what an eminent example this Julian Cox is of Moses his Megnonenah or Mecassephah taken in the same sense, that is, of such a Witch as is thought by a κλεψυμία, or prestigiatory power (though it is the Devil that does these feats, not she) to transform her self into strange shapes, and use other like deceptions of the sight.

As

As also it is a notable instance of the Astral Spirits of Witches, how strongly, though at a distance of place, they are tyed together in a fatal Sympathy with their Bodies, the Body of Julian being wounded by a stab at her Astral Spirit, as it fared also in Jane Brooks, and an Old woman in Cambridge-shire, whose Astral Spirit coming into a Mans house, (as he was sitting alone at the fire) in the shape of an huge Cat, and setting her self before the fire, not far from him, he stole a stroke at the back of it with a Fire-fork, and seemed to break the back of it, but it scrambled from him, and vanished he knew not how. But such an Old Woman, a reputed Witch, was found dead in her Bed that very night, with her Back broken, as I have heard some years ago credibly reported.

That also is a marvellous Magical Sympathy in this story of Julian Cox, that the burning of the Ears of the Beast bewitched by her, should put her into such rage and torment. Like the heating of the Tile red hot in the story of Florence Newton, and pouring some of the bewitched Maids water upon it. which puts me in mind of a very remarkable story of this kind, told me by Mr. Brearly, once Fellow of Christs Colledge in Cambridge, who boarded in an house in Suffolk, where his Landlady had been ill handled by Witchcraft.

For an Old Man that Travelled up and down the Country, and had some acquaintance at that house, calling in and asking the Man of the house how he did and his Wife; He told him that himself was well, but his Wife had been a long time in a languishing condition, and that she was haunted with a thing in the shape of a Bird, that would flurr near to her face, and that she could not enjoy her natural rest well. The Old Man bid him and his Wife be of good courage. It was but a dead Spright, he said, and he would put him in a course to rid his Wife of this languishment and trouble. He therefore advised him to take a Bottle, and put his Wives Urine into it, together with Pins and Needles and Nails, and Cork them up, and set the Bottle to the fire, but be sure the Cork be fast in it, that it fly not out. The Man followed the prescription, and set the Bottle to the fire well corkt, which when it had felt a while the heat of the fire began to move and joggle a little, but he for sureness took the Fireshovel, and held it hard upon the Cork. And as he thought he felt something one while on this side, another while on that, shove the Fireshovel off, which he still quickly put on again, but at last at once shoving the Cork bounced out, and the Urine, Pins, Nails and Needles all flew up, and gave a report like a Pistol, and his Wife continued in the same trouble and languishment still.

house how his Wife did. who answered as ill as ever, if not worse. He askt him if he had followed his direction. Yes, says he, and told him the event as is abovesaid. Ha, quoth he, it seems it was too nimble for you. But now I will put you in a way, that will make the business sure. Take your Wife's Urine as before, and Cork it in a Bottle with Nails, Pins and Needles, and bury it in the Earth; and that will do the feat. The Man did accordingly. And his Wife began to mend sensibly, and in a competent time was finely well recovered. But there came a Woman from a Town some miles off to their house, with a lamentable Out-cry, that they had killed her Husband. They askt her what she meant and thought her distracted, telling her they knew neither her nor her husband. Yes, saith she, you have killed my husband, he told me so on his Death-bed. But at last they understood by her, that her Husband was a Wizzard, and had bewitched this Mans Wife, and that this Counter-practice prescribed by the Old Man, which saved the Mans Wife from languishment, was the death of that Wizzard that had bewitcht her. This story did Mr. Brearly hear from the Man and Womans own Mouth who were concerned, and at whose House he for a time Boarded, nor is there any doubt of the truth thereof.

But it will be more easie for any rational Man to believe stories of this kind, than to find out a satisfactory account of the operation and effect, fect, or to assure the lawfulness of such counter-practice against Witchcraft, unless they can be resolved into the Sympathy and Synenergy of the Spiritus Mundanus, (which Plotinus calls τὸ κοινὸν, the grand Magician) such as the operation of the Weapon-salve, and other Magnetick Cures are resolved into. And forasmuch as the power of a truly Divine Magick, such as Prophets and Holy Law-givers are endued with, is too great and August to be found in ordinary good Men, that are to bring in new Law or Religion into the world, the benignity of Providence is to be acknowledged in that the Villanies of Witchcraft lye obnoxious to such a natural or ratified way of Discoveries and Counter-practices as these. But how this obnoxiousness of Witches is complicated with their Familiars sucking their Bodies, is a point too nice and prolix to enter upon here. But it is most safe not to tamper at all with these things, and most happy to have no occasion for it.

Lastly, as for Julian Cox her not being able to say one of the Petitions in the Lords Prayer, the case is like that of Florence Newton the Irish Witch, but unlike in this, that it was not the same Petition Florence Newton stuck at. And I remember when I had the curiosity with a friend of mine, of examining certain Witches at Castle-hill in Cambridge, the most notorious of them, who also was hanged for a Witch, offered to say the Creed and Lords Prayer, as an Argument she was no Witch; and so far as I remember, she said the Lords Prayer right, but was out at the Creed; nor do I think this any certain sign of their guilt or innocency, and therefore Judge Archer did well to lay no stress on it. But these things are of less moment, and therefore I pass to the next Relation, which looks not so much like Witchcraft, as the Apparition of the Ghost of one deceased.

R E L A T. IX.

Which is a Relation of Thomas Goddard of Marlborough, in the County of Wilts, Weaver, made the 23. Nov. 1674.

VV Ho saith, That on Monday the Ninth of this Instant, as he was going to Ogborn at a Style on the Highway near Mr. Goddards ground, about Nine in the Morning, he met the Apparition of his Father in Law; one Edward Avon of this Town Glover, who dyed in May last, having on, to his appearance, the same Clothes, Hat, Stockings and Shoes he did usually wear when he was living, standing by, and leaning over that Style. Which when he came near, the Apparition spake to him with an audible voice these words, Are you

afraid? To which he answered, I am, thinking on one who is dead and buried, whom you are like. To which the Apparition replied with the like voice, I am he that you were thinking on, I am Edward Avon your Father in Law, come near to me, I will do you no harm. To which Goddard answered, I trust in him who hath bought my Soul with his precious Blood, you shall do me no harm. Then the Apparition said, How stand cases at home? Goddard askt what cases? Then it askt him how do William and Mary, meaning as he conceived, his Son William Avon a Shoemaker here, and Mary his Daughter the said Goddards Wife. Then, it said, What! Taylor is dead, meaning, as he thought, one Taylor of London, who Married his Daughter Sarah, which Taylor dyed about Michaelmas last. Then the Apparition held out its hand, and in it, as Goddard conceived, twenty or thirty shillings in silver, and then spake with a loud voice: Take this Money and send it to Sarah, for I shut up my Bowels of compassion toward her in the time of my life, and now here is somewhat for her. And then said, Mary (meaning his the said Goddards Wife as he conceived) is troubled for me. But tell her, God hath shewed mercy to me contrary to my deserts. But the said Goddard answered, In the Name of Jesus Christ, I refuse all such Money.

Money. Then the Apparition said, I perceive you are afraid. I will meet you some other time. And immediately it went up the Lane to his appearance. So he went over the same Style, but saw it no more that day.

He saith, The next night about seven of the Clock, it came and opened his shop Window, and stood in the like Clothes, looked him in the face, but said nothing to him. And the next night after, as Goddard went forth into his Backside with a Candle light in his hand, it appeared to him again in the same shape, but he being in fear ran into his house, and saw it no more then.

But he saith, That on Thursday the twelfth instant, as he came from Chilton, riding down the Hill between the Mannor-house and Axford-Farm-field, he saw somewhat like a Hare crossed his way, at which his Horse frightened threw him in the dirt, and as soon as he could recover on his feet, the same Apparition there met him again in the same habit, and there standing about eight foot directly before him in the way, spake again to him with a loud voice, Source (a word he commonly used when living) you have stayed long, and then said to him, Thomas, bid William Avon take the Sword that he had of me, which is now in his house, and carry it to the Wood as we go to Alton, to the upper end of the Wood by the ways side. For with that Sword I did wrong above Thirty years ago, and he never prospered since he had that Sword. And bid William Avon give his Sister Sarah twenty shillings of the money which he had of me. And do you talk with Edward Lawrence, for I borrowed twenty shillings of him several years ago, and did say I had paid him, but I did not pay it him, and I would desire you to pay him twenty shillings out of the money which you had from James Elliot at two payments. Which money the said Goddard now saith was five pounds, which James Elliot a Baker here owed the said Avon on Bond, and which he the said Goddard had received from the said Elliot since Michaelmas at two payments, viz. 35 s. at one, and 3 l. 5 s. at another payment. And it further said to him, Tell Margaret (meaning his own Wife as he conceived) that I would desire her to deliver up the little which I gave to little Sarah Taylor to the Child, or to any one she will trust for it. But if she will not, speak to Edward Lawrence to perswade her. But if she will not then, tell her that I will see her very suddenly. And see that this be done within a Twelve-moneth and a day after my decease, and peace be with you. And so it went away over the Rails into the Wood there in the like manner as any Man would go over a Style to his apprehenprehension, and so he saw it no more at that time. And he saith, that he paid the twenty shillings to Edward Lawrence of this Town, who being present now doth remember he lent the said Avon twenty shillings about twenty years ago, which none knew but himself and Wife, and Avon and his Wife, and was never paid it again before now by this Goddard.

And this said Goddard further saith, That this very day by Mr. Majors order, he with his Brother in Law William Avon went with the Sword, and about Nine a Clock this Morning, they laid down the Sword in the Copse near the place the Apparition had appointed Goddard to carry it, and then coming away thence, Goddard looking back, saw the same Apparition again in the like habit as before. Whereupon he called to his Brother in Law, and said, Here is the Apparition of our Father, Who said I see nothing. Then Goddard fell on his Knees and said, Lord open his Eyes that he may see it. But he replied, Lord grant I may not see it, if it be thy blessed Will. And then the Apparition to Goddard's appearance, beckned with his hand to him to come to it. And then Goddard said, In the Name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, what would you have me to do? Then the Apparition said to him, Thomas, Take up the Sword and follow me. To which he said, should both of us come, or but one of us? To which it answered, Thomas, do you take up the Sword. And so he took up the Sword and followed the Apparition about Ten Lugs (that is Poles) further into the Copse, and then turning back, he stood still about a Lug and a half from it, his Brother in Law staying behind at the place where they first laid down the Sword. Then Goddard laying down the Sword upon the ground, saw something stand by the Apparition like a Mastiff Dog of a brown colour. Then the Apparition coming towards Goddard, he stept back about two steps, and the Apparition said to him, I have a permission to you, and commission not to touch you, and then it took up the Sword, and went back to the place at which before it stood, with a Mastiff Dog by it as before, and pointed the top of the Sword into the ground and said, In this place lyes buried the Body of him which I murdered in the year 1635. which is now rotten and turned to dust. Whereupon Goddard said, I do adjure you in the Name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, wherefore did you do this murder? And it said, I took money from the Man, and he contended with me, and so I murdered him. Then Goddard askt him, who was confederate with him in the said murder? and it said, none but my self. Then Goddard said,

What

What would you have me to do in this thing? And the Apparition said, This is that the World may know that I murdered a Man, and buried him in this place in the year 1635.

Then the Apparition laid down the Sword on the bare ground there, whereon grew nothing, but seemed to Goddard to be as a Grave sunk in. And then the Apparition rushing further into the Copse vanished, and he saw it no more. Whereupon Goddard and his Brother in Law Avon, leaving the Sword there and coming away together, Avon told Goddard he heard his voice, and understood what he said, and heard other words distinct from his, but could not understand a word of it, nor saw any Apparition at all. Which he now also present affirmeth, and all which the said Goddard then attested under his hand, and affirmed he will depose the same when he shall be thereto required.

That Tho. Goddard saw this Apparition, seems to be a thing indubitable ; but whether it was his Father in Law's Ghost, that is more questionable. The former is confirmed from an hand at least impartial, if not disfavoured to the story. The party in his Letter to Mr. G— writes briefly to this effect. 1. That he does verily think that this Tho. Goddard does believe the story most strongly himself. 2. That he cannot imagine what interest he should have in raising such a story, he bringing Infamy on his Wives Father, and obliging himself to pay twenty shillings debt, which his poverty could very ill spare. 3. That his Father in Law Edward Avon, was a resolute sturdy fellow in his young years, and many years a Bailiff to Arrest people. 4. That Tho. Goddard had the repute of an honest Man, knew as much in Religion as most of his rank and breeding, and was a constant frequenter of the Church, till about a year before this happened to him, he fell off wholly to the Non-Conformists.

All this hitherto, save this last of all, tends to the Confirmation of the story. Therefore this last shall be the first Allegation against the credibility thereof. 2. It is further alledged, that possibly the design of the story may be to make

make him to be accounted an extraordinary somebody amongst the dissenting party. 3. That he is sometimes troubled with Epileptical fits. 4. That the Major sent the next Morning to digg the place where the Spectre said the Murdered Man was Buried, and there was neither bones found nor any difference of the Earth in that place from the rest.

But we answer briefly to the first, That his falling off to the Non-Conformists though it may argue a vacillancy of his judgment, yet it does not any defect of his external senses, as if he were less able to discern when he saw or heard any thing than before: To the second, That it is a perfect contradiction to his strong belief of the truth of his own story, which plainly implies that he did not feign it to make himself an extraordinary somebody: To the third, That an Epileptical Person when he is out of his fits, hath his external senses as true and entire, as a Drunken Man has when his Drunken fit is over, or a Man awake after a night of sleep and dreams. So that this argument has not the least shew of force with it, unless you will take away the authority of all Mens senses, because at sometimes they have not a competent use of them, namely in sleep, drunkenness or the like. But now lastly for the fourth which is most considerable, it is yet of no greater force than to make it questionable whether this Spectre was the Ghost of his Father, or some ludicrous Goblin that would put a trick upon upon Thomas Goddard, by personating his Father-in-Law, and by a false pointing at the pretended grave of the Murdered make him ridiculous. For what Porphyrius has noted, I doubt not but is true, That Dæmons sometimes personate the Souls of the deceased. But if an uncoffined body being laid in a ground exposed to wet and dry, the Earth may in 30 years space consume the very bones and assimilate all to to the rest of the mold, when some Earths will do it in less than the fifteenth part of that space: Or if the Ghost of Edward Avon might have forgot the certain place (it being no grateful object of his memory) where he buried the murdered Man, and only guessed that to be it because it was something sunk, as if the Earth yielded upon the wasting of the Buried body, the rest of the story will still naturally import that it was the very Ghost of Edward Avon. Besides, himself expressly declares, as that the body was Buried there, so that by this time it was all turn'd into dust.

But whether it was a ludicrous Dæmon or Edward Avons Ghost, concerns not our scope. It is sufficient that it is a certain instance of a real Apparition, and I thought fit as in the former story, so here to be so faithful as to conceal nothing that any might pretend to lessen the credibility thereof. Stories of the appearing of Souls departed are not for the tooth of the Non-conformists, who, as it is said, if they generally believe this, it must be from the undeniable evidence thereof, nor could Thomas Goddard gratifie them by inventing of it. And that it was not a phansy the knowledge of the 20 Shillings debt imparted to Thomas Goddard ignorant thereof before, and his Brother Avon's hearing a voice distinct from his in his discourse with the Apparition, does plainly enough imply. Nor was it Goddard's own phansy, but that real Spectre that opened his shop-window. Nor his imagination, but something in the shape of an Hare that made his Horse start and cast him into the dirt; The Apparition of Avon being then accompanied with that Hare, as after with the Mastiff-Dog. And lastly the whole frame of the story, provided the Relator does verily think it true himself (as Mr. S. testifies for him in his Letter to Mr. Glanvil, and himself professes he was ready at any time to swear to it) is such, that it being not a voluntary invention, cannot be an imposing phansy.

R E L A T. X.

The Apparition of the Ghost of Major George Sydenham, to Captain William Dyke, taken out of a Letter of Mr. James Douch of Mongton, to Mr. Jos. Glanvil.

CONCERNING the Apparition of the Ghost of Major George Sydenham (late of Dulverton in the County of Somerset,) to Captain William

William Dyke (late of Skilgate in this County also, and now likewise deceased) be pleased to take the Relation of it as I have it from the Worthy and Learned Dr. Tho. Dyke, a near Kinsman of the Captains, Thus: Shortly after the Major's Death, the Doctor was desired to come to the House to take care of a Child that was there sick, and in his way thither he called on the Captain, who was very willing to wait on him to the place, because he must, as he said, have gone thither that Night, though he had not met with so encouraging an opportunity. After their arrival there at the House and the civility of the People shewn them in their Entertainment, they were seasonably conducted to their Lodging, which they desired might be together in the same bed, Where, after they had lain a while, the Captain knockt and bids the Servant bring him two of the largest and biggest Candles lighted that he could get. Whereupon the Doctor enquires what he meant by this? The Captain answers, you know Cousin what disputes my Major and I have had touching the being of a God, and the Immortality of the Soul. In which points we could never yet be resolved, though we so much sought for and desired it. And therefore it was at length fully agreed between us, That he of us that dyed first

first should the third night after his Funeral, between the hours of Twelve and One come to the little house that is here in the Garden and there give a full account to the survivor touching these matters, who should be sure to be present there at the set time and so receive a full satisfaction. And this, says the Captain, is the very Night, and I am come on purpose to fulfill my promise.

The Doctor dissuaded him, minding him of the danger of following those strange Counsels, for which we could have no warrant, and that the Devil might by some cunning device make such an advantage of this rash attempt, as might work his utter ruine. The Captain replies, that he had solemnly engaged, and that nothing should discourage him: and adds, That if the Doctor would wake a while with him, he would thank him, if not, he might compose himself to his rest; but for his own part he was resolved to watch, that he might be sure to be present at the hour appointed. To that purpose he sets his Watch by him, and as soon as he perceived by it that it was half an hour past Eleven, he rises, and taking a Candle in each hand, goes out by a back Door of which he had before gotten the Key, and walks to the Garden-house, where he continued two hours and an half, and at his return declared that he neither saw nor heard any thing more than was usual. But I know, said he, that my Major would surely have come, had he been able.

About six weeks after the Captain rides to Eaton to place his Son a Scholar there, when the Doctor went thither with him. They Lodged there at an Inn, the Sign was the Christopher, and tarried two or three Nights, not lying together now as before at Dulverton, but in two several Chambers. The Morning before they went thence the Captain stayed in his Chamber longer than he was wont to do before he called upon the Doctor. At length he comes into the Doctors Chamber, but in a visage and form much differing from himself, with his Hair and Eyes staring, and his whole body shaking and trembling. Whereat the Doctor wondering, presently demanded, What is the matter, Cousin Captain? The Captain replies, I have seen my Major. At which the Doctor seeming to smile, the Captain immediately confirms it, saying, If ever I saw him in my life I saw him but now. And then he related to the Doctor what had passed, Thus: This Morning after it was light, some one comes to my beds side and suddainly drawing back the Curtains calls Cap. Cap. (which was the term of familiarity that the Major used to call the Captain by) to whom I replied, What my Major? To which

The Captain was not only thoroughly

For a further assurance of the truth of the story, it will not be amiss to take notice what Mr. Douch writes in his second Letter to Mr. Glanvil, touching the Character of the Major and the Captain. They were both, saith he, of my good acquaintance, Men well bred, and of a brisk humour and jolly conversation, of very quick and keen parts, having also been both of them University and Inns of Court Gentlemen. The Major I conceive was about forty five years old when he dyed, and I believe the Captain might then be fifty or somewhat more. I cannot understand that the Doctor and the Captain had any discourse concerning the former engagement to meet, after the disappointment at that time and place, or whether the Captain had after that any expectation of the performance of the promise which the Major had made him. Thus far Mr. Douch. And truly one would naturally think, that he failing the solemn appointed time, the Captain would consequently let go all hopes and expectation of his appearing afterward. Or if he did, that it would be at such a time of the night as was first determined of, and not at the the morning light. Which season yet is less obnoxious to the Impostures of Fancy and Melancholy, and therefore adds some weight to the assurance of the truth of the Apparition. I will only add one clause more out of that second Letter that makes to the point. This story, saith he, has and doth still obtain credit from all that knew the Captain, who it seems was not at all shie or scrupulous to relate it to any one that askt him concerning it, though it was observed he never mentioned it, but with great terror and trepidation.

R E L A T. XI.

Being a Postscript of the first Letter of Mr. Douch, concerning the appearing of the Ghost of Sir George Villiers, Father to the first Duke of Buckingham.

SIR,

Since the writing of the premisses, a passage concerning an Apparition of Sir George Villiers, giving warning of his Son's (the Duke of Buckingham's) Murther is come into my Mind, which hath been assured by a Servant of the Dukes to be a great truth. Thus: Some few days before the Dukes going to Portsmouth (where he was stabbed by

Felton) the Ghost of his Father Sir George Villiers appeared to one Parker (formerly his own Servant, but then Servant to the Duke) in his Morning Chamber Gown; charged Parker to tell his Son that he should decline that Employment and design he was going upon, or else he would certainly be murdered. Parker promised the Apparition to do it, but neglected it. The Duke making preparations for his Expedition, the Apparition came again to Parker, taxing him very severely for his breach of Promise, and required him not to delay the acquainting his Son of the danger he was in. Then Parker the next day tells the Duke, that his Fathers Ghost had twice appeared to him, and had commanded him to give him that warning. The Duke slighted it, and told him he was an old Doting Fool. That night the Apparition came to Parker a third time, saying, Parker thou hast done well in warning my Son of his danger, but though he will not yet believe thee, Go to him once more however, and tell him from me by such a Token (naming a private Token) which no body knows, but only he and I, that if he will not decline this voyage, such a Knife as this is (pulling a long Knife out from under his Gown) will be his death. This Message Parker also delivered the next day to the Duke, who when he heard the private Token ken believed that he had it from his Fathers Ghost, yet said that his honour was now at stake, and he could not go back from what he had undertaken, come life come death. This passage Parker after the Duke's murther communicated to his fellow Servant one Henry Ceeley, who told it to a reverend Divine a Neighbour of mine, from whose mouth I have it. This Henry Ceeley has not been dead above Twenty years, and his habitation for several years before his death was at North-Currey but three Miles from this place. My Friend the Divine aforesaid was an intimate acquaintance of this Henry Ceeley's, and assures me he was a person of known truth and integrity.

ADVERTISEMENT.

This story I heard (but another name put for Parker) with great assurance and with larger circumstances from a Person of Honour, but I shall content my self to note onely what I find in a Letter of Mr. Timothy Locket of Mongton, to Mr. Glanvil, That this Apparition to Mr. Parker was all three times towards midnight when he was reading in some Book, and he mentions that the Dukes Expedition was for the relief of Rochel. The rest is much what as Mr. Douch has declared. But I will not omit the close of Mr. Locket's Letter. I was confirmed in the truth of the premisses, saith he, by Mr. Henry Ceeley, who was then a Servant with this Mr. Parker, to the Duke, and who told me that he knew Mr. Parker to be a Religious and sober Person, and that every particular related was to his knowledge true.

R E L A T. XII.

Of the appearing of Mr. Watkinson's Ghost to his Daughter Toppam, contained in a Letter of Mrs. Taylor of the Ford by St. Neots, to Dr. Ezekias Burton.

SIR;

MY Service to you and your Lady. Now according to your desire I shall write what my Cousin told me: Her name was Mary Watkinson, her Father did live in Smithfield, but she was Married to one Francis Toppam, and she did live in York, with her Husband being an ill one, who did steal her away against her Parents consent, so that they could not abide him. But she came often to them, and when she was last with him upon their parting, she expressed that she feared she should never see him more. He answered her, if he should dye, if ever
God

God did permit the dead to see the living, he would see her again. Now after he had been Buried about half a year, on a Night, when she was in bed, but could not sleep, she heard Musick, and the Chamber grew lighter and lighter, and she being broad awake, saw her Father stand at her bedside: Who said, Mal did not I tell thee that I would see thee once again? She called him Father, and talked of many things; and he bad her be Patient and Dutiful to her Mother. And when she told him that she had a Child since he did dye, he said that would not trouble her long. He bad her speak what she would now to him, for he must go, and that he should never see her more till they met in the Kingdom of Heaven. So the Chamber grew darker and darker, and he was gone with Musick. And she said that she did never dream of him nor ever did see any Apparition of him after.

He was a very honest godly Man as far as I can tell.

This story G. Rust, who was after Bishop of Dromore, told me I remember with great assurance some Twenty years ago, who was not at all credulous in these things. And it was so as Mrs. Taylor relates to Dr. Burton. The next Relation shall be of a Daughter appearing to her Father.

R E L A T. XIII.

The appearing of the Ghost of the Daughter of Dr. Farrar to him after her death, according to a brief Narrative sent from Mr. Edward Fowler to Dr. H. More, Anno 1678. May 11.

THis week Mr. Pearson who is a worthy good Minister of this City of London, told me, That his Wife's Grandfather a Man of great Piety and Phyfician to this present King, his name Farrar, nearly related (I think Brother) to the famous Mr. Farrar of little Giddon, I say this Gentleman and his Daughter (Mrs. Pearsons Mother a very pious soul) made a compact at his intreaty that the first of them that dyed, if happy, should after death appear to the survivor, if it were possible; the Daughter with some difficulty consenting thereto.

Some time after, the Daughter who lived at Gillingham-Lodge two Miles from Salisbury, fell in labour, and by a mistake being given a noxious potion instead of another prepared for her, suddainly dyed.

Her Father lived in London, and that very Night she dyed she opened his Curtains and looked upon him. He had before heard nothing of her illness, but upon this Apparition confidently told his Maid, that his Daughter was dead, and two days after received the news. Her Grandmother told Mrs. Pearson this, as also an Uncle of hers, and the abovesaid Maid, and this Mrs. Pearson I know, and she is a very prudent and good Woman.

R E L A T. XIV.

The appearing of the Ghost of one Mr. Bower of Guilford, to an Highway-man in Prison, as it is set down in a Letter of Dr. Ezekias Burton, to Dr. H. More.

ABout Ten years ago one Mr. Bower an antient Man living at Guilford in Surrey, was upon the Highway not far from that place found newly Murdered very barbarously, having one great Cut cross his Throat, and another down his Breast. Two Men were seized upon suspicion, and put into Gaol at Guilford to another, who had before been committed for Robbing as I suppose. That Night this third Man was awakened about one of the Clock and greatly terrified with an Old Man, who had a great gash cross his Throat almost from Ear to Ear, and a wound down his Breast. He also came in stooping and holding his hand on his back. Thus he appeared but said nothing. The Thief calls to his two new Companions, they grumbled at him but made no answer.

In the Morning he retained so lively an impression of what he had seen, that he spoke to them to the same purpose again, and they told him it was nothing but his Phantasy. But he was so fully perswaded of the reality of this Apparition, that he told others of it, and it came to the Ears of my Friend Mr. Reading Justice of Peace in Surrey, and Cousin to the Gentleman that was Murdered.

He immediately sent for the Prisoner and asked him in the first place whether he was born or had lived about Guilford? To which he answered, No. Secondly, He enquired if he knew any of the Inhabitants of that Town or of the Neighbourhood? He replied that he was a stranger to all thereabout. Then he enquired, if he had ever heard of one Mr. Bower? He said No. After this he examined him for what cause those other two Men were imprisoned? To which he answered, was answered, he knew not, but supposed for some Robbery.

After these preliminary Interrogatories he desired him to tell him what he had seen in the Night? Which he immediately did, exactly according to the Relation he had heard, and I gave before. And withal described the Old Gentleman so by his picked beard, and that he was, as he called it, rough on his Cheeks, and that the Hairs of his Face were Black and White, that Mr. Reading saith he himself could not have given a more exact description of Mr. Bower, than this was. He told the Highway-man that he must give him his Oath (though that would signify little from such a Rogue) to which the Man readily consented, and took Oath before the Justice of all this.

Mr. Reading being a very discreet Man concealed this story from the Jury at the Assizes, as knowing that this would be no evidence according to our Law. However the Friends of the Murdered Gentleman had been very inquisitive, and discovered several suspicious circumstances. One of which was, that those two Men had washed their Clothes, and that some stains of blood remained. Another, that one of them had denied he ever heard that Mr. Bower was dead, when as he had in another place confessed it two hours before. Upon these and such such like evidences those two were Condemned and Executed, but denied it to the last. But one of them said, the other could clear him if he would, which the By-standers understood not.

After some time a Tinker was hanged (where, the Gentleman has forgot) who at his death said, that the Murder of Mr. Bower of Guttford was his greatest trouble. For he had a hand in it; he confessed he struck him a blow on the back which fetcht him from his Horse, and when he was down, those other Men that were Arraigned and Executed for it cut his Throat and rifled him. This is the first story which I had from Mr. Reading himself, who is a very honest prudent person and not credulous.

I know you desire to have the Names of all the persons referred to in this Relation, and the exact time and place, but Mr. Reading cannot recollect them now, though he tells me he sent an exact and full Narrative of all to one Mr. Onslow a Justice of Peace in that Neighbourhood, with whom I have some acquaintance, and I will endeavour to retrieve it.

ADVERTISEMENT.

The Names of all the Persons and exact time and place of all the actions, I find not amongst Mr. Glanvil's Papers, but the story is so perfect as it is, and so credible, that I thought it worthy of a place amongst the rest. And this appearing of Mr. Bower is just such another thing as the appearing of Anne Walker. we proceed to the second story which Mr. Reading imparted to the Doctor, Another appearing of a Ghost of a Man of Guilford, for the recovery of a Field for his Child unjustly detained by his Brother, out of the above said Letter of Dr. Ezekias Burton to Dr. H. More.

AN Inhabitant of the before-named Town of Guilford, who was possessor of some Copy-hold Land, which was to descend to his Children, or in default of such issue to his Brother, dies having no Child born. And his Wife apprehending her self not to be with Child (which her Husbands Brother Brother asked her immediately after his Brothers death) she told him she believed she was not, but afterward proved to be. Which when she knew she went, by the instigation of Neighbours, to her Brother, and told him how it was with her. He rated her, called her Whore, and told her that she had procured some body to get her with Child, knowing that such a Field must be inherited by the posterity of her Husband, but her Whoring should not fool him out of that Estate. The poor Woman went home troubled, that not only her Child should lose the Land, but which was worse, that she should be thought a Whore. However she quieted her self, and resolved to sit down with the loss.

When her time came she was delivered of a Son, he grew up and one Summers Night as she was undressing him in her yard, her Husband appeared, and bid her go to his Brother and demand the Field. Which she did, but was treated very ill by him. He told her that neither she nor her Devil (for she had told him her Husband appeared and bid her speak to him) should make him forgoe his land. Whereupon she went home again. But some time after as her Brother was going out of this Field homeward, the dead Man appears to him at the stile, and bids him give up the Land to the the Child, for it was his right. The Brother being greatly frightened at this, runs away, and not long after comes to her and tells her, she had sent the Devil to him, and bids her take the Land, and so gave it up, and her Son is now posselt of it. His Name is Mat, he lived in the Service of Mr. Readings Brother for some years, but he has forgot his Sir-name though he knows him very well.

ADVERTISEMENT.

Though the Sir-name of the party be wanting, yet he is determinated so by other circumstances, and the Story so fresh, and told by so credible a person, that the Narrative is sufficiently considerable as it is. But of Recovery of Land to the right Owners, the story of Mrs. Brettons Ghost appearing is an eximious example, which is as follows.

RELAT. XVI.

The appearing of the Ghost of Mrs. Bretton, for the recovery of some Lands into the hands of the Poor, taken from them by some mistake in Law or Right, as it is in a Narrative sent to Dr. H. More from Mr. Edward Fowler Prebendary of Gloucester.

DR. Bretton late Rector of Ludgate and Dedford, lived formerly in Herefordshire, and Married the Daughter of Dr. S— This Gentlewoman was a person of extraordinary piety, which she expressed as in her life, so at her death. She had a Maid that she had a great kindness for, who was Married to a near Neighbour, whose name, as I remember, was Alice. Not long after her death, as Alice was rocking her Infant in the night, she was called from the Cradle by a knocking at her door, which opening she was surpris'd at the sight of a Gentlewoman not to be distinguish'd from her late Mistress, neither in Person nor habit. She was in a Morning-Gown, the same in appearance with that she had often seen her Mistress wear. At first sight she expressed very great amazement, and said, Were not my ny Mistress dead, I should not question but that you are she. She replied I am the same that was your Mistress, and took her by the hand. Which Alice affirmed was as cold as a Clod.

She added; That she had business of great importance to imploy her in, and that she must immediately go a little way with her. Alice trembled, and beseecht her to excuse her, and intreated her very importunately to go to her Master, who must needs be more fit to be imployed. She answered, that he who was her Husband was not at all concerned, but yet she had had a desire rather to make use of him, and in order thereunto had several times been in his Chamber, but he was still asleep, nor had she power to do more than once uncover his feet towards the awakening of him. And the Doctor said, that he had heard walking in his Chamber in the night, which till now he could give no account of. Alice next objected that her husband was gone a journey, and she had no one to look to her Child, that it was very apt to cry vehemently, and she feared if it awaked before her return, it would cry it self to death, or do it self mischief. The Spectre replied, The Child shall sleep till you return.

Alice seeing there was no avoiding it, forely against her will, followed her over a stile into a large Field, who then said to her, her, observe how much of this Field I measure with my Feet. And when she had taken a good large and leisurely compass, she said, all this belongs to the Poor, it being gotten from them by wrongful means, and charged her to go and tell her Brother whose it was at that time, that he should give it up to the Poor again forthwith as he loved her and his deceased Mother. This Brother was not the Person who did this unjust act, but his Father. She added, that she was the more concerned, because her name was made use of in some writing that related to this Land.

Alice askt her how she should satisfy her Brother that this was no Cheat or delusion of her Phansy. She replied, tell him this secret, which he knows that only himself and I are privy to, and he will believe you. Alice having promised her to go on this Errand, she proceeded to give her good advice, and entertained her all the rest of the Night with most Heavenly and Divine discourse. When the Twilight appeared they heard the whistling of Carters and the noise of Horse-Bells. Whereupon the Spectre said, Alice I must be seen by none but your self, and so she disappeared.

Immediately Alice makes all haste home being thoughtful for her Child, but found it as the Spectre had said, asleep as she left it.

When

When she had dressed it, and committed it to the care of a Neighbour, away she went to her Master the Doctor, who amazed at the account she gave him, sent her to his Brother in Law. He at first hearing Alice's story and message, laughed at it heartily. But she had no sooner told him the secret; but he changed his countenance, told her he would give the Poor their own, and accordingly he did it, and they now enjoy it.

This with more circumstances hath several times been related by Dr. Bretton himself, who was well known to be a person of great goodness and sincerity. He gave a large Narrative of this Apparition of his Wife to two of my Friends. First, to one Mrs. Needham, and afterward a little before his death to Dr. Whichcot.

Some years after I received the foregoing Narrative (viz. near four years since) I light into the company of three sober persons of good rank, who all lived in the City of Hereford, and I travelled in a Stage-Coach three days with them. To them I happened to tell this story, but told it was done at Deptsford, for so I presumed it was, because I knew that there Dr. Bretton lived. They told me as soon as I had concluded it, that the story was very true in the main, only I was out as to the place. For 'twas not Deptsford, but as I remember they told me

Pembroke near Hereford, where the Doctor was Minister before the Return of the King. And they assured me upon their own knowledge, that to that day the Poor enjoyed the piece of ground. They added, That Mrs. Bretton's Father could never endure to hear any thing mentioned of his Daughters appearing after her death, but would still reply in great anger, that it was not his Daughter, but it was the Devil. So that he acknowledged that something appeared in the likeness of his Daughter.

R E L A T. XVII.

Of a Dutch Man that could see Ghosts, and of the Ghost he saw in the Town of Woodbridge in Suffolk.

MR. Broom the Minister of Woodbridge in Suffolk, meeting one day, in a Barbers shop in that Town, a Dutch Lieutenant (who was blown up with Obdam, and taken alive out of the Water, and carried to that Town where he was a Prisoner at large) upon the occasion of some discourse was told by him, that he could see Ghosts, and that he had seen divers. Mr. Broom rebuking him for talking so idly, he persisted in it very stiffly. Some days after lighting upon him again, he askt him whether he had seen any Ghost since his coming to that Town. To which he replied, No.

But not long after this, as they were walking together up the Town, he said to Mr. Broom, Yonder comes a Ghost. He seeing nothing, askt him whereabout it was? The other said, it is over against such a house, and it walks looking upwards towards such a side, flinging one arm with a Glove in its hand. He said moreover, that when it came near them, they must give way to it. That he ever did so, and some that have not done so, have suffered for it. Anon he said, 'tis just upon us, let's out of the way. Mr. Broom believing all to be a fiction, as soon as he said those words, took hold of his Arm, and kept him by force in the way. But as he held him, there came such a force against them, that he was flung into the middle of the street, and one of the palms of his hands, and one knee bruised and broken by the fall, which put him for a while to excessive pain.

But spying the Lieutenant lye like a dead man, he got up as soon as he could, and applied himself to his relief. With the help of others he got him into the next shop, where they poured strong-water down his Throat, but for some time could discern no Life in him. At length, what with the strong-water, and what with well chafing him he began to stirr, and when he was come to himself, his first words were, I will shew you no more Ghosts. Then he desired a Pipe of Tobacco, but Mr. Broom told him, he should take it at his house; for he feared, should he take it so soon there, it would make him sick.

Thereupon they went together to Mr. Broom's house, where they were no sooner entring in, but the Bell rang out. Mr. Broom presently sent his Maid to learn who was dead. She brought word that it was such an One, a Taylor, who dyed suddenly, though he had been in a Consumption a long time. And inquiring after the time of his death, they found it was as punctually as it could be guessed at the very time when the Ghost appeared. The Ghost had exactly this Taylors known Gate, who ordinarily went also with one Arm swinging, and a Glove in that hand, and looking on one side upwards.

This Relation was sent to Dr. H. More from Mr. Edw. Fowler; at the end whereof he writes, that Dr. Burton as well as himself, heard it from Mr. Broom's own mouth. And I can add, that I also afterwards heard it from his own mouth at London.

An Irish story of one that had like to have been carried away by Spirits, and of the Ghost of a Man who had been seven years dead, that brought a Medicine to the abovesaid parties Bed-side.

A Gentleman in Ireland near to the Earl of Ororic's, sending his Butler one afternoon to buy Cards; as he passed a Field, he, to his wonder, espied a company of people sitting round a Table, with a deal of good cheer before them in the midst of the Field. And he going up towards them, they all arose and saluted him, and desired him to sit down with them. But one of them whispered these words in his Ear; Do nothing this company invites you to. He thereupon refused to sit down at the Table, and immediately Table and all that belonged to it were gone. And the company are now dancing and playing upon Musical Instruments. And the Butler being desired to joyn himself to them, but he refusing this also, they fall all to work, and he not being to be prevailed with to accompany them in working any more than in feasting or dancing, they all disappeared, and the Butler is now alone. But instead of going forwards, home he returns as fast as he could drive, in a great consternation of mind. And was no sooner entred his Masters door, but down he falls, and lay some time senseless, but coming to himself again, he related to his Master what had happened to him.

The night following, there comes one of this company to his Bed-side, and tells him, that if he offered to stir out of doors the next day, he would be carryed away. Hereupon he kept within, but towards the Evening, having need to make water, he adventured to put one foot over the threshold, several standing by. Which he had no sooner done, but they espied a Rope cast about his middle, and the poor Man was hurried away with great swiftness, they following after him as fast as they could, but could not overtake him. At length they espyed a Horseman coming towards them, and made signs to him him to stop the Man, whom he saw coming near him, and both the ends of the Rope but no body drawing. When they met, he laid hold on one end of the Rope, and immediately had a smart blow given him over his Arm with the other end. But by this means the Man was stopt, and the Horseman brought him back with him.

The Earl of Oroxy hearing of these strange passages, sent to the Master to desire him to send this Man to his House, which he accordingly did. And the morning following, or quickly after, he told the Earl that his Spectre had been with him again, and assured him that that day he should most certainly be carried away, and that no endeavours should avail to the saving of him. Upon this he was kept in a large room, with a considerable number of persons to guard him, among whom was the famous Stroker
Mr. Greatrix, who was a neighbor. There were besides other Persons of Quality, two Bishops in the house at the same time, who were consulted touching the making use of a Medicine the Spectre or Ghost prescribed, of which, mention will be made anon, but they determined on the Negative. But this by the By.

Till part of the Afternoon was spent all was quiet, but at length he was perceived to rise from the ground, whereupon

Mr. Greatrix and another lusty Man clapt their Arms over his shoulders, one of them before him, and the other behind, and weighed him down with all their strength. But he was forcibly taken up from them, and they were too weak to keep their hold, and for a considerable time he was carried in the Air to and fro over their heads, several of the Company still running under him to prevent his receiuing hurt if he should fall. At length he fell and was caught before he came to ground, and had by that means no hurt.

All being quiet till bed-time, My Lord ordered two of his Servants to lye with him, and the next Morning he told his Lordship, that his Spectre was again with him, and brought a wooden dish with grey liquor in it, and bad him drink it off. At the first sight of the Spectre he said he endeavoured to awake his bedfellows, but it told him that that endeavour should be in vain, and that he had no cause to fear him, he being his Friend, and he that at first gave him the good advice in the Field, which had he not followed, he had been before now perfectly in the power of the Company he saw there. He added, that he concluded it was impossible but that he should have been carried away the day before, there being so strong a Combination against him. But now he could assure assure him that there would be no more attempts of that nature, but he being troubled with two sorts of sad fits he had brought that liquor to cure him of them, and bad him drink it. He peremptorily refusing, the Spectre was angry, upbraided him with great disingenuity, but told him that however he had a kindness for him, and that if he would take Plantain juice he should be well of one sort of fits, but he should carry the other to his Grave. The poor Man having by this time somewhat recovered himself, ask't the Spectre whether by the juice of Plantain he meant that of the Leaves or Roots? It replied, the Roots.

Then it askt him whether he did not know him? He answered, No. He replied, I am such a one? The Man answered: He hath been long dead. I have been dead said the Spectre or Ghost seven years, and you know that I lived a loose life. And ever since have I been hurried up and down in a restless Condition with the Company you saw, and shall be to the day of Judgment. Then he proceeded to tell him, that had he acknowledged God in his ways, he had not suffered such severe things by their means. And further said, you never prayed to God that day before you met with this Company in the Field, and also was then going about an unlawful business, and so vanisht.

This story was also sent from Mr. E. Fowler to Dr. H. More, concerning which he farther adds by way of Postscript, that Mr. Greatrix told this story to Mrs. Foxcraft at Ragley, and at her request he told it a second time in her hearing at the Table. My Lady Roydon being then present, inquired afterwards concerning it of My Lord Orory, who confirmed the truth of it, acknowledging all the circumstances of this Narrative to My Lady Roydon to be true except that passage, That the Spectre told the Man that he was that day going about an unlawful business. And Mr. Fowler further adds, that since an eminent Doctor in this City told me that My Lord told him, that he saw at his own house a Man taken up into the Air.

Lastly, I find Dr. H. More in a Letter to Mr. Glanvil, affirming that he also heard Mr. Greatrix tell the story at My Lord Conway's at Ragley, and that he particularly inquired of Mr. Greatrix about the Mans being carried up into the Air above Mens heads in the room, and that he did expressly affirm that he was an Eye-witness thereof.

The miraculous Cure of Jesh Claes a Dutch Woman of Amsterdam, accompanied with an Apparition.

THE Narrative taken by a Dutch Merchant from her own Mouth begins thus. A miraculous Cure upon Jesh Claes, a Woman about fifty years of Age: For this many years well known to my self and the Neighbours. This Woman for fourteen years had been lame of both Legs, one of them being dead and without feeling, so that she could not go but creep upon the ground; or was carried in Peoples Arms as a Child; but now through the power of God Almighty she hath walked again. Which came to pass after this manner, as I have taken it from her own Mouth.

In the year 1676. about the 13th or 14th of this Month October, in the Night between one and two of the Clock, this Jesh Claes being in bed with her Husband who was a Boatman, she was three times pulled by her Arm, with which she awaked and cryed out, O Lord! What may this be? Here-upon she heard an answer in plain words:

Be

Be not afraid, I come in the Name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost. Your malady which hath for many years been upon you shall cease, and it shall be given you from God Almighty to walk again. But keep this to your self till further answer. Whereupon she cried aloud, O Lord! That I had a light, that I might know what this is. Then had she this answer, There needs no light, the light shall be given you from God. Then came light all over the room, and she saw a beautiful Youth about Ten years of Age, with Curled Yellow Hair Clothed in White to the Feet, who went from the Beds-head to the Chimney with a light which a little after vanished. Hereupon did there shoot something or gush from her Hip, or diffuse it self through her Leg as a Water into her great Toe, where she did find life rising up, felt it with her hand, crying out, Lord give me now again my feeling which I have not had in so many years. And further she continued crying and praying to the Lord according to her weak measure.

Yet she continued that day wednesday, and the next day Thursday, as before till Evening at six a Clock. At which time she sate at the fire dressing the food. Then came as like a rushing noise in both her Ears, with which it was said to her Stand. Your going is given you again. Then did she immediately stand up that had so many years crept, and went to the door. Her Husband meeting her being exceedingly afraid drew back. In the mean while she cryed out, My dear Husband I can go again. The Man thinking it was a Spirit drew back, saying, you are not my Wife. His Wife taking hold of him said, My dear Husband I am the self same that hath been Married these Thirty years to you. The Almighty God hath given my going again. But her Husband being amazed drew back to the side of the room, till at last she claspt her hand about his neck, and yet he doubted and said to his Daughter, is this your Mother? She answered, yes Father, this we plainly see. I had seen her go also before you came in. This Person dwells upon Princes Island in Amsterdam.

This account was sent from a Dutch Merchant procured by a Friend for Dr. R. Cudworth, and contains the main Particulars that occur in the Dutch Printed Narrative, which Monsieur Van Helmont brought over with him to my Lady Conway at Ragley, who having inquired upon the Spot when he was there at Amsterdam, though though of a Genius not at all credulous of such Relations, found the thing to be really true. As also Philippus Limbergius in a Letter to Dr. H. More, sent this Testimony touching the party cured, That she was always reputed a very honest good Woman, and that he believed there was no fraud at all in the business.

An house haunted some Thirty years ago or more at or near Bow, not far from London, and strangely disturbed by Dæmons and Witches.

A Certain Gentleman about Thirty years ago or more, being to Travel from London into Essex, and to pass through Bow, at the request of a Friend he called at a house there, which began then to be a little disquieted. But not any thing much remarkable yet, unless of a young Girl who was plucked by the Thigh by a cold hand in her bed who dyed within a few days after.

Some weeks after this his occasions calling him back he passed by the same house again, but had no design to give them a new visit, he having done that not long before. But it happening that the Woman of the house stood stood at the Door, he thought himself engaged to ride to her and ask how she did. To whom she answered with a sorrowful Countenance; That though she was in tolerable health, yet things went very ill with them, their house being extremely haunted especially above stairs, so that they were forced to keep in the low rooms, there was such flinging of things up and down, of stones and Bricks through the Windows and putting all in disorder. But he could scarce forbear laughing at her, giving so little credit to such stories himself, and thought it was the tricks onely of some unhappy Wags to make sport to themselves and trouble to their Neighbours.

Well says she, if you will but stay a while you may chance to see something with your own Eyes. And indeed he had not stayed any considerable time with her in the street, but a Window of an upper room opened of itself (for they of the Family took it for granted no body was above stairs) and out comes a piece of an old Wheel through it; Whereupon it presently clapt to again. A little while after it suddainly flew open again and out come a Brick-bat, which incensed the Gentleman with a more eager desire to see what the matter was, and to discover the Knavery. And therefore he boldly resolved if any one would go up with him, him, he would in to the Chamber. But none present durst accompany him. Yet the keen desire of discovering the cheat, made him adventure by himself alone into that Room. Into which when he was come, he saw the Bedding, Chairs and Stools, and Candlesticks, and Bedstaves, and all the furniture rudely scattered on the floor, but upon search found no mortal in the Room.

Well! he stays there a while to try conclusions, anon a Bedstaff begins to move, and turn it self round a good while together upon its Toe, and at last fairly to lay it self down again. The curious Spectator, when he had observed it to lye still a while, steps on to it, views it whether any small string or hair were tyed to it, or whether there were any hole or button to fasten any such string to, or any hole or string in the Ceiling above; but after search, he found not the least suspicion of any such thing.

He retires to the Window again, and observes a little longer what may fall out. Anon, another Bedstaff rises off from the ground of its own accord higher into the air, and seems to make towards him. He now begins to think there was something more than ordinary in the business, and presently makes to the door with all speed, and for better caution shuts it after him. Which was presently opened again, and such a clatter

But clatter of Chairs, and Stools, and Candlesticks, and Bedstaves, sent after him down Stairs, as if they intended to have maimed him, but their motion was so moderated, that he received no harm, but by this time he was abundantly assured, that it was not mere Womanish fear or superstition that so affrighted the Mistress of the house. And while in a low Room he was talking with the Family about these things, he saw a Tobacco-pipe rise from a side Table, no body being nigh, and fly to the other side of the Room, and break it self against the wall for his further confirmation, that it was neither the tricks of Waggs, nor the fancy of a Woman, but the mad frolicks of Witches and Dæmons. Which they of the house being fully perswaded of, roasted a Bedstaff, upon which an Old Woman a suspected Witch came to the House, and was apprehended, but escaped the Law. But the House was after so ill haunted in all the Rooms, upper and lower, that the house stood empty for a long time after.

ADVERTISEMENT.

This Story is found amongst Mr. Glanvil's Papers, written to him from Dr. H. More, who says, some three months before, he had received it from the parties own mouth, that was at the haunted house in Bow, and saw the motion of the Bedstaves and Tobacco-pipe, &c. And I very well remember, that about Thirty or Forty years ago, there was a great fame of a house haunted at Bow, and such like feats as this Spectator saw, was rumoured of it, and the time agrees with that of this Spectator or Eye-witness of the above recited Feats. And a Book was then said to be Printed, though I never saw any but one of late without any date of the year, the things then being in Fieri, when it was Printed. And they seem to refer to the same haunted place, though the Pamphlet names Plaisto for Bow. But the haunting of which the fame went so many years ago I very well remember was Bow. But whether Bow was talked of instead of Plaisto, it being a place near, and of more note, I know not. And Paul Fox a Weaver, was the Man whose house was haunted in Plaisto according to that Pamphlet.

*If the Gentleman that so well remembers the strange things he saw, had not forgot the Mans

name whose house was haunted (and the strangeness of those things would fix themselves in his memory, even whether he would or no, when the name of the Master of the house might easily in Thirty or Forty years time slide out of it) we might be sure whether it were Plaisto or Bow. But I am sure the same went of Bow, though the Pamphlet name Plaisto, and that might make the abovesaid Party, who told Dr. More the story, fix the Scene without all scruple in Bow.

But methinks I hear the Reader complain; that it was a great omission in Mr. Glanvil, that he did not inquire of Dr. More who this party was that told him the story, it seeming an headless piece without that part. Wherefore I find in a Paper (whose Title is Doctor More's Particulars about the Stories) these words in answer to Mr. Glanvil. That it is Dr. Gibbs a Prebendary of Westminster, and a sober intelligent person. And some dozen lines after, Dr. More says, Dr. Gibbs told the story to my self, and to Dr. Outram, who brought me to him. And I have told you already, that he is a person of understanding and integrity. He has also some Sermons in Print as I take it.

But forasmuch as it was about three months after Dr. More had received this account of the story from Dr. Gibbs, that he wrote to Mr. Glanvil, it is not to be expected that he related lated it in the very same words, and in every punctilio as he heard it. But I dare undertake for him that for the main, and that which makes to the evincing of Witchcraft, and the ludicrous Feats of Demons, that he hath committed no error therein, nor set down any thing whose substance was not related to him by the Reverend Dr. Gibbs.

RELAT. XXI.

Mr. Jermin's story of an house haunted, and what disturbance himself was a Witness of there at a visit of his Wife's Sister.

ONE Mr. Jermin Minister of Bigner in Sussex, going to see a Sister of his Wife's, found her very Melancholy, and asking her the reason, she replied, You shall know to morrow morning. When he went to Bed there were two Maids accompanied him in his Chamber, and the next day he understood that they durst not go into any Room in the house alone.

In the night, while he was in his Bed he heard the trampling of many feet upon the Leads over his head, and after that the going off of a Gun, upon which followed a great silence. Then they came swiftly down Stairs into his Chamber, where they fell a wrestling and tumbling each other down, and so continued a great while. After they were quiet, they fell a whispering and made a great buzz, of which he could understand nothing. Then one called at the door, and said, Day is broke, come away. Upon which they ran up Stairs as fast as they could drive, and so he heard no more of them.

In the morning his Brother and Sister came in to him, and she said, Now Brother you know why I am so melancholy, after she had askt him how he had slept, and he had answered, I never rested worse in my life, having been disturbed a great part of the night with tumblings and noises. She complained that her Husband would force her to live there, notwithstanding their being continually scared. Whereto the Husband answered, Their disturbers never did them any other mischief.

At Dinner they had a Physician with them, who was an acquaintance. Mr. Jermyn discoursing about this disturbance, the Physician also answered that never any hurt was done, of which he gave this instance: That Dining there one day, there came a Man on Horseback into the yard in mourning. His Servant went to know what was his business; and found him sitting very melancholy, nor could he get any answer from him. The Master of the House and the Physician went forth to see who it was. Upon which the Man clapt Spurs to his Horse, and rode into the house up Stairs into a long Gallery whither the Physician followed him, and saw him vanish in a fire at the upper end of the Gallery. But though none of the Family received hurt at any time; yet Mr. Jermin fell into a Fever with the disturbance he experienced that indangered his Life.

Mr. Scot and his Wife heard this Narrative from Mr. Jermin's own mouth. And I also have heard it from Mr. Scot, who is a Minister of London, and the Authour of a late excellent good Treatise, which is entitled, The Christian Life, &c.

Contained in a Letter of Mr. G. Clark, to Mr. M. T. touching an house haunted in

SIR,

I Send you here a Relation of a very memorable piece of Witchcraft as I suppose, which would fit Mr. More gallantly. I first heard the story related to Sir Justinian Isham by a Reverend Minister, of his own experience. Sir Justinian would have had me gone to the place, which I could not then do. But a little after going to visit a friend, and not thinking of this, my friend told me the story, the place being near him, and the principal man concerned in the story being a Relation of his, and one that I my self had some acquaintance with. He had occasion to go to this Mans house for some deeds of Land, and I went with him for satisfaction touching this story, which I had to the full, and in which I could not but acquiesce, though otherwise I am very chary, and hard enough to believe passages of this nature.

The Story is this, At welton within a Mile of Daventry in Northamptonshire, where live together Widdow Cowley, the Grandmother, Widdow Stiff the Mother, and her two Daughters. At the next house but one, live another Widdow Cowley, Sister to the former Widdow Cowley, Moses Cowley my acquaintance her Son, and Moses his Wife, having a good Estate in Land of their own, and very civil and orderly people. These three told me, that the younger of the two Daughters, ten years of age, Vomited in less than three days, three Gallons of Water to their great Admiration. After this the elder Wench comes running, and tells them, that now her Sister begins to Vomit Stones and Coals. They went and were Eye-witnesses, told them till they came to Five hundred. Some weighed a quarter of a pound, and were so big, as they had enough to do to get them out of her mouth, and he professed to me, that he could scarce get the like into his mouth, and I do not know how any one should, if they were so big as he shewed the like to me. I have sent you one, but not a quarter so big as some of them were. It was one of the biggest of them that were left and kept in a bag. This Vomiting last-

ed about a fortnight, and hath Witnesses good store.

In the mean time they threw hards of Flax upon the fire, which would not blaze though blown, but dwindled away. The Bed-clothes would be thrown off the Bed, Moses Cowley told me, that he laid them on again several times, they all coming out of the Room, and go but into the Parlour again, and they were off again. And a strike of Wheat standing at the Beds feet, set it how they would, it would be thrown down again. Once the Coffers and things were so transposed, as they could scarce stir about the Room. Once he laid the Bible upon the Bed, but the Clothes were thrown off again, and the Bible hid in another Bed. And when they were all gone into the Parlour, as they used to go together, then things would be transposed in the Hall, their Wheel taken in pieces, and part of it thrown under the Table. In their Buttery their Milk would be taken off the Table, and set on the ground, and once one Panchion was broken, and the Milk spilt. A seven pound weight with a ring was hung upon the Spigot, and the Beer mingled with Sand and all spoiled, their Salt mingled most perfectly with Bran.

Moses

Moses his Mother said that their Flax was thrown out of a Box , she put it in again , it was thrown out again ; she put it in again and lockt the Box , trying by the hasp or lid (as they use to do) whether it was fast , it was so. But as soon as her back was turned the Box was unlocked, and the Flax was thrown out again. Moses said that when he was coming out of the Parlour , he saw a loaf of Bread tumbled off the form , and that was the first thing he saw. After a Womans Patten rose up in the house, and was thrown at them. He heard the Comb break in the Window, and presently it flew at them in two pieces. A Knife rose up in the Window , and flew at a Man, hitting him with the haft. An Ink-glass was thrown out of the Window into the floor , and by and by the stopple came after it. Then every day abundance of stones were thrown about the house which broke the Windows, and hat the People , but they were the less troubled, because all this while no hurt was done to their Persons , and a great many People being in the room the wheat was thrown about amongst them.

I was in the house where I saw the Windows which were still broken , and the People

People themselves shewed me where the several particulars were done. The Grand-mother told me that she thought she had lost half a strike of Wheat, and the like happened to some Fitches in the Barn. One Mr. Robert Clark a Gentleman being that with the stones, bad the Baker at the Door look to his Bread well, and by and by a handful of crums were thrown into his lap. They could see the things as they came, but no more.

At last some that had been long suspected for Witches were Examined, and one sent to the Gaol, where it is said she plays her pranks, but that is of doubtful credit. I asked the Old Woman whether they were free now. She said that one Night since, they heard great knockings and cruel noise, which scared them worse than all the rest, and once or twice that week her cheese was crumbled into pieces and spoiled. I was there about May-day, 1658. This is all that I remember at present. I have heard several other stories, and two or three notable ones lately from Mens own Experience, which in reason I was to believe as I did. But in my Judgment this outgoes all that I know of, it having so much of sense and of the day time, so many and so credible Witnesses beyond all cavil and exception.

exception. I will trouble you no further, but commending you to the protection of God Almighty, I take my leave and rest

RELAT. XXIII.

The Relation of James Sherring, taken concerning the matter at Old Galt's house of little Burton, June 23. 1677. as follows.

THe first Night that I was there with Hugh Mellmore and Edward Smith, they heard as it were the washing in water over their heads. Then taking a Candle and going up the stairs there was a wet Cloth thrown at them, but it fell on the stairs. They going up farther then, there was another thrown as before. And when they came up into the Chamber there stood a bowl of water, some of it sprinkled over, and the water looked white as if there had been Sope used in it. The Bowl just before was in the Kitchen, and could not be carried up but through the room where they were. The next thing that they heard the same Night was a terrible noise as if it had been a flat of Thunder, and shortly after they heard great scratching about the Bedsted, and after that a great knocking with a Hammer against the Beds-head, so that the two Maids that were in the Bed cried out for help. Then they ran up the stairs, and there lay the Hammer on the Bed and on the Beds-head, there were near a Thousand prints of the Hammer which the violent strokes had made. The Maids said that they were scratched and pinched with a hand that was put into the Bed which had exceeding long Nails. They said that the Hammer was locked fast up in the Cupboard when they went to Bed. This was that which was done the first Night, with many other things of the like nature.

The second Night that James Sherring and Tho. Hillary were there, James Sherring sat down in the Chimney to fill a Pipe of Tobacco. He made use of the fire-tongs to take up a Coal to fire his Pipe, and by and by the Tongs were drawn up the stairs, and after they were up in the Chamber, they were played withall as many times Men do, and then thrown down upon the Bed. Although the Tongs were so near him, he never perceived the going of them away. The same Night one of the Maids left her shoos by the fire, and they were carried up into the Chamber, and the Old Mans brought down and set in their places. The same Night there was a Knife carried up into the Chamber, and it did scratch and scrape the Beds-head all the Night, but when they went up into the Chamber the Knife was thrown into the Loft. As they were going up the stairs there were things thrown at them, which were just before in the low room, and when they went down the stairs the Old Mans Breeches were thrown down after them. These were the most remarkable things done that Night, onely there was continual knocking and pinching the Maids, which was usually done every Night.

The third Night, when James Sherring and Thomas Hillery were there, as soon as the People were gone to bed, their Clothes were taken and thrown at the Candle and put it out, and immediately after they cried out with a very hideous cry and said, they should be all choaked if they were not presently helped. Then they ran up the stairs and there was abundance of Feathers plucked out of the Bolster that lay under their Heads, and some thrust into their Mouths that they were almost choaked. The Feathers were thrown all about the Bed and room. They were plucked out at a hole no bigger than the top of ones little finger. Some time after they were vexed with a very hideous knocking at their heads as they lay on the Bed. Then James Sherring and Thomas Hillery took the Candle and went up stairs and stood at the Beds feet, and the knocking continued. Then they saw a Hand with an Arm-wrist hold the Hammer which kept on knocking against the Bedsted. Then James Sherring going towards the Beds-head, the Hand and Hammer fell down behind the Bolster and could not be found. For they turned up the Bed-clothes to search for the Hammer. But as soon as they went down the stairs the Hammer was thrown out into the middle of the Chamber. These were the most remarkable things that were done that Night.

The fourth and fifth Nights, there was

but little done more than knocking and scratching as was usually.

The sixth and seventh Nights, there was nothing at all but as quiet as at other houses. These were all the Nights that they were there.

The things that do follow are what James Sherring heard the People of the house report.

There was a Saddle in the house of their Uncle Warrens of Leigh, (which it should seem they detained wrongfully from the right owner) that as it did hang upon a Pin in the entry would come off and come into the house, and as they termed it hop about the house from one place to another, and upon the Table, and so to another, which stood on the other side of the house. Jane Gast and her Kinswoman took this Saddle and carried it to Leigh and as they were going along in the broad Common, there would be sticks and stones thrown at them, which made them very much afraid, and going near together their Whittles which were on their shoulders were knit together. They carried the Saddle to the house which was Old Warrens, and there left it and returned home very quiet. But being gone to Bed at Night the Saddle was brought back from Leigh, (which is a Mile and half at the least from Old Gasts House) and thrown upon the Bed where the Maids lay. After that, the Saddle was very troublesome to them, until they broke it in small pieces and threw it out into the Highway.

There was a Coat of the same Parties, who was owner of the Saddle, which did hang on the door in the Hall, and it came off from the place and flew into the fire and lay there some considerable time, before they could get it out. For it was as much as three of them could do to pluck it out of the fire, because of the ponderous weight that lay on it, as they thought. Nevertheless there was no impression on it of the fire.

Old Gast sat at Dinner with a Hat of this Old Warrens on his Head, and there was something came and struck it off into the Dish where his Meat was.

There was a Pole which stood in the back-side about Fourteen or Fifteen Foot in length, which was brought into the House, and carried up into the Chamber, ber, and thrown on the Bed; but all the Wit they had could not get it out of the Chamber, because of its length, until they took down a light of the Window. They report that the things in the House was thrown about and broken, to their great damage.

One Night there were two of this Old Gast his Grand-daughters in Bed together, they were aged, One of them about Twelve or Thirteen years, and the other about Sixteen or Seventeen. They said, that they felt a Hand in Bed with them, which they bound up in the Sheet, and took Bed-staves and beat it until it were as soft as Wool, then they took a Stone which lay in the Chamber, about a quarter of an Hundred weight, and put on it, and were quiet all the Night. In the Morning, they found it as they left it the Night before. Then the eldest of the Maids sware that she would burn the Devil, and goes and fetches a Fuz Faggot to burn it, but when she came again, the Stone was thrown away, and the Cloth was found wet.

There were many other things which is too long and tedious to write, it would take up a great deal of time.

This

This which follows is the Relation of Jone Winsor of long Burton, she being there Three Nights, taken the Third day of July, 1677.

She heard or saw nothing as long as the Candle did burn, but as soon as it was out, there was something which did seem to fall down by the Bed-side, and by and by it began to lay on the Bed-head vwith a Staffe, and did strike Jone Winsor on the Head. She put forth her Hand and caught it, but was not able to hold it fast. She got out of the Bed to light a Candle, and there was a great Stone thrown after her, but it missed her. When the Candle was lighted, they arose and went down to the Fire. One of them went up to fetch the Bed-clothes to make a Bed by the Fire, and there lay a heap of Stones on the Bed vwhereon they lay just before. As soon as the Bed vvas made, and they laid down to take their rest, there was a scratching on the Form that stood by them in an extream manner. Then it came, and did heave up the Bolster whereon they laid their Heads, and did endeavour to throw them out. At last it got hold on one end of the Pillow, and set it quite on end, and there it stood for some considerable time; at last falling down in its place, they fell fast asleep, and so continued all that Night.

The Staff that was spoken of before was Jone Winsors, and she says, she left it below in the Kitchen. She says, that vvhich troubled, did endeavour to kill the people, if it had power. She put them to it, to know the reason vvhy they vv ere so troubled, and they said they knew nothing, unless it was about the business of Old Warren. She vv as there Three Nights, and the trouble was much after the same manner, nothing that was more remarkable.

This is the truth of what I heard them speak from their own Mouths, and they will attest it if called thereunto.

A very considerable Story this is, and sufficiently circumstantiated for time and place, saving that the County is not named. The reason whereof I conceive to be, that it was in the very County in which Mr. Glanvil lived, to whom the Information was sent, namely in Somersetshire. And there are Burtons more than one there, and also Leighs, but this Burton is determined by the space of something more than a Mile and an halfs distance from Leigh. So that the Topographical account is sufficiently exact. And the manner of the Narrative is so simple, plain and rural, that it prevents all suspicion of fraud or Imposture in the Relation.

The transporting of things out of one Room into another, and striking and the like by invisible Agents, minds me of Mr. Lloyd's story, as 'tis called in Mr. Glanvil's Papers, whom in a Letter he tells he may rely upon it for truth, as being sent from a Person of Quality and Integrity in those parts. It is of an House haunted of one Walter Meyrick of the Parish of Blethvaugh, in the County of Radnor, some Two and Twenty Years ago. Where besides strange kind of Tunable Whistlings in the Rooms, where none was seen to Whistle, there were stones flung down out of a loft of great weight, the Doors bolted or barred against them on the inside, when returned from the Church, no body being within. And at Prayers at home when some of the Women out of fear held one another by the Arms, some Invisible Power would pluck asunder their Arms, whether they would or no. By such an Invisible force, one as he was sitting at Supper,

Supper, was struck flat to the ground, and a Trencher struck out of the Maids Hand that waited, and a smart Box on the Ear given to another, no Visible thing being near that did it. A Purse lost with Two Gold Rings, and Six and Four-pence in it, the party complaining thereof, the Purse dropt down from the top of the Room, which had no Room over it, and Four-pence only in it. That Men were struck down with Stones, and yet had no great hurt, shews plainly they were not flung but carried. But there was one beaten with Two Staves black and blue, but none to be seen that thus belaboured him, though in the Day.

We pass by the Frying-Pan, beaten with a little piece of Iron, and tinkling over a Mans Head in the Night, to his being struck down with a Stick by Day, while he tended the Goose roasting, which that Invisible Striker seemed to have a Plot upon, as also by his knocking a Pick-Axe against the Lid of a Coffe^r, to have a Design upon a Bag of Money. These and the like Feats, that Narrative relates, which Mr. Glanvil calls Mr. Lloyd's Story, who assures him he may rely on the Truth thereof, he procuring it from a Justice of Peace, who took the parties Testimonies that dwelt in the House, or upon occasions were present there, and were Eye-Witnesses of the strange Pranks that were plaid in the place. And there being that Congeneracy betwixt James Sherrings Story and this, they mutually corroborate one another.

RELAT.

RELAT. XXIV.

Mr. Andrew Paschall once fellow of Queens Colledge in Cambridge, his Narrative of three Nights disturbance at his Fathers house in London in Soper-Lane, in August 1661.

THE first Nights disturbance; There was in Family my Father and Mother, my Eldest Brother, and one of my Sisters with a young Maiden Gentlewoman her Bedfellow (who seemed to be principally concerned) besides a Maid that lay in the same Chamber.

The Gentlewoman before mentioned, being in bed with my Sister in a Chamber within that where my Father and Mother lay, (the Maid lying in another bed alone by) there seemed to her then lying lying awake, to be one walking in the Chamber, by a noise made as of a long Gown or some Trailing Garment brushing and sweeping up and down the Room.

By and by, there vvas a Noise of Clattering their Shoes under the Bed, with a scratching and tugging of the Mat under the bed likewise. This continued for some time, my Sister being awakened heard it, so did the Maid. After this my Mother being called out of the next Chamber where she was up (to prepare a Chymical water which required their being up all Night) came in, they being in a great fright. My Brother went up also, who not gone to bed late below. A Candle was brought, and the noise ceased while they were in the Chamber. Presently after they were gone out again, and the light removed, the Chamber door (which shuts with difficulty) flew to with a great bounce, it being wide open before, it shook the Room where my Mother was busied about the aforesaid preparation. After this one of the shoos that was by the bed side was flung over the bed with a mighty force against a Press that stood on on the other side. This put them to such a fright again that the Gentlewoman rise. My Brother went into the Room again and sat up with them all Night.

This I received from my Brother, who came to Bed to me, (who by reason of some illness had gone to bed first in the Family) early the next Morning. I was confirmed in it afterward by my Mother, upon whose bare assertion I dare confidently believe any thing that shall be related.

The second Nights disturbance ; The next Evening as we sat at Supper, we all heard a great noise above in the Chamber, at the end of the house, as it were flinging of Chairs and Stools about the Room or removing of great Trunks. And going up to see, all was still till we came down again : However the Gentlewoman resolved to go to bed again that Night in the same Chamber. My Sister went to bed with her, and the rest to their Lodgings, onely my Brother and I resolved to sit up some time and expect the event. Within a while after we heard them knock earnestly above, we

we went both up, they told us there had been the same disturbance as the Night before and something more. For besides the tugging of the Mat under the bed, the Bedclothes upon them were often tugged and pulled, insomuch as they were fain to hold them hard with their hands to keep them from being pulled off. All was quiet for a little time while we were in the Chamber with a light, but we were no sooner out of the Chamber with the Candle, but the noise under the bed, tugging of the Mat, pulling of the Bedclothes began again. Moreover something came into the bed, which the Gentlewoman said ran up on her by degrees, and seemed little and soft like a Mole. Upon this she skreekt out, and we came in again with the Candle, the all was still again.

We retired often with the Candle and presently the same Disturbance returned, together with a low whispering Noise in many places about the Bed, but chiefly towards the beds head, which we all heard staying in the Chamber, and removing the Candle into the next Room. My Father and Mother rose and there were none of us but heard a most part of this, but nothing appeared to us. The thing was continually moving and stirring in some part or other of the bed, and most commonly at the feet, where it usually came up first.

At last it came to that boldness that it would make the same disturbance while the Candle was in the Chamber, if but a little shaded behind the door, so that we could sometimes see the Clothes pull'd and tugg'd, and we frequently saw it heave and lift up the Clothes upon the bed towards the feet, in a little hill or rising, which both my Brother and I often clapt our hands upon, perceiving it like to move, and withall to make a little clacking noise, which cannot any more than the former whispering be exprest in Writing. We could not perceive any thing more than the Clothes, as often as we saw them so moved and heaved up.
The shoos were laid up upon the beds Tetter, the second Night, to prevent the clattering which was made with them the Night before, and whilst we were standing talking in the Chamber, as I was some distance from the bed, one of the shoos flew off and hit me lightly on the head, my Hat being on. And another came presently tumbling down after it

it none stirring the bed. Afterwards the aforesaid little thing came upon the Gentlewoman so frequently, that if we were but the least removed, she could not lie quiet in her bed. Then she fate up in her bed with a Mantle about her, which when we were retired was pulled at as if it would have been plucked from her.
Whereupon she cried out again, and I came into the Chamber again, and was desired to hold fast upon the Mantle about her, which notwithstanding upon removal of the Candle was tugged hard again, which I very sensibly perceived.
Whereupon we perceiving no Cessation, on, my Brother and I continued in the Chamber all that Night till break of day, with a Candle in the Room. The tugging of the Matt under the Bed, the heaving of the Clothes about the Feet, and the other vvhispering noise continuing by fits, till Light appeared. There was scarcely any of us, especially she her self, that did not Conjure that Whisperer by the most Sacred Names to speak out and tell us its intent, but nothing was to be seen, nor any answer made.

Gentle-

Gentlewoman resolved now to change her Chamber, to try if the disturbance would follow, she did so, my Sister still accompanying of her. My Brother and I sat up as before below expecting again what would follow. The same noise was heard this third Night as the Night before above in the Chamber. We had not sat long below before we were Summoned up with loud knockings again, they were in the same case as before, if not worse. A while after they were in bed in this other Chamber there was a clattering heard at the door; presently after the same noise under the bed, the same heaving of the Clothes, and the same whispering as before. But towards Midnight that thing which came into the bed before, came now so often with such ungrateful skipplings up and down upon her, that she often skreekt and cried out. It seemed cold and very smooth as she related, and would commonly come in at her feet, and run all up on her by her side to her shoulder. Once she desired me to clap my hand upon her back near her shoulder blade, as feeling it just then come up thither. I did so on a suddain, and there seemed a cold blast or puff of Wind to blow upon my hand just as I clapt clapt it on her. And one thing more remarkable was this, when the whispering was heard at her Beds-head, after we had many times in vain conjured it to speak and tell us the intent of its whisperings and disturbance, I spake to it very earnestly to speak out or whisper louder. Hereupon it hissed out much louder than before, but nothing intelligible to be heard. At last this disturbance with the thing in the bed being no longer tolerable to the Gentlewoman, my Mother rise (lying in the next Chamber and hearing their perplexity) came into her Chamber and prayed sometime at her Bedside just by her. Whereupon it pleased God within a very short time after to remove all those noises and that which disturbed her. After that Night I cannot tell certainly that there hath been any thing of that nature heard in the house.

THIS Narrative though it was not among Mr. Glanvil's Papers, but I found it by chance in mine own Study, yet it being made by an Eye-witness whom I knew to be one of Judgement and Integrity, I thought fit to insert it. And the rather, because of that passage, that when he clapt his Hand upon the Shoulder of the Gentlewoman where the Ghost was, a cool blast or puff of Air seemed to bear or blow against his Hand. Which is like Mr. Glanvil's Experiment of pressing the Linnen Bag in which some Spirit was moving as a living Animal. Which are notable instances of their easie percipitation through porous Bodies. This troublesome Spirit I suspect to have been the Ghost of some party deceased who would have uttered something, but had not the knack of speaking so articulately as to be understood. And when they can speak intelligibly, it is ordinarily in a hoarse and low Voice, as is observable in many stories, and particularly in a very fresh story of the Ghost of one deceased that spoke to Jacob Brent some two years ago, an Apprentice then to one Mr. Lawrence in the Little Minories; of which to give some brief account, I think fitting for the very same reasons that I have inserted this of Mr. Paschal, namely, that it is from an Eye-witness witness, and a discreet and well-disposed young man, as they that know him do testifie : and I will set down no more, nor so much as he himself declared or acknowledged, not onely to Dr. Cudworth, Mr. Fowler, and Mr. Glanvil, but very lately to my self also, viz.

That he had conference with the Ghost of some deceased party for about a quarter of an hour : That he had a glimpse of the shape thereof, being called into the Room where it was, by a Voice , saying , Here , Here ; but that he presently cried out, Good God, let me see nothing, he being so affrighted with the sight. But however, he entertained discourse with it for about the time above-mentioned, received several things in charge from it to be done, and was commanded secrecy in some special Matters ; but it gave such instructions , and made such discoveries, as right might be done to some that had been wronged by the party deceased. Upon which performance of Jacob Brent, the disturbance of the house ceased : But for about six Weeks before, Mr. Lawrence his house was miserably disturbed, they being most nights affrighted with Thumpings and loud Knockings at the Chamber-doors , sometimes with a strange whirling noise up and down the Rooms , and clapping upon the Stairs. And that night Jacob Brent sate up in the Kitchen expecting some conference with the Spirit for the quiet of the House, he heard

the Door of the Room above him that was fast lockt, fly open, while he was reading in Eusebius, and immediately a swift running down the Stairs, and a great knock at the Kitchen-door which stood a jarr, and a chinking of Money on the Stairs, as he passed from the Kitchen towards the Dining-room over against it, whose Door was lockt when they went to bed, but now opened as the Door of the other Room above the Kitchen.

Into this Dining-room he was invited, as is above said, by a Voice saying, Here, Here; and there he received, and after executed, such directions as gave quiet afterwards to the House; and he received thanks from the Ghost after he had made his Journey abroad to fulfil its desire, at his returning home, with a promise it would never trouble the house more. And of the troubles of the house before, the whole Family were Witnesses, as also of the Conference of J. B. and the Spirit, that they heard two speaking in the Dining-room, though they were not so near as to understand what they said; onely they heard J. B. pray to God that he might see nothing.

That the house was really Haunted, besides what has been said already, is further confirmed by Mr. Bamfield, who was desired to lie in the house some days before this Conference of J. B. with the Spirit; who though he heard no noises, yet felt his Clothes tuckt about him, and his Hand kindly stroaked, he being awake all night. And that this could be no trick of J. B. is further evident from that great emotion of mind he was in after this for some two hours, even almost to distraction, and was fain afterwards to be let Bloud. But for his constant temper, he is observed to be, and I take him to be such, of a sober honest and sensible Genius; nor is he any Sectarian, but an orderly Son of the Church of England.

And if the Injunctions of the Ghost he conversed with, and common rules of Prudence, did not forbid the declaring of some particulars, this is an experiment that might convince the most incredulous touching such things. But Mr. Glanvil complains in a Letter of his to Dr. H. More, that this shyness and tender respect of persons has hindered him of many a considerable story; as I have also taken notice long since how mutilate the story of the Shoemaker of Breslaw is made, by reason of Martinus Weinrichius his concealing the Shoemaker's Name. But the mentioning of lockt Doors flying open of their own accord, reminds me of Mr. Alcock's story of a Chest with three Locks unlocking itself, and flying wide open, and then locking itself again. Which is as follows.

RELAT. XXV.

The Story of Mr. John Bourne of Durley in Ireland, about a mile from Bridgwater, Counsellor at Law.

MR. John Bourne, for his skill, care, and honesty, was made by his Neighbour John Mallet Esq; of Enmore, the chief of his Trustees for his Son John Mallet, (Father to Elizabeth now Countess Dowager of Rocheſter) and the rest of his Children in minority. He had the reputation of a worthy good man, and was commonly taken notice of for an habitual saying by way of Interjection almost to any thing, viz. You ſay true, You ſay true, You are in the right. This Mr. Bourne fell ſick at his houſe at Durley in the year 1654, and Dr. Raymond of Oake was ſent for to him, who after ſome time gave the ſaid Mr. Bourne over. And he had not now ſpake in Twenty four hours, when the ſaid Dr. Raymond and Mrs. Carlifle (Mr. Bourne's Nephews Wife, whoſe Husband he made one of his Heirs) ſitting by his Bedſide, the Doctor opened the Curtains at the Beds feet, to give him air; when on a ſuddain, to the horror and amazement of Dr. Raymond and Mrs. Carlifle, the great Iron Cheſt by the Window at his Beds feet with three Locks to it (in which were all the Writings and Evidences of the said Mr. Mallet's Estate) began to open , first one Lock, then another , then the third. Afterwards the Lid of the said iron Chest lifted up itself, and stood wide open. Then the Patient Mr. Bourne, who had not spoke in Twenty four hours, lifted himself up also, and looking upon the Chest, cryed, You say true, You say true, You are in the right, I'll be with you by and by. So the Patient lay down and spake no more. Then the Chest fell again of itself, and lockt itself one Lock after another, as the three Locks opened; and they tried to knock it open and could not, and Mr. Bourne died within an hour after.

ADVERTISEMENT.

THis Narrative was sent in a Letter to J. C. for Dr. H. More, from Mr. Thomas Alcock of Shear Hampton; of which in a Letter to the said Doctor he gives this account. I am, saith he, very confident of the truth of the story : For I had it from a very good Lady, the eldest Daughter of the said John Mallet, (whose Trustee Mr. Bourne was) and onely Aunt to the Countess of Rockester, who knew all the parties; and have heard Dr. Raymond and Mr. Carlisle relate it often with amazement, being both persons of credit.

meaning of the opening of the Chest may be, and of Mr. Bourne his say, You say true, &c. I'll be with you by and by. As for the former, it is noted by Paracelsus especially, and by others, that there are signs often given of the departure of sick men lying on their Death-beds, of which this opening of the Iron Coffin or Chest and closing again, is more than ordinary significant, especially if we consider the nearness of sound and sense betwixt Coffer and Coffin, and recal to mind that of Virgil;

though this quaintness is more than is requisite in these Prodigies presaging the Sick man's death. As for the latter, it seems to be nothing else but the saying Amen to the presage, uttered in his accustomed form of speech: As if he should say, You of the invisible Kingdom of Spirits have given the token of my suddain departure: And you say true, I shall be with you by and by. Which he was enabled so assuredly to assent to, upon the advantage of the relaxation of his Soul now departing from the Body. Which Diodorus Siculus, lib. 18. notes to be the opinion of Pythagoras and his followers, That it is the priviledge of the Soul near her departure to exercise a fatidical faculty, and to pronounce truly touching things future, Περιώσκειν τὰς ψυχὰς τὰ μέλλοντα καθ' ὃν ἂν κερύον ἐν τῇ τελευτῇ τὸν ἀπὸ τοῦ σώματος χωρισμὸν ποιῶνται, That humane Souls prognostick things to come at what time they are separating from their Body.

The Apparition of James Haddock to Francis Taverner near Drum-bridge in Ireland, comprized in a Letter of Thomas Alcock to Dr. H. More.

AT Michaelmas 1662. Francis Taverner, about Twenty five years old, a lusty, proper, stout fellow, then servant at large (afterwards Porter) to the Lord Chichester Earl of Donegal, at Belfast in the North of Ireland, County of Antrim, and Diocess of Connor, riding late in the Night from Hilbrough homeward, near Drum-bridge, his Horse, though of good metal, suddainly made a stand; and he supposing him to be taken with the Staggers, alighted to bloud him in the mouth, and presently mounted again. As he was setting forward, there seemed to pass by him two Horsemen, though he could not hear the treading of their feet, which amazed him. Presently there appeared a third in a white Coat, just just at his Elbow in the likeness of James Haddock formerly an Inhabitant in Malone, where he died near five years before. Whereupon Taverner askt him in the Name of God who he was? He replied, I am James Haddock, and you may call to mind by this token; That about five years ago I and two other Friends were at your Fathers House, and you by your Fathers appointment brought us some Nuts, and therefore be not afraid, says the Apparition. Whereupon Taverner, remembring the circumstances, thought it might be Haddock; and those two who passed by before him, he thought to be his two Friends with him when he gave them Nuts, and courageously askt him why he appeared to him rather than any other. He answered, Because he was a man of more resolution than others; and if he would ride his way with him, he would acquaint him with a business he had to deliver him. Which Taverner refused to do, and would go his own way, (for they were now at a Quadrivial) and so rode on homewards. But immediately on the departure there arose a great wind, and withal he heard very hideous screeches and noises, to his great amazement; but riding forward as fast as he could, he at last heard the Cocks crow, to his comfort; he alighted off from his Horse, and falling to prayer, desired God's assistance, and so got safe home.

The night after there appeared again to him him the likeness of James Haddock, and bid him go to Elenor Welsh, (now the Wife of Davis living at Malone, but formerly the Wife of the said James Haddock, by whom she had an only Son, to whom the said James Haddock had by his Will given a Lease which he held of the Lord Chichester, of which the Son was deprived by Davis who had married his Mother) and to ask her if her Maiden-name was not Elenor Welsh; and if it were, to tell her, that it was the Will of her former Husband James Haddock that their Son should be righted in the Lease. But Taverner, partly loath to gain the ill will of his Neighbours, and partly thinking he should not be credited but lookt on as deluded, long neglected to do his Message, till having been every night for about a Months space haunted with this Apparition in several forms every night more and more terrible, (which was usually preceded by an unusual trembling over his whole Body, and great change of countenance manifest to his Wife, in whose presence frequently the Apparition was, though not visible to her) at length he went to Malone to Davis's Wife, and askt whether her Maiden-name was not Elenor Welsh; if it was, he had something to say to her. She replied, There was another Elenor Welsh besides her. Hereupon Taverner returned without delivering his Message. The same night being fast asleep in his Bed, (for the

the former Apparitions were as he fate by the Fire with his Wife) by something pressing upon him, he was awakened, and saw again the Apparition of James Haddock in a white Coat as at other times, who asked him if he had delivered his Message? He answered, he had been there with Elenor Welsh. Upon which the Apparition looking more pleasantly upon him, bid him not be afraid, and so vanished in a flash of brightness.

But some nights after (he having not delivered his Message) he came again, and appearing in many formidable shapes, threatned to tear him in pieces if he did not do it. This made him leave his house where he dwelt in the Mountains, and betake himself to the Town of Belfast, where he fate up all night at one Pierce's house a Shoemaker, accompanied with the said Pierce and a Servant or two of the Lord Chichester, who were desirous to see or hear the Spirit. About midnight as they were all by the Fire-side they beheld Taverner's Countenance to change, and a trembling to fall on him, who presently espied the Apparition in a Room opposite to him where he fate, and took up the Candle and went to it, and resolutely askt it in the Name of God wherefore it haunted him? It replied, because he had not delivered the Message, and withal threatned to tear him in pieces if he did not do it speedily; and so, changing itself into many ny prodigious shapes, it vanisht in white like a Ghost. Whereupon Francis Taverner became much dejected and troubled, and next day went to the Lord Chichester's house, and with tears in his Eyes, related to some of the Family the sadness of his condition. They told it to my Lord's Chaplain Mr. James South, who came presently to Taverner, and being acquainted of his whole Story, advised him to go this present time to Malone to deliver punctually his Message, and promised to go along with him. But first they went to Dr. Lewis Downs then Minister of Belfast, who upon hearing the Relation of the whole matter, doubted at first of the truth of it, attributing it rather to Melancholy than any thing of reality. But being afterwards fully satisfied of it, the onely scruple remaining was, Whether it might be lawful to go on such a business, not knowing whose errand it was; Since, though it was a real Apparition of some Spirit, yet it was questionable whether of a good or a bad Spirit. Yet the justice of the Cause, (it being the common report the Youth was wronged) and other considerations prevailing, he went with them. So they three went to Davis's house, where the Woman being desired to come to them, Taverner did effectually do his Message, by telling her, that he could not be at quiet for the Ghost of her former Husband James Haddock, who threat-

ned to tear him in piéces if he did not tell her she must right John Haddock her Son by him, in a Lease wherein she and Davis her now Husband had wronged him. This done, he presently found great quietness in his mind; and, thanking the Gentlemen for their Company, Advice, and Assistance, he departed thence to his Brother's House at Drum-bridge: Where, about two nights after, the aforelaid Apparition came to him again, and more pleasantly than formerly, askt if he had delivered his Message? He answered, he had done it fully. It replied, that he must do the same Message to the Executors also, that the business might be perfected. At this meeting Taverner asked the Spirit if Davis would do him any hurt; to which it answered at first somewhat doubtfully; but at length threatened Davis if he attempted any thing to the injury of Taverner, and so vanisht away in white.

The day following, Dr. Jeremie Taylor Bishop of Down, Connor, and Dromore, was to go to keep Court at Dromore, and commanded me, who was then Secretary to him, to write for Taverner to meet him there, which he did. And there in the presence of many people he examined Taverner strictly of this strange Scene of Providence, as my Lord styl'd it; and by the account given him both by Taverner, and others who knew Taverner and much of the former former particulars, his Lordship was satisfied that the Apparition was true and real; but said no more there to him, because at Hilbrough three miles from thence on his way home, my Lord was informed that my Lady Conway and other persons of Quality were come purposely to hear his Lordship examine the Matter. So Tarverner went with us to Hilbrough, and there, to satisfy the curiosity of the fresh company, after asking many things anew, and some over again, my Lord advised him the next time the Spirit appeared to ask him these Questions. Whence are you? Are you a good or a bad Spirit? Where is your abode? What station do you hold? How are you regimented in the other World? And what is the reason that you appear for the relief of your Son in so small a matter, when so many Widows and Orphans are oppressed in the World, being defrauded of greater matters, and none from thence of their Relations appear, as you do, to right them?

That night Taverner was sent for to Lifburne to my Lord Conway's three miles from Hilbrough on his way home to Belfast, where he was again strictly examined in the presence of many good men and women of the aforesaid matter, was ordered to lie at my Lord Conway's all night; and about Nine or Ten a clock at night, standing by the Fire-side with his Brother and many others, his Countenance changed, changed, and he fell into a trembling, the usual prognostick of the Apparition; and, being loath to make any disturbance in his Lordships house, he and his Brother went out into the Court, where he saw the Spirit coming over the Wall; which, approaching nearer, askt him if he had done his Message to the Executor also? He replied, he had, and wondered it should still haunt him. It replied, he need not fear, for it would do him no hurt, nor trouble him any more, but the Executor if he did not see the Boy righted. Here his Brother put him in mind to ask the Spirit what the Bishop bid him, which he did presently. But it gave him no answer, but crawled on its Hands and Feet over the Wall again, and so vanished in white, with a most melodious Harmony.

Note, (1) That Pierce, at whose house, and in whose presence the Apparition was, being askt whether he saw the Spirit, said, he did not, but thought at that time he had a Mist all over his eyes. (2) What was then spoke to Taverner was in so low and hollow a voice, that they could not understand what it said. (3) At Pierce's house it stood just in the entry of a Door; and as a Maid passed by to go in at the Door, Taverner saw it go aside and give way to the Maid, though she saw it not. (4) That the Lease was hereupon disposed on to the Boys use. (5) The Spirit at the last ap-apparition at my Lord Conway's house, revealed somewhat to Taverner, which he would not discover to any of us that askt him.

This Taverner, with all the Persons and Places mentioned in the Story, I knew very well, and all wise and good men did believe it, especially the Bishop, and Dean of Connor Dr. Rust:

IT will not be amiss to set down here what Mr. Alcock addes by way of Postscript in his Letter. There is an odd story, saith he, depending on this, which I cannot chuse but tell you. The Boys Friends put the Trustees and Executor on this Apparitions account into our Courts, where it was pleasant to hear my Lord talk to them on the whole matter. The Uncle and Trustee, one John Costlet, forswore the thing, railed on Taverner, and made strange imprecations, and wisht Judgments might fall on him if he knew of any such Lease; but the fear of the Apparitions menaces by Taverner scar'd him into a promise of justice at least. About four or five years after, when my Lord died, and the noise of the Apparition was over, Costlet began again to threaten the Boy with Law, &c. But being drunk at Hill-

hall by Lisburne, coming home he fell from his Horse, and never spake more. This is a sad truth to my knowledge.

The Story of David Hunter Neat-herd to the Bishop of Down and Connor, at Portmore in Ireland, 1663. from the same hand.

David Hunter Neat-herd at the Bishop's house at Portmore, there appeared to him one night, carrying a Log of Wood into the Dairie, an Old Woman, which amazed him, for he knew her not: but the fright made him throw away his Log of Wood and run into the house. The next night she appeared again to him, and he could not chuse but follow her all night; and so almost every night for near three quarters of a Year. Whenever she came, he must go with her through the Woods at a good round rate; and the poor fellow lookt as if he was bewicht and travelled off his legs. And when in bed with his Wife, if she appeared, he must rise and go. And because his Wife could not hold him in his bed, she would go too, and walk after him till day, though she see nothing: But his little Dog was so well acquainted with the Apparition, that he would follow her as well as his Master. If a Tree stood in her walk, he observed her always to go through it. In all this while she spake not.

But one day the said David going over a Hedge into the High-way, she came just against him, and he cried out, Lord bless me, would I was dead; shall I never be delivered from this misery? At which, And the Lord bless me too, says she: It was very happy you spake first, for till then I had no power to speak, though I have followed you so long. My Name, says she, is Margaret — I lived here before the War, and had one Son by my Husband. When he died I married a Souldier, by whom I had several Children, which that former Son maintained, else we must have all starved. He lives beyond the Baun-water; pray go to him and bid him dig under such a Harth, and there he shall find 28 s. Let him pay what I owe in such a place, and the rest to the charge unpaid at my Funeral; and go to my Son that lives here, which I had by my latter Husband, and tell him that he lives a wicked and a dissolute life, and is very unnatural and ungrateful to his Brother that maintained him; and if he does not mend his life, God Almighty will destroy him.

David Hunter told her he never knew her. No, says she, I died Seven years before you came into the Countrey: But for all that, if he would do her Message, she would never hurt him. But he deferred doing as the Apparition bid him, him, and she appeared the night after as he lay in bed, and struck him on the shoulder very hard; at which he cried out, and askt her if she did not promise she would not hurt him? She said, that was if he did her Message; if not, she would kill him. He told her he could not go now by reason the Waters were out. She said she was content he should stay till they were abated; but charged him afterwards not to fail her. So he did her errand, and afterwards she appeared and gave him thanks. For now, said she, I shall be at rest, therefore pray you lift me up from the ground, and I will trouble you no more. So David Hunter lifted her up from the ground, and, as he said, she felt just like a bag of Feathers in his arms. So she vanisht, and he heard most delicate Musick as she went off, over his head; and he never was more troubled.

This account the poor fellow gave us every day as the Apparition spake to him, and my Lady Conway came to Portmore, where she askt the fellow the same questions and many more. This I know to be true, being all the while with my Lord of Down, and the fellow a poor Neat-herd there.

IT is no small confirmation to my self of the truth of these two last Stories, in both which my Lady Conway is mentioned, in that I received two Letters from that incomparable Lady out of Ireland touching them both. The former is dated, Lisburne, March 3. 1662. wherein she writes thus: I have spoken lately with two simple Country-people who have been much perplexed with two several persons who have died lately. The stories are too long to relate; but the circumstances are such, as I know not how to misbelieve the stories. The persons cannot be suspected to have any design, and were altogether unacquainted in the Families of them that appeared, and wholly ignorant of those things in them that they now relate, and have charge to sollicite the amendment of some miscarriages by some persons intrusted, which they could never hear of, as is supposed, by any other means. There are many other probabilities, but all evaded by several persons here. And to give you a taste of their goodly Evasions, I will transcribe a passage out of the other Letter of the said excellent Lady, dated, Lisburne, April 29. 1663. wherein she writes thus: The Relation I sent you of two in this Country is certainly liable to a little exception (there was mention of the Drummer of Tedworth before) as any one shall meet meet with ; As may appear by the diligent search some have made for a flaw and Objection against the parties , who, after all , they confess , must needs appear perfectly uninteressed, and impossible to have had from any concerned what they have delivered. But they believe that either Drunkenness or desperate Melancholy did by chance enable them to light upon greater truths than themselves thought of. Thus far that excellent person. And it was enough for this noble Lady onely to recite their solution of the Phænomenon into Melancholy and Drunkenness , it being so trifling and silly, that it wanted no further refutation than the mere recital.

That Drink may discover the secrets of him that is drunk, as the Poet observes , is reasonable enough : but that a man by being drunk is better capacitated to understand the secrets of another man, or of his Family, is so wilde a Paradox, that no sober man can admit it. And what is Melancholy but a natural Drunkenness when it ferments ? And moreover, it being but by chance that Melancholy or Drunkenness enables them to light upon such things, why may not Sanguine and Sobriety chance as well to do the same, and not rather better, if there be any betterness in things by chance ? But if there be any advantage in fermenting Melancholy or strong Drink , it is because the Soul is more excited, and made more ready to discover its own more inward furniture , as men in drink reveal their own Secrets. But the Soul has no innate Idea's of particular things, and therefore the greatest effervescency of Drink or Melancholy will not a jot better dispose her to the knowledge of Particulars, but indispose her for the reception of them from without. So blindly do these Witlings Philosophize touching things of this nature.

And yet, I dare say, this was the very best of their Evasions: Which being no better against these two Stories, and the Stories so sifted and examined (to say nothing of others) by a person of so quick a Wit, impartial Judgment and Sagacity, as I know that excellent Lady to have been, I must confess, that to me it is a confirmation as strong as I can desire for the main strokes of the Stories, of which I retain some memory, having heard a more particular account of them from her Ladyship presently upon her return from Ireland some sixteen years ago. Nor do doubt but Mr. Alcock has approved himself a faithful Reciter of them as to the main; nor can there any one rightly be deemed more fit and able, he being present at the Examination of Taverner, and dwelling at Portmore with the Bishop of Down, whose Servant Hunter was.

RELAT. XXVIII.

The Confessions of certain Scotch Witches, taken out of an authentick Copy of their Trial at the Assizes held at Paisley in Scotland, Feb. 15. 1678. touching the bewitching of Sir George Maxwel.

THE Tenour of the Confessions taken before Justices : As first of Annabil Stuart of the age of Fourteen years, or thereby ; who declared that she was brought in the presence of the Justices for the crime of Witchcraft ; and declared, that on Harvest last, the Devil in the shape of a Black man came to her Mothers House , and required the Declarant to give her self up to him ; and that the Devil promised her that she should not want any thing that was good. Declares, that she being enticed by her Mother Fannet Mathie , and Bessie Weir , who was Officer to their several meetings, she put her Hand to the crown of her Head , and the other to the sole of her Foot , and did give herself up to the Devil. Declares, that her Mother promised her a new Coat for doing of it. Declares, that her Spirits name was Enippa , and that the Devil took her by the Hand and nipped her Arm , which continued to be sore for half an hour. Declares, that the Devil in the shape of a black man lay with her in the Bed under the Clothes, and that she found him cold. Declares, that there after he placed her nearest himself. And declares, she was present in her Mothers house when the Effigies of Wax was made; and that it was made to represent Sir George Maxwell. Declares, that the black man, Janet Mathie, the Declarant's Mother (whose Spirit's name was Landlady;) Bessie Weir, whose Spirit's name is Sopha; Margaret Craige, whose Spirit's name is Rigerum; and Margaret Jackson, whose Spirit's name is Locas, were all present at the making of the said Effigies; and that they bound it on a Spit, and turned it before the Fire; and that it was turned by Bessie Weir, saying, as they turned it, Sir George Maxwell, Sir George Maxwell; and that this was expressed by all of them, and by the Declarant. Declares, that this Picture was made in October last. And further declares, that upon the third day of January Instant, Bessie Weir came to her Mother's house, and advertised her to come to her Brother John Stuart upon the night following. And that accordingly she came to the place, where she found Bessie Weir, Margery Craige, Margaret Jackson and her Brother John Stuart, and a man with black Clothes, a blue Band, and white Hand cuffs with hogers, and that his Feet were cloven. And the Declarant sat down by the Fire

Fire-side with them, when they made a Picture of Clay, in which they placed Pins in the Breast and Sides: And declares, that they placed one in every Side, and one in the Breast. Declared, that the black man did put the Pins in the Picture of Wax; but is not sure who put in the Pins in the Picture of Clay. Declares, that the Effigies produced are the Effigies she saw made. Declares, that the black mans name is Ejoall. This Declaration was emitted before James Dunlop of Hufil, William Gremlaye, &c. Jan. 27. 1677. Ita est. Robertus Park Notarius Publicus, &c.

The second Confession is of John Stuart, who being interrogate anent this crime of Witchcraft, declared, That upon Wednesday the third day of January Instant, Bessie Weir in Pollocton came to the Declarant late at night, who being without doors near his own house, the said Bessie Weir did intimate to him, that there was a meeting to be at his house the next day: And that the Devil under the shape of a black man, Margaret Jackson, Margery Craige, and the said Bessie Weir, were to be present. And that Bessie Weir required the Declarant to be there, which he promised. And that the next night, after the Declarant had gone to bed, the black man came in and called the Declarant quietly by his name. Upon which he arose from his Bed, and put on his Clothes, and lighted a Candle. Declares, that Margaret Jackson,

Jackson, Bessie Weir, and Margery Craige did enter in at a Window in the Gavil of the Declarant's house. And that the first thing that the black man required, was, that the Declarant should renounce his Baptism, and deliver himself up wholly to him : Which the Declarant did, by putting one hand on the crown of his Head, and the other on the sole of his Foot. And that he was tempted to it by the Devil's promising that he should not want any pleasure, and that he should get his heart filled on all that shall do him wrong. Declares, that he gave him the name of Jonas for his Spirits name. Declares, that thereafter the Devil required every one of their consents for the making of the Effigies of Clay for the taking away the life of Sir George Maxwel of Pollock, to revenge the taking of the Declarants Mother Fannet Mathie. Declares, that every one of the persons above named gave their consent to the making of the said Effigies, and that they wrought the Clay, and that the black man did make the figure of the Head and Face and two Arms to the said Effigies. Declares, that the Devil set three Pins in the same, one in each side, and one in the Breast : And that the Declarant did hold the Candle to them all the time the Picture was making. And that he observed one of the black man's Feet to be cloven : and that the black man's Apparel was black : and that he had a bluish Band

e did Band and Handcuffs; and that he had Hoe De- gers on his Legs without Shoes : and that the that black man's Voice was hough and goustie.
 Decla- And further declares, that after they had be-eliver gun the forming of the Effigies, his Sister An- Decla- nabil Stuart, a Childe of thirteen or fourteen crown years of age, came knocking at the Door, and of his being let in by the Declarant, she staid with y the them a considerable time, but that she went want away before the rest, he having opened the heart Door to her. Declares, that the rest went out De- at the Window at which they entred. Declares, as for that the Effigies was placed by Bessie Weir in r the his Bedstraw. He further declares, he himself es for did envy against Sir George Maxwel for appre-the hending Fannet Mathie his Mother : And that el of Bessie Weir had great malice against this Sir rants George Maxwel ; and that her quarrel was, as every the Declarant conceived, because the said Sir their George had not entred her Husband to his Har-
 , and vest-ierve; and also declares, that the said the Effigies was made upon the fourth-day of Ja- Head nuary Instant, and that the Devil's name was figies. Ejoall. Declares that his Spirits name was n the Jonas, and Bessie Weir's Spirits name, who was east : Officer, was Sopha ; and that Margaret Jack- andle son's Spirit's name was Locas ; and that Anna- king. bil Stuart's, the Declarant's Sister's was Enippa ; man's but does not remember what Margery Craige's man's Spirit's name was. Declares, that he cannot bluish write. This Confession was emitted in the Band pre-

presence of the Witnesses to the other Confession, and on the same day. Ita est. Robertus Park Notarius Publicus, &c.

The Confession of Margaret Jackson Relict of Tho. Stuart in Shaws, who being examined by the Justices anent her being guilty of Witchcraft, declares, That she was present at the making of the first Effigies and Picture that was made in Jannet Mathie's house in October, and that the Devil in the shape of a black man, Jannet Mathie, Bessie Weir, Margery Craige, and Annabil Stuart, was present at the making of the said Effigies, and that it was made to represent Sir George Maxwell of Pollock, for the taking away his life. Declares, that fourty years ago, or thereabout, she was at Pollockshaw-croft, with some few sticks on her back, and that the black man came to her, and that she did give up herself unto the black man from the top of her Head to the sole of her Foot; and that this was after the Declarants renouncing of her Baptism; and that the Spirit's name which he designed her was Locas. And that about the third or fourth of January Instant, or thereby, in the night-time when she awaked, she found a man to be in bed with her, whom she supposed to have been her Husband, though her Husband had been dead twenty years or thereby, and that the man immediately disappeared: and declares that this man who disappeared was the Devil.

De-

Declares, that upon Thursday the fourth of January Instant, she was present in the house of John Stuart at night when the Effigies of Clay was made, and that she saw the black man there, sometimes sitting, sometimes standing with John Stuart; and that the black man's Clothes were black, and that he had white Handcuffs. And that Bessie Weir in Pollockton, Annabil Stuart in Shaws, and Margery Craige were at the aforesaid time and place of making the said Effigies of Clay; and declares, that she gave her consent to the making of the same; and declares that the Devils name who compeired in the black man's shape was Ejoall. Sic subscribitur, Ita est. Robertus Park Notarius Publicus, &c.

Now follow the Depositions of certain persons agreeing with the Confessions of the abovesaid Witnesses.

Andr. Martin Servitour to the Lord of Pollock, of the age of Thirty years or thereby, Depones, That he was present in the house of Jannet Mathie Pannal when the Picture of Wax produced was found in a little hole in the Wall at the back of the Fire. Depones, that Sir George his Sicknes did fall upon him about the eighteenth of October or thereby. Depones, that the Picture of Wax was found on the * * of December, and that Sir George his Sicknes ness did abate and relent about the time the Picture of wax was found and discovered in Jannet Mathie's house. Depones, that the Pins were placed in the right and left sides, and that Sir George Maxwell of Pollock his pains, as he understood by Sir George's complaining of these pains, lay most in his right and left sides. And depones, that Sir George his pains did abate and relent after the finding of the said Picture of Wax and taking out of the Pins as is said. And depones, that the Pannal Jannet Mathie has been by fame and brute reputed a Witch these several years by past. And this is the truth as he shall answer to God. Sic Subscribitur Andr. Martin.

Laurence Pollock Secretary to the Lord of Pollock, sworn and purged of partial Counsel depones as follows, That on the  day of December he was in the Pannal Jannet Mathie's house when the Picture was found ; and that he did not see it before it was brought to the Pannal's door. Depones, that Sir George Maxwell of Pollock's sickness did seize upon him about the fourteenth of October or thereby, and he did continue in his Sickness or Distemper for six Weeks or thereby. Depones, that Sir George his Sickness did abate and relent after the finding of the said Picture of Wax and taking out of the Pins that were in the Effigies. Depones, that by open bruit and common fame, Jannet Mathie, and Bessie Weir and and Margery Craige, are brandit to be Witches. Depones, that the truth is this as he shall answer it to God. Sic Subscrib. Laurence Pollock.

Lodovic Stuart of Auchunhead being sworn and purged of partial Counsel, depones, That Sir George his Sickness fell upon him the fourteenth or fifteenth of October or thereby. Depones, that he was not present at the finding of the Picture of Wax; but that he had seen Sir George Maxwell of Pollock after it was found; and having seen him in his Sickness oftentimes before, he did perceive that Sir George had sensibly recovered after the time that the said Picture was said to be found, which was upon the 11th or 12th of December. Depones, that Jannet Mathie and Margery Craige two of the Pannals are by report of the Country said to be Witches. Depones, that he having come to Pollock he did see Sir George Maxwell, whose pains did recur, and that his pains and torments were greatly encreased in respect of what they were before the finding of the Picture of Wax. Depones, that upon the 8th of January when they left the said Sir George Maxwell of Pollock, the Deponent James Dunlop of Housil, Allan Douglace, and several others, did go to the house of John Stuart Warlock in Pollock-shaw, and there he found a Picture of Clay in the said John Stuart's Bedstraw. Depones, that there was three Pins in the said Picture of Clay, Clay, and that there was one in each side, and one in the Breast. And depones, that being returned to Sir George his house, Sir George told the Deponent that he found great ease of his pains, and that it was before the Deponent Housfl and the rest did reveal to him that they had found the said Picture of Clay; and further depones, that to his own observation he did perceive that Sir George had sensibly recovered. Depones, that they took the said John Stuart Pannal Prisoner with them at the finding of the said Effigies. And depones, that this is truth as he shall answer it to God. Sig Subscrib. Lodowick Stuart.

There follow more Depositions in the Copy, but these are the most for our purpose, and enough to discover that the Confession of those Witches are no Fables nor Dreams.

ADVERTISEMENT.

THese Confessions and Depositions are transcribed out of the Copy in the same Scottish Dialect that I found them; and several words there are which I profess I understand not, as those for example concerning the black mans Voice, that it was hough and gouftie: But if the voice of this black man be like that of his who appeared to the Witches whom Mr. Hunt examined, they may signify a big and low voice.

There

There is another Scottish Trial of Witches amongst Mr. Glanvil's Papers, with the same general subscription that this has, viz. Robert Martin Clerk to the Justice Court. But that is of too old a date, it being in the year 1590, to comply with the title of our Stories. But it being a true Copy of Record so Authentick, though not so fresh, it may haply not be amiss briefly to name some Effects, Kinds, or Circumstances of Witchcraft therein mentioned; such especially as have not occurred in the foregoing Stories; as the giving and taking away power from sundry mens Genital-members, For which Jannet Clark was accused.

That which is observable in John Fiene is, that the Devil appeared to him not in black, but in white raiment; but proposed as hellish a Covenant to him as those Fiends that appear in black. As also lying dead two or three hours, and his Spirit tane, (as the Phrase in the Record is) his being carried or transported to many Mountains, and, as he thought, through the world, according to his own Depositions. His hearing the Devil preach in a Kirk in the Pulpit in the night by candle-light, the Candle burning blue. That in a Conventicle of Witches, whose names are specified in the Record, he with the rest at parting kissed the Devil's Breech; the Record speaks more broadly. His skimming on the Sea in a Boat with those of his gang, and his foretelling the leak in the Queens Ship by the help of the Devil. His raising Winds with the rest at the King's passage into Denmark, by casting a Cat into the Sea, which the Devil delivered to them, and taught them to cry Hola when they cast it in. His raising a Mist at the King's return from Denmark, by getting Satan to cast a thing like a Foot-ball (it appeared to John like a Wisp) into the Sea, which made a vapour or reek to arise, whereby the King's Majesty might be cast upon the Coast of England. His hearing the Devil again preach in a Pulpit in black, who after pointed them to Graves, to open and dismember the Corpse therein; which done, incontinently they were transported without words. His opening Locks by Sorcery, as one by mere blowing into a womans hand while he sate by the Fire. His raising four Candles on the Luggs of an Horse, and another on the top of the Staff of his Rider in the night, that he made it as light as day; and how the man fell down dead at the entring within his house at his return home. His imbarquing in a Boat with other Witches, and sailing over Sea, and entring within a ship, and drinking good Wine and Ale there, and sinking the Ship when they had done, with the persons in it. His kissing Satan's Breech again after another Conventicle. His being swiftly carried above in the chasing of a Cat to catch her to cast into the Sea, thereby to raise Winds, according to the prescription of Satan. His pretending to tell any man how long he should live if he told him but the day of his birth.

There are also several things in Agnes Symphon's Witchcraft, such as there scarce occur the like in the foregoing stories. As her skill in Diseases. That the sickness of Will. Black was an Elf-shot. Her healing also of them by Sorcery, and foretelling the party whether he should live or die, and others how long they should live. Her taking the sick parties pains and sickness upon herself for a time, and then translating it to a third person. Her use of long scriptural Prayers and Rhymes containing the main points of Christianity, so that she may seem to have been not so much a white Witch as an holy woman. And yet it is upon Record that she made a Covenant with the Devil in the shape of a man, and in suchlike hellish manner as other Witches do. But when she sought for answers from the Devil upon any occasion, he appeared to her in the shape of a Dog; but the formula of her dismissing of him, was, The charging him to depart on the Law he lives on, as she did when she dismissed him after her consulting him about the old Lady Edmonston's sickness; but her invocation was, Elva, come and speak to me, who came in the likeness of a Dog. Her sailing with her fellow-Witches in a Boat to a Ship, where the Devil caused her to drink good Wine, she neither seeing the Mariners, nor the Mariners her. But after all, the Devil raised a Wind whereby the ship perished. Her baptizing, and using other Ceremonies upon a Cat, with other Witches, to hinder the Queen's coming into Scotland. Her raising of a Spirit to conjure a Picture of Wax for the destroying of Mr. John Moscrope.

Hitherto I have brought but small shreds out of this ancient Record, but I will conclude with a full Paragraph, it containing the Confession of Agnes Sympson to King James then King of the Scots : Which is this.

Item, Fyled and convict for sameckle as she confest before his Majesty, that the Devil in mans likeness met her going out in the Fields from her own house at Keith betwixt five and six at Even, being alone, and comman-dit her to be at North-bervick-Kirk the next night. And she past then on Horseback, conveyed by her good-son called John Couper, and lighted at the Kirk-yard, or a little before she came to it, about eleven hours at Even. They danced along the Kirk-yard, Geilie Duncan plaid to them on a Trump, John Fien muffled led all the rest ; the said Agnes and her Daughter followed next. Besides, there were Kate Grey, George Moilis Wife, Robert Greirson, Katharine Duncan, Bessie Right, Isabel Gilmore, John Gray-maill, maill, Duncan Buchanan, Thomas Barnhil and his Wife, Gilbert Macgil, John Macgil, Katharine Macgil, with the rest of their Complices above an hundred persons, whereof there were six Men, and all the rest Women. The Women made first their homage, and then the Men. The Men were turned nine times widder shins about, and the Women six times. John Fien blew up the Doors and blew in the Lights, which were like mickle black Candles sticking round about the Pulpit. The Devil startit up himself in the Pulpit like a mickle black man, and every one answered Here. Mr. Robert Greirson being named, they ran all hirdie girdie, and were angry: for it was promised he should be called Robert the Comp-troller, alias Rob the Rowar, for expriming of his name. The first thing he demandit was, if they kept all promise, and been good Servants, and what they had done since the last time they had conveyined. At his command they opened up three Graves, two within and ane without the Kirk, and took off the joynts of their Fingers, Toes, and Neise, and parted them amongst them: and the said Agnes Sym-son got for her part a Winding-sheet and two Joynts. The Devil commandit them to keep the Joynts upon them while they were dry, and then to make a powder of them to do evil withal. Then he commandit them to keep his Commandments, which were to do all the evil they could. Before they departed they kiss'd his Breech; the Record speaks more broad, as I noted before. He had on him ane Gown and ane Hat, which were both black: and they that were assembled part stood and part sate: John Fien was ever nearest the Devil at his left Elbock, Graymaill kepted the door.

I have retained the Scotch Dialect here also, for the more Authentickness of the matter, and have adjoyned this large Paragraph, the Confession therein contained being in all probability a more special occasion of King James his changing his opinion touching the Existence of Witches, which he was, as is reported, inclinable to think to be but a mere conceit before. For he was then but young, not passing five or six and Twenty years of age when this Examination was had before him. And part of the Third Chapter of his Second Book of his Dæmonologie seems to be a Transcript of this very Confession. Wherefore this being so considerable an occurrence touching a business of such moment, the bringing in here so old a Story amongst those of fresher memory, will, I hope, bring along with it its own excuse.

Thus have we contrived all the Relations in Mr. Glanvil's Papers which were thought considerable, into this second Part of his Saducismus Triumphatus. He once intended to sub-

joyn thereto an Answer to Webster, Wagstaff, and the Author of the Doctrine of Devils, as you may observe from the first Section of his Proof of Apparitions, &c. from holy Scripture: but partly by bringing in already the chief things in that rude draught begun, into what is here published, and partly by stating the Question truly and with right judgement, he has prevented himself, and made that labour needless. As indeed in a manner it ever was, their Objections against Mr. Glanvil's Opinion on these points, being wondrous weak, sorry and sophistical, and such as it were pity that any man of parts who can bestow his time better should squander it away in confuting such trifles.

There is nothing that makes any least shew of strength, but that touching the palpability of the consistency of the Bodies of the Familiars of Witches, as if it weakened our Saviour's Argument to his Disciples for his Resurrection, where he bids them handle him and see, for a Spirit has not Flesh and Bones as they see him have. And he bids Thomas thrust his Hand into his Side, that they might be sure he was no Spectre or Spirit, but the very Christ with his Flesh, Bloud, and Bones as he had before his Crucifixion; and they were as well ascertained of this, as sense, nay the surest sense, that of Touch or Feeling, could make them, that he had really Flesh and Bones, and such a temperament as humane Bodies have. Nor can any cavil avail against this from the Familiars of Witches, that will not as well weaken the assurance that we converse with such or such a Friend, but with some Spectre like him; So that the Allegation is as weak as peevish and malicious. And if he should doubt whether it was his real Friend, or some Spectre, if his Friend should offer himself, as our Saviour did, to be touched, searched and felt, would not any body think it were sufficient assurance? But for a perverse Caviller or crazy Sceptick, what is it that will satisfie them?

But it may be it will be said, that there be concomitant considerations that will assure the party it is his Friend and not a Spectre. And are there not concomitant considerations here also? The ancient Prophecies, and Christ's own Prediction that he should rise from the dead out of the Grave. And that God is a God of truth, and not of unfaithfulness and imposture: Which assurance is of a more high and divine Tenour than that of feeling his Body. And therefore our Saviour saith to Thomas; T H O M A S, because thou hast seen me thou hast believed, Blessed are they that have not seen and yet have believed: For it is a sign that a more noble and heavenly principle is awakened in them, that dispels that thick Mist of Sceptical stupor and dulness. It is a sign they they are of a more holy, pure, and refined temper. And besides all this, What Spectre ever challenged any one to make such a Trial as this, to feel whether he was not very Flesh and Bone as real men are, when he would impose upon any? Or how is it proved, though Spirits can bring their Vehicle to a palpable consistency, that they can turn it into such as shall feel of the same articulate palpableness of Flesh and Bone and Temperament that are in living men? Till this appear by confest experience to be in the palpable consistency of Familiars or Spirits that transact with Witches, the Allegation is infinitely weak upon that account also, as weak as spiteful and perverse. But the Hag-Advocates will alledge any foolish thing, rather than seem to be able to say nothing.

In the mean time I think it here seasonable to declare, that though this intended Edition of Saducismus Triumphatus had not the happiness to be perfected by the ingenious Author's own hand before his death, yet such Materials he left behind him, and the work in such a forwardness, that things being put together in that order and distinctness which they are, the Discourse may prove as useful for the reclaiming men from Saducism, though perhaps not altogether so delightful, as if his own hand had had the last polishing of it. And the publishing of it will also do him that right in the eyes of

of the world, that (whereas he was suspected haply for some complaisance towards some persons that were over-inclinable to Hobbiarism, to have shrunk from the sense of such noble Theories, with which his mind was enlightened in the morning of his days) it from hence may appear that these things stuck close to him, and that he entertained them with a sincere warmth all along, as is evident from these Papers then private within his own Study-walls. As the profession of them broke out from him most expressly when he lay on his Death-bed, as his intimate friend Mr. Thomas Alcock largely sets down in a Letter written to Dr. H. More. And I think that is the time, if ever that men will speak their thoughts freely, as the Poet hath observed in the like case,

To this Sense,

Then 'tis men from their Hearts their Mind declare,

Cast off their Vizards, shew their faces bare.

Matter of Fact related in the ensuing Narrative.

T *Hat we are to believe nothing but what we have seen, is a rule so false, that we dare not call our selves rational Creatures, and avouch it; yet as irrational as the Maxime is,
'tis become modish with some men, and those no very mean Wits neither, to make use of it; and though they will hardly own it in its full Latitude, yet when it comes to Particulars, let the Reasons to the contrary be never so pregnant or convincing, they'll hugg it as their sacred Anchor, and laugh at all those credulous Wretches that, without seeing, are so easily chous'd into an imprudent Confidence. And this pitiful Stratagem we find practised in no affair so much as that of Spirits and Witches, and Apparitions, which must all be Fancies, and Hypochondriack Dreams, and the effects of distempered Brains, because their own are so dull, as not to be able to pierce into those Mysteries. I do not deny but the Imagination may be, and is sometime, deluded; and melancholy People may fancy they hear Voices, and see very strange things, which have no other foundation but their own weakness, and like Bubbles break into Air, and nothing, by their own vanity.

Let as no man doth therefore take unpolisht Diamonds to be Pebbles, because they do look like them, so neither must all passages of this nature we hear or read of, be traduced as self-conceit, or derided as Old Wives Fables, because some smell strong of Imposture and Sophistication. We believe men of Reason and Experience, and free from Fumes, when a person of ordinary Intellectuals finds no great credit with us; and if we think our selves wise for doing so, why should any man so much forget himself, as to be an Infidel in point of such Phenomena's, when even the most judicious men have had experience of such passages? It seems to me no less than madness to contradict what both wise and unwise men do unanimously agree in; and how Jews, Heathens, Mahometans, and Christians, both learned and unlearned, should come to conspire into this Cheat, as yet seems to me unaccountable. If some few melancholy Monks, or Old Women had seen such Ghosts and Apparitions, we might then suspect that what they pretend to have seen might be nothing, but the effect of a disordered Imagination; but when the whole World, as it were, and men of all Religions, men of all Ages too, have been forced, by strong evidences, to acknowledge the truth of such occurrences, I know not what strength there can be in the Argument drawn from the consent of Nations in things of a sublimer nature, if here it be of no efficacy. Men that have attempted to evade the places of Scripture which speak of Ghosts and Witches, we see how they are forced to turn and wind the Texts, and make, in a manner, Noses of Wax of them, and rather squeeze than gather the sense, as if the holy Writers had spoke like Sophisters, and not like men who made it their business to condescend to the capacity of the Common people. Let a man put no force at all on those passages of holy Writ, and then see what sense they are like to yield. It's strange to see how some men have endeavoured to elude the Story of the Witch of Endor; and as far as I can judge, they play more Hocus-Pocus tricks in the explication of that passage, than the Witch herself did in raising the deceased Samuel. To those Straits is Falshood driven, while Truth loves Plains, and undisguised Expressions; and Errour will seek out Holes and Labyrinths to hide itself, while Truth plays above-board, and scorning the subterfuges of the Sceptick Interpreter. Men and Brethren, Why should it seem a thing incredible with you that God should permit Spirits to appear, and the Devil to exert his Power among among men on Earth? Hath God ever engaged his word to the contrary; or is it against the nature of Spirits to assume airy Vehicles and Bodies of condensed Air, or to animate gross substances to shew themselves to mortals upon certain occasions?

I am so much a Prophet as to foresee what will be the fate of the ensuing story, nor can I suppose that upon the reading of it, mens verdict will be much changed from what they were, if they have set up this resolution, to believe nothing that looks like the shadow of an Apparition, though the things mentioned here cannot be unknown to any that have been conversant with forrain affairs of late years. And though there cannot be greater evidence than the testimony of a whole Kingdom, yet your nicer men will think it a disparagement to them to believe it; nor will they ever extort Assent from any that build the reputation of their wit upon contradicting what has been received by the vulgar.

The passages here related wrought so great Consternation, not onely on the Natives, but Strangers too, that the Heer Christian Rump, then Resident for the States General at Stockholm, thought himself obliged to send away his little Son for Holland, lest he should be endangered by these villanous practices, which seemed to threaten all the Inhabitants of the Kingdom. And a friend of mine in Town, being then in Holstein remembers very well that the Duke of Holstein sent an Express to the King of Sweden to know the truth of this famous Witchcraft : To whom the King modestly replied, That his Judges and Commissioners had caused divers Men, Women, and Children to be Burnt and Executed upon such pregnant Evidences as were brought before them ; but whether the Actions they confessed, and which were proved against them, were real, or onely effects of strong Imagination, he was not as yet able to determine.

Add to all this, that the Circumstances mentioned in the ensuing Narrative, are at this day to be seen in the Royal Chancery at Stockholm ; and a person of my acquaintance offered me to procure a Copy of them under the hands of publick Registers, if I desired it : Not to mention that in the year 72. Baron Sparr, who was sent Embassadour from the Crown of Sweden to the Court of England, did upon his word aver the matter of Fact recorded here to be undoubtedly true, to several persons of Note and Eminency, with other particulars, stranger than those set down in these Papers. And to this purpose divers Letters were sent from Sweden and Hamburgh to several persons here in London ; insomuch, that should a man born in, or acquainted with those parts, hear any person dispute the truth of it, he would wonder where people have lived, or what sullen humour doth possess them, to disbelieve that which so many thousands in that Kingdom have felt the sad effect of.

The Preface.

That a Spirit can lift up Men and Women, and grosser Bodies, into the Air, I question no more, than I doubt that the Wind can overthrow Houses, or drive Stones upward from their Centre. And though I cannot comprehend the Philosophie of her committing Venereal acts, and having Children, and those Children bringing forth Toads and Serpents; yet I can very rationally conceive that he can animate dead Bodies, and by the help of them commit those villanies which modesty bids us to conceal; and he that was permitted, as we see in the Gospel, to possess and actuate living men, and do with them almost what he pleased, why may not he commit wickedness by such Instruments, and cast Mists before the Witches eyes, that they may not know who they are? And he that could in Ægypt produce Frogs, either real or counterfeit ones, Why may not he be supposed to be able to produce such Toads and Serpents out of any misshapen Creatures, and of his own making? Spirits that know the nature of things better than man, and understand better how things are joyned and compounded, and what the Ingredients of terrestrial Productions are, and see things in their first principles, and have power over the Air, and other Elements, and have a thousand ways of shaping things and representing them to the sensual minds of men, what may not they be supposed to be able to do, if they have but God's permission to exert their power? and that God doth sometimes permit such things, we

we have reason to believe, that see men sink into most sottish wickedness, which very often produces that fatal Sentence we read of in the Evangelist; He that is filthy, let him be filthy still. And certainly there is such a Judgement, that men are given up to believe a Lye, and that God sends them strong Delusions as punishments for their wilful obstinacy and resisting of the Truth. Spirits by being Devils do not lose their nature; and let any man in sober sadness consider what Spirits are said to be able to do in Scripture, and what they have done, and compare them with what is said in the following Relation, and he will not think those things the Witches confessed altogether impossible.

I could add a known passage that happen'd in the year 1659. at Crassen in Philesia, of an Apothecarie's Servant, one Christopher Manigh, who after his death returned to his Master's Shop, and seemed to be mighty busie there. walked about in the open Streets, but spoke to no creature but to a Maid-servant, and then vanished; a thing which abundance of people, now living, will take their Oath upon, that they saw him after his decease, at least his shape, and which occasioned publick Disputations in the University of Wittemberg: but it's needless. If the Stories related in the foregoing Book are not sufficient to Convince men, I am sure an Example from beyond sea will gain no Credit. It's enough that I have shewn Reasons which may induce my Reader to believe, that he is not imposed upon by the following Narrative, and that it is not in the nature of those Pamphlets they cry about the Streets, containing very dreadful News from the Country of Armies fighting in the Air.

Farewel.

A Re-

A Relation of the strange Witchcraft discovered in the Village Mohra in Swedeland, taken out of the publick Register of the Lords Commissioners appointed by His Majesty the King of Sweden to examine the whole business, in the years of our Lord 1669. and 1670.

THE news of this Witchcraft coming to the Kings ear, his Majesty was pleased to appoint Commissioners, some of the Clergy, and some of the Laity, to make a Journey to the Town aforesaid, and to examine the whole business; and accordingly the Examination was ordered to be on the 13th of August; and the Commissioners met on the 12th instant, in the said Village, at the Parsons House, to whom both the Minister and several people of fashion complained with tears in their eyes, of the miserable condition they were in, and therefore begg'd of them to think of some way whereby they might be delivered from their Calamity. They gave the Commissioners very strange Instances of the Devils Tyranny among them; how by the help of Witches, he had drawn some Hundreds of Children to him, and made them subject to his power; how he hath been seen to go in a Visible shape through the Country, and appeared daily to the people ; how he had wrought upon the poorer sort, by presenting them with Meat and Drink , and this way allured them to himself, with other circumstances to be mentioned hereafter. The Inhabitants of the Village added, with very great lamentations , that though their Children had told all , and sought God very earnestly by Prayer, they were carried away by him ; and therefore begg'd of the Lords Commissioners to root out these Witches, that they might regain their former rest and quietness ; and the rather , because the Children which used to be carried away there in the County or District of Elfdale, since some Witches had been burnt there, remained unmolested.

That day being the last Humiliation-day Instituted by Authority for the removing of this judgment, the Commissioners went to Church, where there appeared a considerable Assembly both of young and old : the Children could read most of them , and sing Psalms , and so could the Women, though not with any great zeal or fervor. There were preached two Sermons that day, in which the miserable case of those people that suffered themselves to be deluded by the Devil, was laid open ; and these Sermons were at last concluded with very fervent prayer.

The Publick Worship being over, all the people of the Town were called together to the Parsons

Parsons House, near three thousand of them. Silence being commanded, the Kings Commission was read publickly in the hearing of them all, and they were charged under very great penalties to conceal nothing of the truth, and to say nothing but the truth; those especially who were guilty, that the Children might be delivered from the Clutches of the Devil. They all promised obedience; the guilty feignedly, but the guiltless weeping and crying bitterly.

On the 14th of August the Commissioners met again, consulting how they might withstand this dangerous flood; after long deliberation, an Order also coming from his Majesty, they did resolve to execute such, as the matter of fact could be proved upon, Examination being made; for there were discovered no less than Threescore and ten in the Village aforesaid, Three and twenty of which freely confessing their Crimes, were condemned to dye; the rest, one pretending that she was with Child, and the other denying and pleading not guilty, were sent to Fahluna, where most of them were afterwards Executed.

Fifteen Children which likewise confessed that they were engaged in this Witchery, died as the rest; six and thirty of them between nine and sixteen years of age, who had been less guilty, were forced to run the gantlet; twenty more, who had no great inclination, yet had been seduced to those Hellish Enterprizes, because they were very young, were condemned to be lash'd with Rods upon their hands, for three Sundays together at the Church-door ; and the aforesaid fix and thirty were also deem'd to be lashed this way once a week for a whole year together. The number of the Seduced Children was about three hundred.

On the twenty fifth of August , Execution was done upon the notoriously guilty, the day being bright and glorious, and the Sun shining, and some thousands of people being present at the spectacle. The Order and Method observed in the Examination was thus :

First, the Commissioners and the Neighbouring Justices went to prayer ; this done , the Witches, who had most of them Children with them , which they either had Seduced, or attempted to Seduce , from four years of age to sixteen , were set before them. Some of the Children complained lamentably of the misery and mischief they were forced sometime to suffer of the Witches.

The Children being asked whether they were sure that they were at any time carried away by the Devil ; they all declared they were , begging of the Commissioners that they might be freed from that intolerable yolk.

Hereupon the Witches themselves were asked, whether the Confessions of these Children were true, and admonished to confess the truth, that they might turn away from the Devil unto the living God. At first, most of them did very stiffly, and without shedding the least tear, deny it, though much against their will and inclination.
that

After this, the Children were Examined every one by themselves, to see whether their Confessions did agree or no; and the Commissioners found that all of them, except some very little ones, who could not tell all the Circumstances, did punctually agree in the confession of particulars.

In the mean while the Commissioners that were of the Clergy examined the Witches, but could not bring them to any Confession, all continuing stedfast in their denials, till at last some of them burst out into tears, and their Confession agreed with what the Children had said. And these expressed their abhorrency of the fact, and begg'd pardon; adding, that the Devil, whom they call'd Loeyta, had stopt the Mouths of some of them, and stopt the Ears of others; and being now gone from them, they could no longer conceal it, for they now perceived his Treachery.

The Confession which the Witches made in Elfdale, to the Judges there, agreed with the Confession they made at Mohra: and the chief things they confessed, consisted in these three points.

I. Whi-

1. Whither they used to go.
2. What kind of place it was they went to, called by them Blockula, where the Witches and the Devil used to meet.
3. What evil or mischief they had either done or designed there.

1. Of their Journey to Blockula. The Contents of their Confession.

WE of the Province Elfdale, do confess that we used to go to a gravel-pit which lay hard by a cross-way, and there we put on a garment over our heads, and then danced round, and after this ran to the cross-way, and called the Devil thrice, first with a still voice, the second time somewhat louder, and the third time very loud, with these words, Antecessor come and carry us to Blockula. Whereupon, immediately he used to appear, but in different Habits; but for the most part we saw him in a gray Coat, and red and blue Stockings: he had a red Beard, a high-crown'd Hat, with Linnen of divers colours wrapt about it, and long Garters upon his Stockings.

Then he asked us whether we would serve him with Soul and Body. If we were content to do so, he set us on a Beast which he had there ready, and carried us over Churches and high walls; and after all, we came to a green Meadow where Blockula lies. We must procure cure some shavings of Altars, and Church-Clocks; and then he gives us a horn with a Salve in it, wherewith we do anoint our selves; and then he gives us a Saddle, with a Hammer and a wooden nail, thereby to fix the Saddle; whereupon we call upon the Devil, and away we go.

Those that were at the Town of Mobra, made in a manner the same Declaration: being asked whether they were sure of a real personal Transportation, and whether they were awake then when it was done; they all answered in the Affirmative, and that the Devil sometimes laid something down in the place that was very like them. But one of them confessed, that he did onely take away her strength, and her body lay still upon the ground; yet sometimes he took even her body with him.

Being asked how they could go with their Bodies through Chimneys and broken panes of Glafs, they said, that the Devil did first remove all that might hinder them in their flight, and so they had room enough to go.

Others were asked how they were able to carry so many Children with them; and they answered, that when the Children were asleep they came into the Chamber, laid hold of the Children, which straightway did awake, and asked them whether they would go to a Feast with them; to which some answer'd, Yes, others

No;

No; yet they were all forced to go. They only gave the Children a Shirt, a Coat and a Doublet, which was either red or blue, and so they did set them upon a beast of the Devils providing, and then they rid away.

The Children confessed the same thing; and some added, that because they had very fine cloaths put upon them, they were very willing to go.

Some of the Children concealed it from their Parents, but others discover'd it to them presently.

The Witches declared moreover, that till of late they never had that power to carry away Children, but onely this year and the last, and the Devil did at this time force them to it; that heretofore it was sufficient to carry but one of their Children, or a strangers Child with them, which yet hapned seldom, but now he did plague them and whip them if they did not procure him Children, insomuch that they had no peace nor quiet for him; and whereas formerly one journey a week would serve turn, from their own Town to the place aforesaid, now they were forced to run to other Towns and places for Children, and that some of them did bring with them some fifteen, some sixteen Children every night.

For their journey they said they made use of all sorts of Instruments, of Beasts, of Men, of Spits and Posts, according as they had opportunity.

portunity : if they do ride upon Goats, and have many Children with them, that all may have room, they stick a spit into the backside of the Goat, and then are anointed with the aforefaid ointment. What the manner of their Journey is, God alone knows. Thus much was made out, That if the Children did at any time name the Names of those that had carried them away, they were again carried by force either to Blockula, or to the Cross way, and there miserably beaten, insomuch that some of them died of it : and this some of the Witches confessed ; and added, That now they were exceedingly troubled and tortured in their minds for it.

The Children thus used lookt mighty bleak, wan, and beaten. The marks of the Lashes the Judges could not perceive in them, except in one Boy, who had some wounds and holes in his Back that were given him with Thorns ; but the Witches said they would quickly vanish.

After this usage the Children are exceeding weak ; and if any be carried over-night, they cannot recover themselves the next day ; and this happens to them by fits : And if a fit comes upon them, they lean on their Mothers Arms, who sit with them up sometimes all night ; and when they observe the Paleness coming, they shake the Children, but to no purpose.

They observe further, that their Childrens Breasts grow cold at such times ; and they take take sometimes a burning Candle and stick it in their Hair, which yet is not burnt by it. They swoun upon this paleness, which Swoun lasteth sometimes half an hour, sometimes an hour, sometimes two hours; and when the Children come to themselves again, they mourn, and lament, and groan most miserably, and beg exceedingly to be eased: This two old men declared upon Oath before the Judges, and called all the Inhabitants of the Town to witness, as persons that had most of them experience of this strange Symptome of their Children.

A little girl of Elfdale confessed, That naming the name of Jesus as she was carried away, she fell suddenly upon the Ground, and got a great hole in her Side, which the Devil presently healed up again, and away he carried her; and to this day the girl confessed she had exceeding great pain in her side.

Another Boy confessed too, That one day he was carried away by his Mistriss, and to perform the Journey he took his own Father's Horse out of the Meadow where it was, and upon his return she let the Horse go in her own ground.

The next morning the Boys Father sought for his Horse, and not finding it, gave it over for lost; but the Boy told him the whole story, and so his Father fetcht the Horse back again; and this one of the Witches confessed.

Of the place where they used to assemble, called Blockula, and what they did there.

They unanimously confessed that Blockula is situated in a delicate large Meadow whereof you can see no end. The place or house they met at, had before it a Gate painted with divers colours; through this Gate they went into a little Meadow distinct from the other, where the Beasts went that they used to ride on: But the Men whom they made use of in their Journey, stood in the House by the Gate in a slumbering posture, sleeping against the wall.

In a huge large Room of this House, they said, there stood a very long Table, at which the Witches did sit down: And that hard by this Room was another Chamber where there were very lovely and delicate Beds.

The first thing they said they must do at Blockula was, That they must deny all, and devote themselves Body and Soul to the Devil, and promise to serve him faithfully, and confirm all this with an Oath. Hereupon they put their Fingers, and with their blood writ their Name in his Book. They added, that he caused them to be Baptized too by such Priests as he had there, and made them confirm their Baptism with dreadful Oaths and Imprecations.

Hereupon

Hereupon the Devil gave them a Purse wherein there were shavings of Clocks with a Stone tied to it, which they threw into the Water, and then were forced to speak these words ; As these Shavings of the Clock do never return to the Clock from which they are taken so may my Soul never return to Heaven. To which they add Blasphemy and other Oaths and Curses.

The mark of their cut Fingers is not found in all of them : But a Girl who had been flayed over her Fingers, declared, That because she would not stretch out her Fingers, the Devil in anger had so cruelly wounded it.

After this they sat down to Table ; and those that the Devil esteemed most, were placed nearest to him ; but the Children must stand at the door, where he himself gives them meat and drink.

The diet they did use to have there, was they said, Broth with Colworts and Bacon in it, Oatmeal, Bread spread with Butter, Milk and Cheese. And they added, that sometime it tasted very well, and sometimes very ill. After meals they went to Dancing, and in the mean while Swear and Curse most dreadfully and afterward they went to fighting one with another.

Those of Elfdale confessed, That the Devil used to play upon an Harp before them, and afterwards to go with them that he liked best into

 witous Acts with them; and this indeed all con-to the fessed, That he had carnal knowledge of them, the and that the Devil had Sons and Daughters never which he did marry together, and they did taken couple, and brought forth Toads and Ser-Tents.

Oath One day the Devil seemed to be dead, whereupon there was great lamentation at found Blockula; but he soon awaked again. If he been hath a mind to be merry with them, he lets because them all ride upon Spits before him; takes , the afterwards the Spits and beats them black and blue, and then laughs at them. And he bids
 ; and them believe that the day of Judgement re pla will come speedily, and therefore sets them must on work to build a great House of Stone, pro-them mising, that in that House he will preserve them from God's Fury, and cause them to was enjoy the greatest delights and pleasures:
 on in but while they work exceeding hard at it, Mill there falls a great part of the Wall down a-etime gain, whereby some of the Witches are comy ill monly hurt, which makes him laugh, but pren the sently he cures them again.

fully They said they had seen sometimes a very e with great Devil like a Dragon with fire round a-about him, and bound with an Iron Chain; Devil and the Devil that converses with them tells , and them, that if they confess any thing, he will d be let that Great Devil loose upon them, whereby all Swedeland shall come into great danger.

They added, That the Devil had a Church there, such another as is in the Town of Mohra. When the Commissioners were coming, He told the Witches, they should not fear them; for he would certainly kill them all. And they confessed, that some of them had attempted to murder the Commissioners, but had not been able to effect it.

Some of the Children talked much of a white Angel which used to forbid them doing what the Devil had bid them do, and told them that those doings should not last long: what had been done, had been permitted because of the wickedness of the People, and the carrying away of the Children should be made manifest. And they added, that this white Angel would place himself sometimes at the Door betwixt the Witches and the Children; and when they came to Blockula he pulled the Children back, but the Witches they went in.

3. Of the Mischief or Evil which the Witches promised to do to Men and Beasts.

They confessed that they were to promise the Devil that they would do all that's Ill; and that the Devil taught them to milk, which was in this wise: They used to stick a Knife in the Wall, and hang a kind of a Label on it, which they drew and stroaked; and as long as this lasted, the persons that they have power over were miserably plagued, and the Beasts were milked that way, till sometimes they died of it.

A Woman confessed, That the Devil gave her a wooden Knife, wherewith, going into houses, she had power to kill any thing she touched with it; yet there were few that would confess that they had hurt any man or woman.

Being asked whether they had murdered any Children, they confessed, that they had indeed tormented them, but did not know whether any of them had died of those plagues. And added, That the Devil had shewed them several places where he had power to do mischief.

The Minister of Elfdale declared, That one night these Witches were, to his thinking, upon the crown of his Head, and that from thence he had had a long continued pain of the Head.

One of the Witches confessed too, that the Devil had sent her to torment that Minister: and that she was ordered to use a Nail and strike it into his head, but it would not enter very deep; and hence came that Head-ach.

The aforesaid Minister said also, That one night he felt a pain as if it were torn with an Instrument that they cleanse Flax with, or a Flax-comb; and when he waked he heard some-body scratching and scraping at the Window, but could see no-body. And one of the Witches confessed, that she was the person that did it, being sent by the Devil.

The Minister of Mobra declared also, that one night one of these Witches came into his house, and did so violently take him by the Throat, that he thought he should have been choaked; and waking, he saw the person that did it, but could not know her; and that for some Weeks he was not able to speak, or perform Divine Service.

An Old woman of Elfdale confessed, that the Devil had holpen her to make a Nail, which she struck into a boys Knee, of which stroke the Boy remained lame a long time. And she added, that before she burnt or was Executed by the hand of Justice, the boy would recover.

They confessed also, that the Devil gives them a Beast about the bigness and shape of a young Cat, which they call a Carrier; and that that he gives them a Bird too as big as a Raven, but white. And these two creatures they can send any where; and where-ever they come, they take away all sorts of Victuals they can get, Butter, Cheese, Milk, Bacon, and all sorts of Seeds whatever they find, and carry it to the Witch. What the Bird brings they may keep for themselves; but what the Carrier brings they must reserve for the Devil, and that's brought to Blockula, where he doth give them of it so much as he thinks fit.

They add likewise, that these Carriers fill themselves so full, sometimes, that they are forced to spew by the way, which spewing is found in several Gardens where Colworts grow, and not far from the houses of those Witches. It is of a yellow colour like Gold, and is called Butter of Witches.

The Lords Commissioners were indeed very earnest, and took great pains to perswade them to shew some of their Tricks, but to no purpose; for they did all unanimously confess, that since they had confessed all, they found that all their Witchcraft was gone, and that the Devil at this time appeared to them very terrible, with Claws on his Hands and Feet, and with Horns on his Head, and a long Tail behind, and shewed to them a Pit burning, with a Hand put out; but the Devil did thrust the person down again with an Iron-fork; and suggested to the Witches, that if they con-

The abovesaid Relation is taken out of the Publick Register, where all this is related with more Circumstances. And at this time through all the Country there are Prayers weekly in all Churches, to the end that Almighty God would pull down the Devils Power, and deliver those poor Creatures which have hitherto groaned under it.
